LEAGUE IS NOT DEAD, ROOT TOLD HARDING BY CABLE IN AUGUST

Chaos and Disaster, Involving Us, Would Follow Attempt to Scrap Treaty, He Said.

HAYS ASKED FOR HIS VIEW

Message Was Sent to Another Person, but Evidently Intended to Reach Candidate.

URGED TREATY AMENDMENT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Elihu Root, it was disclosed today, opposed last August the idea of "scrapping" the League of Nations and made his position known in a cablegram from London, intended for Senator Harding's confidential information.

In his message, which was made public today by David Lawrence in a copyrighted article, the ex-Secretary of State said that "it would be very unwise to declare the League dead," as "it would not be true." He added that to attempt a new deal by "abandoning the Versailles Treaty" would "bring chaos and entire loss of the results of the war and general disasters, involving the United States."

The cablegram was sent following a request of Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, who, according to Mr. Lawrence, asked whether the Hague Court could not be so defined as to include the work supposed to be the object of the League of Nations. The reply was sent to another person, but was evidently intended for Senator Harding.

Mr. Root's Message.

"Declaration on which Hays asks an opinion cannot be defined. The Hague court cannot be made to cover anything but justiciable questions. Matters of state policy must be dealt with by conference of powers. See explanation in my letter to Hays of March, 1919.

"It is very unwise to declare the League dead. * * * It would not be true. The League has hardly begun to function because the terms of peace have not yet been enforced by the victorious nations. Polish questions, for example, are properly being handled by the foreign offices without any reference to the League. They are not the League's business.

"In my opinion, a new deal here from the beginning by abandoning the Versailles Treaty is impossible. To attempt it would bring chaos and an entire loss of results of the war and general disaster involving the United States. The only possible course is to keep the treaty, modifying it to meet the requirements of the Senate reservations and the Chicago platform and probably in some other respects.

"The precise way in which some modifications can be best made must be determined at the time in conference with the other parties. It is impossible to forecast the methods because conditions next March are necessarily uncertain. Now the central idea is that the deadlock resulted from President Wilson's perverse refusal to negotiate for the consent of other powers to Americanization of the treaty, but that our new Administration will secure that consent.

"A separate declaration of peace was justified only by President Wilson's refusal to act. After March 4 that will no longer be justifiable, unless other powers refuse to consent to modification, which I do not anticipate. Don't allow Cox to drive you off the ground of Harding's Senate vote and our platform. Keep to the simple issue, Americanization."

Agreed With Harding in Part.

These views of Mr. Root shows that he believed that "scrapping the League" would bring disaster to all the world. He would retain the structure of the covenant, modifying it to meet the requirements of the Senate reservations and the Chicago platform and probably in some other respects.

There seems to be no doubt, judging by the message that he is opposed to the negotiation of a new arrangement between the nations of the world to insure permanent peace. To some extent, according to the message, he is in harmony with views expressed by Senator Harding as to the method to be pursued to obtain an association for preventing future wars. He agrees with Senator Harding that there should be a conference with other nations to determine upon concerted action. He also agrees that it is impossible at this time to define the course to be taken by the conference.

At the time Senator Harding was made acquainted with the contents of Mr. Root's cablegram there were statements in dispatches from Marion that he had received a message from Mr. Root concerning the League of Nations. It has been reported since then that Senator Harding was provoked over the views of Mr. Root and even showed some anger.

If there was any feeling on Senator Harding's part against Mr. Root it has probably disappeared, for there is reliable information that he will ask Mr.

Asks To Have Berger Case Hastened in Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Government today requested the Supreme Court to advance for early hearing the case of Victor Berger, convicted on charges of having violated the Espionage act.

Twice elected to Congress, Berger was denied a seat, once before and once since his conviction. Solicitor General Frierson, who filed the motion to advance, said it was of great importance that the Government have an early ruling for the guidance of district Judges in similar cases.

ROOT HOME GUARDED AFTER BOMB THREAT

Police Cordon Surrounds Exclusive Apartment House at 998 Fifth Avenue.

MRS. VANDERBILT WARNED

Man Tells Operator by Telephone That Building Will Be Blown Up.

A cordon of detectives and policemen was thrown around the fourteen-story apartment house at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Eighty-first Street late yesterday afternoon soon after an excited man told Mrs. Sarah Lurcia, the telephone operator, that the building would be blown up during the night.

The man called Mrs. Lurcia on the telephone shortly before 5 o'clock and asked if Mrs. George Vanderbilt, whose husband died at their estate at Biltmore, N. C., less than two years ago, was at home.

"Who wants to know?" demanded Mrs. Lurcia.

"Why, I'm a friend of Mrs. Vanderbilt," replied the man.

The apartment house is one of the most exclusive in the city and Alexander M. Moberg, the superintendent, had instructed the employes never to give any information to strangers regarding the movements of tenants.

"Mrs. Vanderbilt is not at home," the telephone operator informed the man, "nor can I tell you anything about her whereabouts."

"All right," said the man on the telephone; "I just wanted to know whether she lives there. Now that I know you can tell her when she comes in that that place will not be her home after tonight. It'll be blown up."

Tried to Keep Man at Phone.

Mrs. Lurcia tried to keep the man in conversation, and at the same time communicate with the telephone central office to obtain the location of the telephone from which he was speaking, but the man evidently suspected her purpose, and hung up the receiver. She then communicated the man's threat to the superintendent and he instructed her to notify the police.

When Mrs. Lurcia called up Police Headquarters she was connected with the East Eighty-eighth Street station, and in a few minutes a patrol wagon loaded with detectives and policemen was on the way to the apartment house. A detective sergeant took command of the force of policemen and sent one squad to guard the servants' entrance on the Eighty-first Street side, while the rest of the policemen and detectives were assigned to the front of the building on Fifth Avenue and on the side street.

After a careful investigation was made of the neighborhood by the detectives in quest of suspicious characters, it was decided that the man who made the threat did not use a telephone in the vicinity and the policemen were withdrawn from the front of the house to station themselves at vantage points in front of the Museum of Art in Central Park West, opposite the apartment house, and in doorways on the south side of Eighty-first Street.

Later other detectives arrived in an automobile from Police Headquarters and they made a tour of stores along Park and Lexington Avenue within a radius of a mile of the apartment house, but nobody could remember having permitted a stranger to use the telephone.

Strangers Are Scrutinized.

That the policemen did not care to consider the threat in the light of a joke was evidenced by the arrangements then made for the protection of the house for the rest of the night. Most of the uniformed men were sent away, but upward of a dozen detectives and policemen were kept on guard to prevent any stranger approaching the apartment house.

Although several strangers found in the neighborhood up to 1 o'clock this morning were questioned by the detectives none of them were taken into custody. The guard on the house would be maintained for the rest of the night, it was declared by one of the policemen.

According to the "Blue Book" these persons occupy apartments in the building: Mr. and Mrs. Elihu Root, Mrs. Elliott F. Shepperd, Mr. and Mrs. Murry Guggenheim, Mrs. R. Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Jervis Ralph Harbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Tod, Mr. and Mrs. W. Addison Wheelock, Mr. and Mrs. Edson Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis L. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Watson B. Dickerman, Mrs. Ludwig Dreyfus, Colonel George Fearing, Mr. and Mrs. E. Felsenheld and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Goldman.

CLUB OWNERS VOTE FOR NEW LEAGUE AND BASEBALL WAR

Twelve-Club Organization Is Decided Upon at Conference in Chicago.

DESIRE LANDIS AS LEADER

BITTER FIGHT IS LIKELY

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis of the United States District Court was tonight selected by unanimous vote of eleven National and American League baseball clubs owners as Chairman of a new Board of Control for professional baseball. The new board is to govern the twelve-club league, which was launched as a war measure against the five American League clubs which declined to subscribe to the Lasker plan, and also whatever minor leagues join hands with the reformers at their meeting in Kansas City this week. The term of office is seven years, and the salary offered to Judge Landis is $50,000 a year. His salary as Federal Judge is $7,500 a year.

The new league will be known as the New National League, and John A. Heydler will continue as President, Secretary and Treasurer. The teams comprising the league are the Boston Braves, the Boston Red Sox, Brooklyn, Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati, Chicago White Sox, New York Giants, New York Yankees, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis.

It was agreed that the twelfth club should be the first of the five dissenting American League Clubs to apply for membership. Failing to receive such application within a reasonable time, a twelfth club is to be established by the New National League, and it is not the intention that minor league territory be invaded.

Judge Landis took the matter under advisement and was, as a matter of courtesy, given the traditional baseball ten days' grace to accept or decline the honor.

Coincidentally the five American League club owners, who sided with President Johnson in the controversy over the Lasker plan, began to put into operation plans which have been under way for several months to locate new clubs in Chicago, New York and Boston to fight the Lasker-Comiskey reorganization plan to a finish. This was the outcome of a day of futile effort to reach a compromise between the opposing factions, so as to avert an open conflict.

Place Held For Minors.

Pending the acceptance of the proposition by Judge Landis the selection of a second member of the Board of Control by the Amalgamated Club Owners was deferred to a later meeting. The third place on the board was held open to be filled by the National Association (minor leagues) for a term of six years, if the smaller circuits elect to operate under the new supercommission.

Not until various and sundry expedients had failed to bring about a joint session of the sixteen major league clubs was the declaration of war signed, sealed and delivered by the amalgamated eleven. The battle began in the morning with eleven club owners in session in one room and the five Johnson adherents in another, both standing pat on their respective systems for reorganizing and reforming baseball.

Clark Griffith, part owner of the Washington club, acting as a volunteer emissary, was given an audience before the meeting of the eleven club owners. He was empowered to invite the absent American League owners to join the eleven in an informal session from which both league Presidents and all stenographers were to be excluded, the purpose being to iron out their differences if possible.

Griffith was accompanied on his mission by Colonel Ruppert of the Yankees, one of the eleven amalgamated owners. After a prolonged session in the opposition meeting place, the two returned with George W. Miller, attorney for the American League. Miller acted as spokesman for the Johnson quintet and argued for over an hour in favor of the proposition to leave the reorganization of baseball to a joint committee of nine. He opposed the Lasker plan and the proposition to proceed to the election of a new governing body by majority vote.

Would Curb Johnson's Power.

The split came over the question of whether or not major league affairs should be controlled by vote of the club owners or by vote of the league. The amalgamated National and American League club owners stood pat on their demand that President Johnson be eliminated from the control of baseball, except in so far as American League affairs were concerned. The "Loyal Five" club owners stuck to their proposition for equal representation for the American, National, and minor leagues on a joint committee for the reformation of the pastime.

The eleven clubs gave the five others until 4 o'clock in the afternoon to consider the problem, then met and pro-

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—No evidence is obtainable in Washington to indicate that President Wilson, following the result of the elections, contemplates taking any immediate steps respecting the Treaty of Versailles or the covenant of the League of Nations.

Inquiries at the State Department today developed that the official copy of the treaty, with the League Covenant, as returned to the President by resolution of the Senate, after that body's rejection of it last March, is at the White House under the personal control of President Wilson. From no official quarter could it be learned that anything would be done in the matter before the new Republican Administration takes control at Washington.

It was also learned at the State Department that no communication had been received from any European Government respecting possible revision or amendment of the covenant or the treaty. The department does not expect that any official steps in that direction will be initiated by foreign powers during President Wilson's tenure of office.

OWNER CAN STORE AND MOVE LIQUOR

Supreme Court Gives Decision on Supply Intended for Personal Use.

REVERSES RULING HERE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Liquor intended for personal use may be stored in a warehouse as well as in a private dwelling, and can also be transported from the warehouse to the owner's residence without violation of the law, according to a ruling by the United States Supreme Court today.

The decision will affect millions of dollars worth of intoxicating liquors held throughout the United States. One hotel man in New York is said to have declared that he had $250,000 worth of liquor, which was his personal property, stored in the basement of his establishment.

The case in question was that of William G. Street of New York, against the Lincoln Safe Deposit Company, and Daniel L. Porter, representing the Bureau of Internal Revenue. An appeal was taken by Mr. Street from the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York.

Justice Clarke handed down the opinion, which was concurred in by Justice McReynolds. The decree of the lower court was reversed with costs. It was held that, if a person was permitted to transport liquor from one residence to another, the liquor could also be transported from a warehouse.

In the action, Mr. Street asserted that he kept the liquor in storage for his personal use and the use of his family and guests. Mr. Porter, however, held that the goods were not legally possessed.

Justice Clarke said that it was plain that in the sections of the Volstead law in question there was no specific barrier against the storage of liquors "under the circumstances admitted to exist in this case, and we find no other provisions by which such a custody is rendered unlawful."

Finds No Implication of Offense.

The point was made that as the liquor was not kept in the warehouse for the purpose of sale, barter or exchange or disposing of it in any other illegal manner, the implication was plain that the possession of it in the warehouse should not be considered unlawful, even though it be held by a person not having a technical permit to hold it.

In the course of his opinion, Justice Clarke said:

"It may be that the custody of liquors by a warehouse company was thus not declared to be unlawful because the writers of the act did not have such a case in mind, but it was more probably because the Congress would not be content to allow lawful possession and use of liquors in dwellings having storage facilities for them, while denying the only possible means of preserving and protecting such liquors to persons with less commodious houses.

"The Congress was concerned with the great problem of preventing the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes in the future and it seems to have given but slight attention to the consumption of such relatively small amounts of such liquors as might be in existence in private ownership and intended for consumption by the owner, his family or his guests when the amendment and the act should take effect."

Justice Reynolds concurred as follows:

"I think the Volstead act was properly interpreted by the court below, but to enforce it as thus construed would result in virtual confiscation of lawfully acquired liquors by preventing or unduly interfering with their consumption by the owners. The Eighteenth Amendment gave no such power to Congress. Manufacture, sale and transportation are the things prohibited, not personal use."

May Release 10,000,000 Gallons.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (Associated Press).—The effect of the ruling in the Street case had not been fully worked out tonight by internal revenue and prohibition enforcement officials. The belief was expressed, however, that the result might be the release of 10,000,000 gallons of intoxicating beverages which have been stored in warehouses since January 16, 1920.

Records on file here show that, in addition to immense quantities of liquors purchased and stored by individual consumers, there were in storage when the Volstead act became effective large stocks held by hotels and restaurants as reserves. Whether these latter stocks come within today's ruling has not been determined. It was anticipated that test cases would be filed soon on this

FIVE FOOD CROPS BEAT ALL RECORDS

Corn Leads All in the Fields, but May Lose When It Gets to Market.

RICE AND TOBACCO ALSO UP

Sweet Potatoes and Pears, Too —Six Other Crops Almost Reach High-Water Mark.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—American farmers broke production records, with five crops this year. Preliminary estimates announced today by the Department of Agriculture show the corn, tobacco, rice, sweet potatoes and pear crops to have surpassed in size those of any previous year in the country's history. Other crops closely approaching records, were of oats, barley, rye, potatoes, apples and hay. The buckwheat production record, however, has stood since 1866, with this year's crop more than 8,000,000 bushels under it. Final crop production figures will be announced next month.

Wonderful Corn Crop.

Corn, king of all crops and of which the United States grows more than 75 per cent. of the world's output, reached the enormous total of 3,199,129,000 bushels. That is 75,000,000 bushels more than ever before grown in any year, and it is the third crop to exceed 3,000,000,000 bushels, the previous record was made in 1912, while the crop of 1917 was the second largest.

In point of value, however, this year's corn crop will not equal that of last year. Based on the Dec. 1 price, $1.33 a bushel, that was worth $3,934,234,000. The crop of 1912 was valued at $1,820,454,000 on the Dec. 1 price of 48.7 cents, and the 1917 crop at $3,920,228,000, with the December price almost $1.30. The value of this year's crop, based on the Nov. 1 farm price, 87.3 cents a bushel, is estimated at $2,792,837,000.

Iowa's crop is the largest of any State, at 441,660,000 bushels; Illinois ranks second with 302,634,000, and Nebraska third, with 250,998,000. The yield in other principal producing States is estimated for Ohio, 154,105,000 bushels; Indiana, 190,431,000; Minnesota, 115,050,000; Missouri, 211,808,000; South Dakota, 100,800,000; Kansas 151,038,000; Kentucky, 96,624,000; Texas 173,250,000.

A month ago the crop was forecast at 3,216,102,000 bushels. Of last year's crop, 142,211,000 bushels, or 4.9 per cent., remained on the farms No. 1 of this year, today's report announced, compared with 69,835,000 bushels at the same date a year ago and 82,618,000 bushels, the average of the preceding five years. The present year's reserve is the largest in twenty years.

Other Great Yields.

The tobacco crop this year, placed at 1,476,444,000 pounds by the preliminary estimate, is 87,000,000 pounds more than grown last year, when all previous records were broken. Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina also exceeded their last year's production. Kentucky's crop alone this year is less than a year ago by 30,000,000 pounds.

Production of rice this year exceeds, by 12,000,000 bushels, the previous largest crop, in 1917. The output this year is placed at 52,298,000 bushels, almost half of which was grown in Louisiana.

The sweet potato harvest will show 105,676,000 bushels, which is 2,000,000 bushels more than grown last year, when the crop exceeded all previous years' production. Alabama's output is larger than that of any other State.

The crop of pears this year is placed at 15,558,000 bushels. The previous largest crop was that of 1917, when 12,281,000 bushels were produced. California produced more than 3,000,000 bushels, while New York's production is almost 2,250,000 bushels.

Preliminary estimates of this year's production of wheat, oats, barley, rye, hay, rice and peaches were announced last month. The production of other crops, as shown by the preliminary estimates today, follows:

	—Estimate, Bushels.—
Crop.	November,	October,	1919 Crop.
Buckwheat..	14,321,000	15,552,000	16,261,000

HECKSCHERS GIVE $4,000,000 HOME TO CHILDREN'S SOCIETY

ENDOWMENT ALSO PROVIDED

TUNNEL TO PARK PLANNED

Gift Will Double Organization's Facilities and Greatly Widen the Scope of Its Activities.

A $4,000,000 gift for the relief of children, comprising a plot with a new building endowment sufficient for maintenance, was announced yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. August Heckscher and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. As a result the Children's Society within two years will have a complete new plant at Fifth Avenue and 104th Street that will more than double its ability to care for waifs and mistreated children.

"I believe this is one of the largest charitable or philanthropic gifts on record," said Colonel Ernest K. Coulter, general manager of the society, in announcing the gift. "Certainly no other children's society in the world—and about 500 have followed this parent organization—has received such a munificent gift. It will enable us to realize our wildest dreams for the relief of waifs and unfortunate children of this city."

As a start the Heckschers gave outright to the society the plot on Fifth Avenue, between 104th and 105th Streets, extending back 200 feet. On this plot they will construct a model building of eight or ten stories, with about 130,000 feet of floor space. Then they will turn the entire property over to the Children's Society with endowment sufficient to provide maintenance expenses of about $80,000 a year.

Will Double Capacity of Home.

Always cramped by lack of facilities and at present without property of its own, the Society now will have facilities to care for at least 400 children, and perhaps more, or about twice as many as are in its leased quarters in the Inwood section. Officers said the gift also would enable them to expand their relief work in the vicinity of the Children's Court.

Seeking new quarters last Summer after its property at Twenty-third Street and Fourth Avenue had been sold, officers of the Society appealed to Mr. Heckscher for a subscription for a motor bus to aid in transporting the children to the Inwood House of Mercy, which the organization had leased for two years. The appeal was made through Rudolph Degener, whose wife is a relative of Mr. Heckscher and a sister of the late John Longer De Saulles, slain by his wife three years ago. Mr. Degener is an investigator for the Children's Society.

Mr. Heckscher asked his relative about the Society and, after hearing a full report of its work among children, said he would like to do much more for the cause than merely subscribe toward a motor vehicle.

"I have a plot of land in Fifth Avenue that I have been holding for a long time to turn over to some worthy cause," Mr. Heckscher is reported to have said. "I thought I might put up a building there, provide an endowment fund and give it to some worthy charity. How do you think the Children's Society would do?"

Details of Transfer Arranged.

"I almost fell off my chair," said Mr. Degener in telling of that conversation. "I wasn't asking for an entire new Children's Society. I was just asking for a motor bus."

Following this, details of the transfer of the plot were taken up by John G. Agar, P. G. Gerry and Corwin Black, appointed as a committee by the Children's Society. Most of the work on the other side was done by Mr. Heckscher himself, assisted by Arthur P. McKinstry, his counsel.

"At this time, when the press teems with reports of profiteacy and waste in high places, of graft and profiteering, of perjury and crime, until it would almost seem as though the moral fibre of our nation were deteriorating," said the announcement framed with the approval of Mr. Heckscher, "it is like a breath of fresh air to be able to announce a benefaction purely philanthropic, not in itself large, as large sums go nowadays, but a gift that, it is confidently believed, will have wide bearing and influence in our land and beyond. Let the mothers judge who believe in the glory of childhood and its sanctity.

"The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children has stood in the breach for more than a generation. Founded by a few splendid men of the type of Henry Bergh and of Commodore Gerry, whose name more than any other is associated with this great work, the society has never had at command either adequate housing facilities or sufficient financial support. Recently it has sold its property and purchased another, still much too small, where it had intended to erect a new and a more adequate building.

"It is proposed to enlarge the scope of the splendid work which is now so unostentatiously accomplished. Bear in

American Freight Ships Lead As Cargo Carriers in October

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Figures from the United States Shipping Board show that the American Merchant Marine is leading foreign competition in the number of cargo-laden ships that have come into ports of this country within the last month.

Out of a total of 432 vessels that have entered American ports, 245 were under the American flag and 237 under foreign ensigns. No fewer than 158 American ships brought cargo and only 75 came in ballast, as against 100 foreign ships with cargo and 121 in ballast.

The American ships brought 347,462 cargo tons, but the foreigners brought only 174,944 cargo tons, the American cargo load being almost twice as much.

There were 127 American arrivals in North Atlantic ports, with 194,944 cargo tons in 76 ships. Only 44 American ships came in with ballast. There were 173 foreign arrivals at the North Atlantic ports, of which 73 ships carried 118,511 cargo tons and 73 ships carried ballast.

HARDING ARRIVES AT POINT ISABEL

Enters Seclusion and Will Put Aside Problems of Administration for Two Weeks.

TEXANS WELCOME PARTY

Children Wait for Hours to Cheer President-elect—Little White Girl Rewarded.

Special to The New York Times.

POINT ISABEL, Texas, Nov. 8.—President-elect Harding arrived here late this afternoon for seclusion and a brief rest before confronting the problems of his administration. The indications are that he will get it.

Twenty-six miles from Brownsville, Texas, and in the southernmost limit of continental United States, connected with civilization only by a narrow gauge railroad and by a single dirt road which heavy rains make impassable, Point Isabel is a fishing village of 250 inhabitants, of whom 95 per cent. are Mexicans. It is situated on La Guna Madre, an inlet extending miles north of Corpus Christi and separated from the Gulf of Mexico by Padre Island, a sandy, low lying piece of land which gives a touch to the scene not unlike Great South Bay of Long Island.

Senator Harding will see no one during his stay whom he does not wish to see. That much is assured. Secret service men and marines from the naval wireless station stand guard over the little green cottage on a little sandy bluff jutting into the bay which its owner, R. B. Creager of Brownsville has turned over for the use of Mr. and Mrs. Harding. Colonel H. R. Hiscock, commanding officer of the Fourth Cavalry, garrisoned at Brownsville, has stationed a detail along the Brownsville-Point Isabel road with orders that no one may pass without authority.

It is a desolate waste between Brownsville and Point Isabel, thick with mesquite, cactus and sparse grass, populated with wild jackasses, ground owls, quail and rattlesnakes which lie in the road and spring at passing automobiles.

Hard on Office Seekers.

In the words of "Colonel" Bill Starrett, veteran Texas newspaper man, who is here in command of a launch the State of Texas has placed at the disposal of Senator Harding, "any office seeker brave enough to travel along this God forsaken country from Brownsville deserves the most important job available."

Mr. Harding expects to pass his time here tarpon fishing and motoring to Brownsville for golf at the country club. If the weather is favorable tomorrow he will fish in the morning and play golf in the afternoon.

The Harding party arrived at Brownsville this noon. Mr. and Mrs. Harding and their guests were entertained at luncheon at the country club, while the Brownsville Rotary Club entertained the newspaper correspondents.

For three hours this afternoon Point Isabel school children stood in line in front of a rude arch of welcome waiting for the President-elect. Their teachers, Sister Mary Loretta and Sister Mary Phillips, of the Sisters of Mercy, explained that all of them with the exception of the village doctors two youngsters were the children of the little fishermen. Little dark skinned Mexicans dressed in their gaudy best stood in a double row waving tiny flags, expectantly throwing oleander blossoms into passing automobiles and disappointedly picking them up when they discovered that Mr. Harding had not arrived. The Mexican fisherman and their wives stood in a group waiting just as eagerly.

Only one child refused to stand in the group. She is the only little white girl in Point Isabel. Her father is a fisherman. When she saw the delicate laces of the little Mexican girls and then glanced down at her faded pink frock and stockings she sat down by a fence post and burst into tears, and the Sisters could not induce her to go back.

Quiets Little Girl.

When President-elect and Mrs. Harding arrived and walked through the lane of singing children and had shaken hands with all of them, they spotted the disconsolate little girl rubbing her eyes and standing against a fence.

"Hello, dearie, how are you?" asked Mr. Harding, taking her by the hand.

Some one told him of the latter's poverty and it will not be many hours before she will rival the little Mexicans in white dresses, shoes and stockings.

ESTIMATE BOARD ASKS PARLEY WITH GRAFT HUNTERS

To Seek Advice of Lockwood Committee on Cancelling All City Building Contracts.

TOTAL IS $62,594,501

$14,130,252 ALREADY PAID

Board of Education Offers Aid—Political Pressure to Broaden City Inquiry Is Reported.

Controller Charles L. Craig, acting independently of Mayor Hylan and other members of the Board of Estimate, sent to the Lockwood Committee through Samuel Untermyer last night a list of contracts entered into by the city in the last eighteen months, amounting to $62,594,501. Of this amount the city has already paid $14,130,252 and $48,464,249 is outstanding.

Included in the communication was a detailed statement of the contracts for the erection of public schools. These amounted to $13,627,819. The Controller sent the contracts to Mr. Untermyer several hours after the Board of Estimate, at a special meeting called by Mayor Hylan, adopted a resolution requesting a conference with the Lockwood Committee as to the advisability, upon the evidence adduced by the committee, of immediately cancelling all contracts for the erection of new schools and other public improvements.

On learning of the action of the Board of Estimate Mr. Untermyer said he would be pleased to meet the Board and that his only motive was to save the city from being mulcted.

It became known yesterday that political pressure is being brought to bear from several quarters on the Lockwood Committee to have the scope of the committee's powers broadened after Jan. 1 in order to begin a sweeping investigation into the letting of contracts and the purchase of supplies and materials by all city departments.

When Mr. Untermyer was asked concerning this new development he declined to discuss it beyond saying: "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

Opposes Entrance of Politics.

It is understood that Mr. Untermyer is opposed to the suggestion or to any other move that would introduce politics into what is thus far said to have been a non-political investigation. Mr. Untermyer, who accepted the appointment after making certain stipulations, feels that the important constructive feature of the committee's work has hardly begun, and is anxious to have the committee work out a housing program that will enlist the support of all. If the evidence presented during the investigation proves the necessity for an investigation of city departments such as is being talked of, it is believed Mr. Untermyer would be satisfied to have another committee take up the work.

An investigation such as that proposed would delve into all city departments, including the police, fire, health, education, law and finance. Undertaken at the instance of a Republican Legislature it would undoubtedly have as one of its purposes the gathering of political ammunition for use next Fall when Mayor Hylan is expected to be a candidate to succeed himself.

Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield sent to Mr. Untermyer yesterday a report on an investigation into school contracts conducted by Dr. Ferguson, a member of the Board of Education.

The report contained, according to Commissioner Hirshfield, an affidavit of Dennis S. Conners, a contractor building schools, who swore "that he paid various sums of money to various persons, including labor union delegates." Mr. Hirshfield suggested that the Lockwood Committee examine the persons mentioned in the affidavit.

To Examine Hettrick's Papers.

Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien talked with Mr. Untermyer yesterday, and, as a result, C. C. Smith, a member of Mr. O'Brien's staff, will be permitted to examine all the papers seized in the office of John T. Hettrick, who organized groups of contractors in the building trades. If Mr. O'Brien finds there is sufficient evidence to cancel school house contracts and contracts on other buildings he will make such recommendation to the Mayor.

It is likely that evidence in the possession of the Lockwood committee other than what has already been made public may be presented to city officials, tending to prove that price fixing and the elimination of competition have been practised by contractors and building material men whose names have thus far only figured privately in the inquiry. Hettrick organized stone cutters, plumbers and heating and ventilating contractors.

United States Senator William M. Calder is considering the advisability of having the Senate Committee on Reconstruction, of which he is Chairman, sit with the Lockwood committee. If this were done witnesses from outside the State on matters affecting the nation, wanted by the committee, would be subpoenaed by the Senate committee and examined for them by Mr. Untermyer, while witnesses in the State would be subpoenaed by the Lockwood committee.

It is known that members of the

Lockwood committee believe there is sufficient evidence to throw out many contracts entered into by the city. It was pointed out that Arthur Gresnfield, President of the Metallic Lathers' Employers' Association, admitted to the destruction of the minutes of a meeting where price fixing was discussed. Members of the association are said to have contracts for lath work in school buildings.

Outstanding Contracts.

The statement of outstanding school and other contracts furnished to the Lockwood committee by Controller Craig showed that the total contracts for the Department of Education amount to $13,887,819. Total payments amount to $4,248,189; unearned portion, $9,379,-130. Contracts for other departments were as follows:

Borough Presidents, Plant and Structures, Fire Department, &c.—Total contracts, $22,887,470; total payments, $4,-906,314; unearned portion, $17,891,156.

Contracts of the Borough Presidents' department by boroughs:

Department of Plant and Structures—Total contracts, $1,054,745; total payments, $32,549; unearned, $1,022,195.

Fire Department—Total contracts, $375,183; total payments, $98,150; unearned, $277,033.

In a letter to Chairman Lockwood, President Anning S. Prall, of the Board of Education, offered the co-operation of his department to the committee. He asked for transcripts of the testimony and said that at the present time twenty-six new school buildings or additions were in the course of construction, but progress had been retarded by labor troubles. The Board of Education, according to Mr. Prall, is contemplating the expenditure of more than $40,000,000 for sites and new buildings.

Mr. Prall's Letter.

His letter says:

"My dear Senator Lockwood:

"Will you kindly furnish the Board of Education with a transcript of all testimony taken before your committee with reference to contracts for school buildings now under construction in this city, or for equipment or alterations and repairs to school buildings?

"The board desires this information to guide it in its action with respect to present contracts and its future program already determined upon for new school buildings to be erected in the year 1921.

"The Board of Education desires to offer you its full and hearty co-operation in your investigation. All records, books, proposals, contracts, resolutions and other data will be furnished if you desire it, and all officials stand ready to testify before your committee at its convenience.

"In connection with this, might I suggest that you call before your committee each of the contractors having in charge the erection of new school buildings in this city, in order that all of the facts bearing upon bids made, contracts awarded and the progress made upon such contracts may be fully set forth?

"The importance of a thorough knowledge of the building situation bearing upon school construction in this city will, I am sure, be apparent to you and to your committee in view of the very serious demand for additional accommodations for the school children.

77,286 on Part Time.

"Our latest statistics show 77,286 pupils in part-time classes, which is approximately 28,000 more than one year ago. There are about 65,000 other children in double session classes receiving four hours, instruction or less.

"The Board of Education, anticipating this increase in congestion, has been insisting upon the speedy construction of school buildings.

"When the present Board of Education took office on the first day of January, 1918, there was not an existing contract for a new school building in the city of New York. The efforts of this board to get new buildings under way in the early months of 1918 were frustrated by war conditions and the embargo put upon the erection of school building by the Federal Government. Immediately upon lifting of the embargo the Board of Education set out to award contracts.

"Today there are approximately twenty-six new buildings or additions under construction, but progress has been retarded because of the labor troubles and the scarcity of or inability to get materials. The Board of Education has been impressing upon contractors the need for hurrying the work. Nevertheless the contract time for the completion of several buildings has expired.

"The Building Committee of the Board of Education has been constantly in touch with this situation. It has had the aid of the Mayor's Housing Commission in having shipments of building materials expedited, and it has from time to time compelled the attendance of contractors at its meeting, and has been advised by such contractors of the reason attributable to delays in construction.

Has Had Hylan's Support.

"In these matters the board has had the hearty support of Mayor Hylan, who has given of his personal time attending conferences in an effort to end labor disputes and other troubles.

"In connection with this work, I understand that certain sworn testimony, made by at least one contractor, has been secured by our Building Committee, which will probably furnish your committee with a lead to further investigation.

"You will appreciate the fact that we await the result of your investigation with considerable concern, and inasmuch as we are contemplating the expenditure for sites and new school buildings of over $40,000,000 during the year 1921, preparations for which are under way at this time, any information, advice or recommendations that your committee may offer will be helpful and highly appreciated.

"It is important that the Board of Education should have positive assurance that there is no reason to suspect that there are any conditions surrounding any of these contracts that could in any manner be questioned. Assuring you again of the desire of the Board of Education to co-operate with your committee, I remain, yours very truly,

"ANNING S. PRALL, President."

Estimate Board's Resolution.

The resolution introduced by Mayor Hylan at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Estimate was as follows:

"Whereas the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing is now holding sessions in the City of New York; and

"Whereas said committee is now investigating the methods adopted by contractors and labor conditions relative to contracts, and particularly building construction contracts; and

"Whereas it has appeared in the public print that the school contracts entered into by the Board of Education, as well as other contracts, should be canceled; and

"Whereas the Board of Estimate and Apportionment desires to co-operate with the Lockwood Committee; be it

"Resolved, that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment respectfully request a conference with the Lockwood Committee now sitting as to the advisability, upon the evidence adduced, of immediately canceling all contracts for the erection of new schools and other public improvements."

Controller Charles L. Craig offered a motion to the effect that the Commissioner, Borough President or board such as the Board of Education, transmit to the Controller for payment further vouchers upon any contracts awarded since Jan. 1, 1918, "upon which there is any evidence whatsoever creating even so much as a suspicion that the city may have been the victim of fraud by collusive bidding on matched bids or whatever device, until that question has been determined by the heads of department, the contractor exonerated and the proper proceedings taken by the Corporation Counsel to give effect to that."

Controller's Plan Opposed.

There was opposition to Controller Craig's resolution by some of the Borough Presidents who said they had already begun such an investigation.

There had been another paragraph to the Mayor's resolution authorizing the Controller to withhold all payments on contracts entered into by the city where it had come to his knowledge that fraud or matched bids had been perpetrated on the city. This was stricken out as Mr. Craig had already given notice that he would take such action.

The Controller said it was known to every member of the board that he had under preparation for Borough Presidents and heads of all departments a list of contracts entered into for the last eighteen months. He said that those who had the power to award contracts should make an immediate investigation to find out if the city had been victimized.

"The one desire of this board," said Borough President Connolly of Queens, "should be to co-operate with the Lockwood committee and see that the city is properly protected. To ask heads of departments to see if any fraud has been perpetrated is unnecessary, for I believe every department is doing it."

Mr. Connolly said he would make no certification that any particular contract was above suspicion because he did not know what the facts were. He refused to "underwrite any contractor and say his bid was not collusive." Some contracts may be all right and others may not be, he declared. He wanted to co-operate but to do so intelligently. The revelations regarding the Court House contract were amazing, he added, to the Board of Estimate as well as the public, and all were anxious to have the guilty ones punished.

Denies He Had Been Dilatory.

Mayor Hylan said there was an implication in Mr. Untermyer's letter that he had been dilatory in getting his commissioners to work on the city contracts. He read letters sent by him during the last two weeks to Corporation Counsel Burr, Commissioner Hirshfield and others of the city administration.

The Mayor said that he had not neglected his duty but had done everything he could to have the contracts cancelled.

Controller Craig opposed any further resolutions offering co-operation to the Lockwood Committee, saying he had been co-operating with the committee for two weeks. He said he was acting independently of the other members of the board and was taking action solely on his own responsibility.

When the Controller became impatient and said he wanted to get away to attend to his business, the Mayor turned to the Controller and said, "Don't think you are going to get away with anything here."

"Everything has been done that could be done and I am prepared to show it," remarked the Mayor just as the meeting closed.

BACKER OBTAINS DELAY.

Contractor Pleads Not Guilty and Receives Time to Make Motions.

George Backer, wealthy building contractor, who was indicted for perjury, growing out of his testimony before the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing, pleaded not guilty yesterday before Judge Joseph P. Mulqueen, in General Sessions. Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the Lockwood Committee, urged the necessity of a speedy trial, but Backer's attorney, Edmund L. Mooney, asked for a delay of ten days in which to prepare the necessary motions. Judge Mulqueen granted a postponement until next Monday.

Mr. Mooney said last night that he intended to attack the legality of the Lockwood Committee's proceeding on the ground that the bill creating the committee, as finally passed, was not laid on the desks of the legislators three days before its enactment, as required by legislative rule. This was the same question raised yesterday in attacking the new rent laws.

Mr. Untermyer, in urging Backer's prompt trial yesterday, said the defendant had at his disposal unlimited means to employ counsel, and that he would not approve of any unnecessary delay.

Mr. Mooney contended that he could not take up the Backer case this week, because he was already engaged in another case which involved thirty-six families who might be thrown into the street through the operation of the so-called co-operative apartment house plan.

Mr. Untermyer suggested that Backer could get another lawyer, but the court granted the delay.

The other case in which Mr. Mooney said he was engaged came up yesterday before Municipal Court Justice Lauer in the Seventh District Court. The action was brought by the Woodrow Court Corporation, a co-operative concern, to oust thirty-six families from the Woodrow Court Apartments.

NEW RENT LAWS ARGUED.

Constitutionality Attacked in Mandamus Case Before Justice Giegerich

The constitutionality of the new rent laws was attacked yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Leonard A. Giegerich, who heard the application of the Durham Realty Company for a writ of mandamus to compel Justice Edward B. La Fetra of the City Court to sign a dispossess notice in the case of Olga J. Weil, a tenant of 490 West End Avenue, whose lease, according to the company, expired on Sept. 30. The tenant refused to vacate the apartment, on the ground that she has been unable to find another. Meanwhile the same apartment was leased to another tenant, who has been forced to live at a hotel and is threatening to sue the Durham Realty Company for damages growing out of the company's failure to give occupancy to the apartment.

Judge George L. Ingraham, for the realty company, contended that the measure passed at the special session of the Legislature was unconstitutional because it had not been on the desk of the members in final form three whole calendar legislative days before its final passage, as required by the rules. He said the measure was changed on the same day of its final passage.

Julius H. Cohen, who defended the case on behalf of the Joint Legislative Committee, contended that the bill was properly passed. Prima facie evidence of its constitutionality was to be found, he said, in the certificate of the Secretary of State as to its legal passage, and the constitutionality of an act so certified by the Secretary of State could not be impeached.

Brief arguments were made by William D. Guthrie and Alexander C. McNulty. The attorneys were directed by Justice Giegerich to exchange briefs and he reserved decision.

LANDLADY IS CENSURED.

Called Promoter of Anarchy by Magistrate for Barring Out Tenant.

Mrs. Grace Ahrens of 2,021 Cropsey Avenue, Brooklyn, was found guilty of disorderly conduct and censured as a promoter of anarchy yesterday by Magistrate Reynolds in the Coney Island Court. She was charged with having barricaded the door of her tenants, Harry Asher and the latter's wife. Sentence will be imposed next Monday.

"If the landlords of this city were allowed to barricade doors of apartments and doors of different types of homes," said Magistrate Reynolds, "we would have a city filled with anarchy. You took the law into your own hands by barricading the door. You should have gone to the Municipal Court to get a dispossess notice."

FRANCE IS WILLING TO AMEND COVENANT

But Considers It of Greatest Importance to Preserve the Form of Present League.

VITAL QUESTIONS INVOLVED

How, It Is Asked, Could Versailles Treaty Be Executed If New Association Supplanted League?

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The semi-official Temps tonight in an article on the assembly of the League of Nations, which opens a week from today in Geneva, presents clearly the thesis of the French Government that the best way for solution of the problem of America's absence is to alter the covenant in whatever way is necessary to obtain American adhesion.

This means that France considers it extremely important to preserve the form of the League rather than to substitute for it any other association. In other words, France would be willing to make the covenant into what America would have as to rules and by-laws of any American-proposed association, yet at the same time preserving the League's technical form. And here are the reasons, as the Temps explains them:

"Without the League of Nations how can the Versailles treaty be executed? It is not only a control of the Sarre and the fate of the German colonies that is bound up with the Covenant. When the Interallied Control Commissions shall have, some day, left German territory, how can we verify the disarmament of Germany, which is no less necessary to consolidation of democracy than to the maintenance of peace on the continent?

"As long as the present treaty shall remain in force, Germany agrees to accept all investigations that the Council of the League, voting by majority, may judge necessary. The question is not whether this arrangement is good or bad, but that rightly or wrongly we are faced by the fact that the treaty gives a certain role to the League of Nations. Do we wish to renounce this? Let us go to Geneva with confidenc and faith.

"In the Assembly which will open next week there will be empty places. In the absence of the United States the League of Nations can have only a provisory existence and a limited horizon. As long as we do not know the intentions of the future President of the United States we cannot discuss disarmament. How could we discuss naval disarmament? The nations of Europe and the Far East would appear to be coalescing at the inspiration of England to forbid the United States to build any more battleships. The only result of this would be to envenom the situation and to impart the appearance of practicing an anti-American policy with which France could never associate herself.

"As long as the intentions of the United States are not known we cannot discuss the admission of Germany into the League. No one suggests that Germany should be kept out forever. But for the moment another question holds this up. If the United States is going to enter the League some day at the price of whatever changes that may involve, it is clear we cannot let Germany in first. On the other hand, if the United States decides definitely not to enter the League and if it proposes some other form of international association it is equally clear that it is not the moment to open the door to Germany. Because in that case we would appear to be working for the isolation of America."

"But the United States cannot remain outside of an international organization which covers the whole world. Here, again, one example is better than argument. Peru and Bolivia passed requests to the League on Nov. 1 asking that the Geneva Assembly under Article 19 of the covenant invite the members at large to examine the treaties which Peru and Bolivia were forced to sign with Chile, one in 1883 and the other in 1904.

"The Peruvian Government, which complains that Chile has not held the plebescite promised for Tacna and Arica, declares it reserves the right to put before the Geneva Assembly legal proofs to justify its request. The Bolivian Government calls attention to the fact that that country is now cut off from access to the sea, and adds its request presented jointly with Peru's.

"These requests seem reasonable. If they form simply the object of a preliminary exchange of views the remarkable result will be that a purely American question will be considered without the assistance of the United States.

"The Government which takes power in March will understand that the world needs the United States, and that the United States needs the world. It will propose without doubt some new form of international collaboration, either by changing the League or replacing it. It is not for us to offer our ideas, but we await America's suggestions with impatience."

LEAGUE IS NOT DEAD, ROOT TOLD HARDING

Root to enter his Cabinet as Secretary of State.

In Mr. Root's message there is a reference to a letter he wrote to Chairman Hays in March, 1919. In that letter Mr. Root explained why the present permanent court of arbitration at The Hague has been virtually a failure.

"There was a weakness in the system devised by The Hague conference," he said to Mr. Hays. "It was that arbitration of justiciable questions was not made obligatory so that no nation could bring another before the court unless the defendant was willing to come, and there was no way to enforce a judgment."

Mr. Root declared his belief that questions that were strictly "justiciable or judicial" should be subjected to obligatory adjudication. This is in accord with a provision of the League Covenant. While he admitted that some difficulties were apparent with regard to questions of policy, he seemed to indorse the plan contained in the League covenant of making international conferences upon political questions compulsory in times of danger and practically impossible for any nation to keep out of them. He praised this scheme, although indicating what he regarded as some defects.

Mr. Root was a member of the committee of jurists selected by the Council of the League to draw up a plan for the new world court. While he was abroad a story was circulated that he had devised a new plan for an international association to take the place of the League of Nations, but the cable message expressing his views shows that he believed that the League formed in Paris was in the process of functioning and could not be abandoned.

Senators Dubious On Ratification.

Members of the Senate who have returned to Washington since election seem to be generally of the opinion that it will be impossible to obtain the ratification of the Versailles Treaty with the League covenant, even with the Lodge reservations or any other.

Some Senators think that if the United States is to enter an association of nations it will be necessary to revise the covenant so as to provide that the League shall be based upon a tribunal established at The Hague instead of upon action taken by a body like the League Council.

Attempts last night to obtain comment from Elihu Root on the cable message with reference to the League of Nations attributed to him failed. In response to a telephone call to Mr. Root's residence, 998 Fifth Avenue, it was said that Mr. Root was engaged and could not be disturbed.

CORONER'S JURY CLEARS MINISTER IN KILLING

Finds Shooting of Windsor, Ont., Innkeeper in Dry Raid Was in Self-Defense.

Special to The New York Times.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 8.—The Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, Prohibition Enforcement Agent who shot and killed Beverly Trumble, an inn proprietor, in a raid near here several days ago, was absolved of blame by a coroner's jury at an inquest here tonight. The jury found the clergyman acted in self-defense.

The Rev. Spracklin was released as soon as the jury rendered its verdict. He had been in the custody of an officer since the shooting early Saturday, but had been allowed comparative freedom and spent a greater part of yesterday at the residence of a clergyman in Chatam, where he was taken after reported threats of violence by friends of the slain man.

The courtroom of the Town Hall where the inquest was held was jammed tonight, but the crowd dispersed without disturbance after the verdict was announced. Police were on guard in anticipation of a possible outbreak.

Five witnesses testified, Mrs. Ernest Dealtrpe, E. Smith and Harold Larke, who were in the inn when the shooting occurred, and two physicians, who attended Trumble. The physicians declared Smith told them on the morning of the shooting that Trumble had a gun at the time of the raid and flourished it in the faces of the inspectors. In his testimony tonight, however, Smith denied saying this.

SMITH APPOINTS MULQUEEN.

Lawyer Succeeds G. J. Gillespie on State Charities Board.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Michael J. Mulqueen of New York was appointed a Commissioner of the State Board of Charities by Governor Smith today. Mr. Mulqueen will succeed George J. Gillespie of New York, resigned.

Michael J. Mulqueen, formerly of Mulqueen & Mulqueen, has a law office at 291 Broadway. For many years he has been associated with Tammany Hall. In 1913 Governor Sulzer considered appointing him to the Supreme Court Bench but the appointment never was made.

In 1894 Mr. Mulqueen was a delegate to the State Constitutional Convention. In the same year he married Mary S. Gilroy, daughter of ex-Mayor Gilroy. For five years, from 1911 to 1916, he was president of the Catholic Club of this city and when he retired was made a Knight of the Order of St. Gregory by Pope Benedict.

of having cast more Harding ballots in proportion than any other community in Texas. Sixty-four votes were cast for Harding and one for Cox. Perhaps Point Isabel's political boss, Charles Champion, proprietor of the Key to the Gulf, the only store here, was responsible for the Harding voters. With but one exception, Point Isabel "votes regular." In the days of Senator Joseph E. Bailey, Point Isabel voted for Bailey 64 to 1. Today, in a little speech, Senator Harding thanked the villagers for their votes and said that before he left he hoped to know them all by name.

SAILS FOR CANAL ON NOV. 18.

Harding Party Will Board the Parismina at New Orleans.

President-elect Harding will sail from New Orleans Nov. 18 for the Canal Zone on board a United Fruit Company steamer, it was learned here today. Returning, he will be landed at Norfolk on Dec. 4.

Arrangements have been made whereby the ship he is to take from New Orleans will remain over one day from her scheduled sailing date to accommodate Senator Harding and his party, now placed at thirty-five persons. The stop at Norfolk will also be by special arrangement.

The steamer selected by Senator Harding for the voyage from New Orleans to Cristobal is the Parismina, a vessel of 4,937 gross tons, built in 1906 and having passenger accommodations particularly adapted to travel in the tropics.

The Parismina, leaving New Orleans Nov. 18, will arrive Nov. 23 at Cristobal, where the President-elect and his party will land for an inspection tour.

For the return voyage accommodations have been reserved on the liner Pastores, which will sail from Cristobal on Nov. 28 on her regular voyage to New York. The stop at Norfolk has been arranged in order to permit Mr. Harding to go by the shortest route to Bedford, Va., where he is to deliver an address before a meeting of the Elks lodge.

FIND COAL GOUGING; FAVOR U. S. CONTROL

LEWIS CITES DUAL PRICES

Charges Independent Companies Asked Far More Than Others—To See Palmer.

Strict Federal control of the coal industry is needed to stop profiteering, which is still being practiced on a large scale in this city, according to District Attorney Francis Martin of Bronx County and District Attorney Harry E. Lewis of Kings County.

"I believe that the entire industry, in all its phases, needs to be taken under Federal control, after the experience we have had in dealing with coal profiteering," said Mr. Martin yesterday. "That seems to be the only way the situation can be met. The coal situation today is so bad that I don't know what the people are going to do. Many apartment houses are virtually without coal and are getting only a very little at a time.

"I would be against such a proposal ordinarily, but I think there is no other remedy than stringent Government control. I consider it a last remedy, but it seems to be the only one.

"There should be legislation, in my opinion, directing how the coal should be distributed. Some means should be found of spreading the delivery of it equally from early Spring until late in the Fall. Incentives should be offered to induce the consumer to buy early."

District Attorney Lewis of Brooklyn said yesterday that he had unearthed much evidence of profiteering which would be turned over to the Attorney General, and that he had come to the conclusion that strict Federal control was absolutely necessary.

"In the investigation relative to the coal situation my plan has been twofold," said Mr. Lewis. "Firstly, to discover if there exists an unlawful combination or conspiracy in this county and, secondly, to obtain all proof available so that if this office is without jurisdiction, those with authority and jurisdiction may act.

"I have discovered an alarming condition," he continued. "During the month of October, I found that egg, stove and chestnut coal were sold by some coal companies, through the middlemen, to coal dealers in Brooklyn, for $7.80 and $8.10 per ton f. o. b. the mines. During the same period I found that independent coal dealers were selling egg, stove and chestnut coal for prices ranging from $11 to $18 per ton at the mines.

"Of course, this condition will not permit of prosecution by local district attorneys. It is an indication of profiteering to an alarming extent, and certainly merits investigation and prosecution by the Attorney General, who has power to deal with such violations. If the Lever act is of any force at all, this condition demonstrates clearly that those selling coal during the month of October for $15 and $16 per ton were profiteering, for the others could not sell and did not sell without a profit at $8.10 and $8.40 per ton.

"I have read with interest the promise of Senator Calder that if the coal operators and dealers do not deal fairly with the public he would advocate Federal control with reference to the coal situation. The facts in my possession absolutely demonstrate the necessity of Federal control at once."

Mr. Lewis said he had in his possession many of the original invoices of the middlemen to the Brooklyn dealers showing how on the same dates the same middleman sold to the same dealers two lots of coal. One of these lots, he said, was coal produced at the mines of one of the large companies and the other lot was coal from the mine of one of the independent operators. The independent coal in all cases was billed at a price almost 100 per cent. higher than the coal from the large companies. "It will be an easy matter for the Attorney General to subpoena the books of the middlemen and procure the names of the independent operators," he said.

Mr. Lewis absolved the retail dealer and the middlemen from any blame in the rise of the price of coal. He asserted that he found that in most cases where the retail dealer was compelled to pay two prices for coal that he averaged the price per ton to the consumer so that all householders would share the burden of the excessive price charged by the independent operator.

OPEN SEASON NOW FOR JOB HUNTERS

Local Republican Leaders Preparing to Fill Offices Under New Administration.

MANY FINE FEDERAL PLUMS

Scores of Places Under State Rule Also Will Fall to Faithful Party Workers.

With the Republican victory in State and nation the open season on patronage has set in. Already job hunters are busy and scores of applications are coming into the Republican national, State and county headquarters for every place that will be available.

Of Federal patronage there will be such a lot that Republican leaders have lost track of the jobs available for party workers. It has been suggested by some office seekers that the National Committee take an inventory of the supply to simplify matters, but to this suggestion Chairman Will H. Hays is said to have turned a deaf ear, because it would look too much like a return to old-time "practical" methods.

Because of the victory of Nathan L. Miller, there will be a good many State jobs for distribution, but the Republican leaders look to the shaking of the Federal plum tree far more hopefully and expectantly than to patronage from Albany. Although the Governor's chair has been occupied for two years by a Democrat, most of the big jobs in Albany still are held by Republicans, who probably will continue to hold them unless they should voluntarily retire—and of this there is little prospect.

Charles S. Whitman, while Governor, aided by a Republican Legislature, put through a lot of so-called "ripper" legislation to pry big politicians at Albany out of Democratic hands, and to make sure the continued tenure of Republicans who took the jobs, caused statutory provision to be made for fixed terms, running in many instances for five years for positions where the length of service previously had been co-terminous with that of the Governor.

Prize Federal Offices.

The prize plum in the Federal list is the office of Collector of the Port, now held by Byron D. Newton, a former newspaper man, who was the right hand man of William G. McAdoo in the Treasury Department before he became Collector. It pays $12,000 a year and probably will be filled soon after President Harding has named his Secretary of the Treasury. Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, will make a strong effort to land this job for some "deserving" member of the New York County organization.

Other places in the customs service for which there are many bids from local Republicans are those of Surveyor of the Port and Appraiser of the Port. Each pays $8,000 a year. Naval Officer is also a position for which there has been much lobbying. The salary, $6,000. The office now is held by H. Otto Wittpen of Jersey City.

Thomas E. Rush, a Democratic district leader known for his fights on Tammany Hall, is Surveyor of the Port. Both the Collector and the Surveyor and the Appraiser of the Port have deputies, but these recently have been safeguarded by such protection as the Civil Service law affords and cannot be ousted except for cause.

Henry W. Stuart, veteran deputy in the office of the Collector of the Port, receives a salary of $6,000, and there are five Deputy Appraisers at $4,000 each. In the Appraiser's Department are nine members of a Board of Appraisal with the title of Judge. They draw a salary of $9,000 each. Republicans who have been casting hungry eyes on these offices have found to their sorrow that the nine Judges have been appointed for life. In the Naval Officer's Department and that of the Collector of the Port are some special deputies whose places are available when the change of administration occurs. The salaries are not large enough to render them attractive. The special deputies in the Collector's office are paid only $3,000 each.

Other jobs in which local Republicans are manifesting interest are those of United States Commissioner of Immigration, $6,000; Assistant Treasurer of the United States, $5,000; Director of the Assay Office, United States Attorneys for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York, the former in Manhattan and the latter in Brooklyn; Assistant Attorney General for the Customs Service, $8,000; three Internal Revenue Collectors—for the First District, which takes in Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond; for the Second District, which includes Manhattan, and the Fourteenth, with headquarters in Albany, but includes the Borough of the Bronx; two United States Marshals for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York; Auditor of the Customs Service, attorneys for the Treasury Department and attorney for the New York offices of the Federal Trade Commission.

Fifteen Exempt Officers.

Under the auditor of the Customs Service there are fifteen exempt places, with salaries ranging from $4,200 down and aggregating $34,960, which undoubtedly will go to the local Republican organization.

The office of Commissioner of Immigration is held by Frederick A. Wallis, who has been a Special Deputy Police Commissioner in the Hylan administration. Martin Vogel, a Westchester Democrat, is Assistant Treasurer and Director of the Sub-Treasury. Thomas D. McCarthy is United States Marshal for the Southern District and James M Power of Brooklyn Marshal for the Eastern District. William H. ("Big Bill") Edwards is United States Internal Revenue Collector in the Manhattan district, Bertram Gardiner in the Brooklyn district, and Roscoe Irwin, ex-Mayor of Kingston, in the Fourteenth District. Bert Hanson, former Deputy Police Commissioner, is United States Assistant Attorney General for the Customs Service.

Two jobs that may be out of reach of the Republican patronage hunters are those of Postmaster in Manhattan and Brooklyn. The former is held by ex-Representative Thomas G. Patten, the latter by Walter G. Burton. Before Congress became Republican Civil Service safeguards were established to protect them.

The firm of Barber, Watson & Gibboney has been attorneys for the Treasury Department during the present Administration. The law business of the Treasury Department in this city is known to be exceedingly remunerative and a lively rivalry among Republican lawyers for the fat retainers involved is looked for.

State Jobs to Be Filled.

The State jobs to be filled by Governor Miller carry approximately a total of $200,000 in annual salaries. They include two places on the up-State Public Service Commission at $15,000 annually and these other places:

Office.	Incumbent.	Salary.
Hospital Commissioner,	Andrew D. Morgan (Dem.)	$6,000
Adjutant General,	C. W. Berry (Dem.)	8,000
State Fair Commissioner,	Fred B. Parker (Rep.)	2,000
State Fair Commissioner,	Pierre Lorillard, Jr. (Rep.)	2,000
Bronx Parkway Commissioner,	Madison Grant (Rep.)	2,500
Bronx Parkway Commissioner,	Frank H. Bethell (Rep.)	2,500
Court of Claims,	Fred M. Ackerson (Rep.)	8,000
Court of Claims,	Charles Morschauser (Rep.)	8,000
Court of Claims,	W. D. Cunningham (Rep.)	8,000
Conservation Commissioner,	George D. Pratt (Rep.)	8,000
Excise Commissioner,	Herbert S. Sisson, (Rep.)	7,000
Fiscal Supervisor,	Frank R. Utter, (Rep.)	6,000
Superintendent of Insurance,	Jesse S. Phillips (Rep.)	10,000
Miscellaneous Reporter,	W. Van H. Ewing (Rep.)	6,000
Superintendent Public Works,	Edward S. Walsh (Dem.)	6,000
Tax Commissioner,	Michael F. Walsh (Dem.)	6,000
Tax Commissioner,	J. J. Merrill (Rep.)	6,000
Superintendent Public Buildings,	John J. McGrath (Dem.)	5,000
Executive Auditor,	vacant	5,000
Exec. Counsel,	J. A. Parsons (Dem.)	5,000
Secretary to Governor,	J. F. Connor (Dem.)	6,000
Military Secretary,	vacant	3,500
Industrial Commissioner,	Cyrus W. Phillips (Rep.)	8,000
Superintendent State Police,	George F. Chandler (Rep.)	5,000
State Boxing Commissioner,	Ditmars (Dem.)	5,000

In addition, it is expected that the place at the head of the State Highway Department will become vacant early in the Miller administration, though this may have to be accomplished by legislation, the term of Commissioner Frederick S. Greene not expiring until 1924. The Republicans are keen to gain control of this department which, besides being prolific in patronage, awards contracts aggregating millions of dollars annually.

Governor Miller also will have the appointment of several minor officials, including nine Port Wardens. Aside from positions filled by the Governor there are exempt places not protected by Civil Service, filled by other elective State officials and by appointive heads of the administrative departments that should not the Republican State organization additional patronage worth, in round numbers, from $300,000 to $400,000 a year in salaries.

SEEKING LOUWISCH ON PERJURY CHARGE

FEARS THAT HE IS A SUICIDE

His Attorney Says He Has Disappeared from His Last Reported Refuge in Virginia.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Nov. 8.—As the result of an investigation into the circumstances of the annulment of the marriage of Rabbi Joseph Louwisch, formerly Principal of the Poughkeepsie Hebrew School, to his boyhood sweetheart, Sheva Levine, who came all the way from Russia to be married to him last August and committed suicide when the Rabbi started the annulment proceedings, a warrant was issued today by Justice Joseph Morschauser, charging the Rabbi with subornation of perjury. Louwisch was not in court when Justice Morschauser decided to issue the warrant, and fears were entertained by the Rabbi's attorney, John E. Mach, that he had committed suicide, for he said the Rabbi was last heard from in Virginia, where he had since disappeared.

Raymond Aldrich, District Attorney of Dutchess County, announced that he would take the case before the Grand Jury tomorrow.

When Davis Stein, a notary public of this place, was put on the stand at the investigation he testified that he had witnessed affidavits made at the time the annulment action was begun which were dictated by the Rabbi. Solomon Kreppel, who testified that he had come to this country on the same ship with the prospective bride, bore witness to her good character and said he had known Sheva Levine all her life.

On Oct. 23 Rabbi Louwisch was rescued from a mob of members of his congregation who became infuriated when they learned that his bride had hanged herself. He was rescued by the police and endeavored to placate his followers by charging that his bride had adopted Bolshevist theories which compelled his decision to terminate their married union.

GAMBLE ON VERDICT IN WELSH MURDER CASE

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Kidwelly poison trial reached its penultimate stage today when counsel for the defense, Sir Marshall Hall, made a three hours' speech during which the prisoner, Harold Greenwood, shed tears. Justice Shearman will sum up tomorrow.

The Welsh correspondent says: "Interest has not stopped short at wordy speculation as to the verdict but has developed into a horrible gamble. I am speaking from my own observation when I say that betting on the result of the trial is widespread and that books are being compiled with professional thoroughness, especially in the mining districts. Women also are said to be laying and taking odds."

The trial at Kidwelly, in Wales, of Harold Greenwood, a middle-aged lawyer, charged with murdering his former wife by arsenic poisoning in order that he might marry his present wife, was described in cable dispatches on Sunday as having created a sensation in the London press.

50 MARINES FIGHT POLICE.

Battle Starts After Sea Soldiers Break Up Union Sq. Performance.

About fifty Marines fought with police reserves from the Mercer Street Station on Fourteenth Street, just east of Broadway, last night after the service men had been put out of a theatre for breaking up the show. The disturbance was checked after a fifteen-minute battle, during which several Marines were badly bruised and cut.

The Marines attended Kahn's Union Square Theatre in a body, and according to the management began immediately to interrupt the performance by shouting at the actors. Shortly after 10 o'clock the manager had the curtain rung down and announced that the show was over. The Marines were persuaded to leave the theatre, but they remained outside and engaged in an altercation with Special Officer Charles Bonjino and James J. Campbell. Campbell fired a shot which brought Patrolmen O'Shea and Reilly, who were immediately attacked. The reserves arrived a few minutes later and joined in a hand-to-hand fight.

During the struggle the glass in several storm doors in front of the theatre was broken and several were badly cut. The police took four prisoners, who said they were Robert Campbell, George Zucker, John Kravisky and Fred Smith, all attached to the North Dakota. They were held on charges of attempted felonious assault.

SHOOT AT MINERS IN WEST VIRGINIA

Recurrence of Troubles Follows Withdrawal of Federal Troops —Assailants Escape.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Nov. 8.—Firing by persons unknown into mining camps on both the West Virginia and Kentucky sides of Tug River was resumed today, the first in several weeks. While casualties are reported as light, only two being reported injured, the feeling is such that it is feared there will be a recurrence of the fighting that made conditions so bad here before the arrival of Federal troops.

Throughout the time that United States troops were stationed in this district there was little or no trouble, but with their withdrawal a few days ago unknown persons began to stir up bitterness. The first real trouble occurred Sunday afternoon when a dynamite explosion partly wrecked the tipple of the Thacker Coal Mining Company at Rose siding, about ten miles from this place. At Rawl, Sunday night, it is reported that some shooting occurred between men unknown to police and mine guards, but only meagre reports have been received here.

The shooting today came from far up on the hill on the Kentucky side of the river. The men who did the shooting were well hidden behind brush on the mountain side and from this point fired into the Thacker Coal Mining Company's camp on the West Virginia side of the river. The assailants, upon leaving their place of vantage, set fire to the woods and when the State police reached the place where they were thought to be hiding they found the hillside a mass of flame, cutting them off from further investigation. It was some time afterward before the State police could get through the burning woods. They then found no trace of the men who had done the shooting.

Another attack today was made from the West Virginia side of the river, shots being fired at employes of the Borderland Coal Company at work on the Kentucky side. Guards at the Borderland Company returned the fire, but no one was injured.

The force of State police has been increased since the departure of the Federal troops, but it is feared that with such an easily recurrence of shooting the State police may not be able to cope with the situation, and it may be necessary to call Federal troops back into the field.

RUSH OF HOMESEEKERS TO LIVE IN SPARTA

Frank A. Vanderlip Says Obtaining Tenants Is Easiest Problem of Remodelling Village.

Special to The New York Times.

SCARBOROUGH, N. Y., Nov. 8.—A rush of homeseekers is reported today for apartments in the village of Sparta, which Frank A. Vanderlip bought outright to rid the community of undesirables and is remodeling with modern apartments and improvements. Mr. Vanderlip, in describing the project, said:

"I needn't worry about getting tenants. There are plenty seeking tenements there. That's the easiest of my problems."

When asked if the employes of his own country place, Beechwood, a half mile south of Sparta, and of other country homes near there would settle in Sparta, he said: "I think some of them will, of course."

Mr. Vanderlip announced that he was going to pave the streets. "I don't know whether there are electric lights on the streets or not," he continued, "as I have never been down there at night." He explained that electricity, gas and all modern improvements would be installed and that an aqueduct already supplied water there.

"There is a community clubhouse there which we have opened to the community," he announced. He said that he had received no protests from any of the present tenants had to leave Sparta when he started his plan, and explained that many of Sparta's citizens will remain.

Murphy Gets More Time to Plead.

Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, and five co-defendants indicted on charges of alleged conspiracy to induce Louis N. Hartog to withdraw a civil action and to deprive the Government of alleged excess profits taxes were permitted to delay their pleadings to Dec. 6 by Justice Weeks in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court yesterday. The other defendants are Assistant District Attorney J. E. Smith, John A. McCarthy, E. B. Walden, Arthur J. Baldwin and the Corn Products Refining Company. A motion by the defendants to dismiss the indictments is pending before Supreme Court Justice Wagner. On Oct. 15, the Appellate Division denied a writ of prohibition to Special Deputy General Rand to restrain Justice Wagner from hearing the motion to dismiss the indictments.

OWNERS CAN STORE AND MOVE LIQUOR

and similar questions arising from the undetermined scope of the new interpretation of the Volstead act.

Prohibition enforcement officials began studying the decision immediately after it was read. The opinion was expressed that many changes would have to be made in the enforcement regulations.

One effect of the decision that was foreseen was the danger of increased opportunity for fraud among persons seeking means of violating the law. Without the check on transportation provided by the permit system, officials indicated that they expected greater difficulty in controlling unlawful sales.

A conclusion has not been reached as to whether the court's interpretation opens the way for unrestricted transportation in interstate commerce. That transfer can be made within a State apparently is specific, but the language of the court when analyzed may yet show, officials thought, means whereby interstate transportation can be stopped. In the particular case involved, it was pointed out, the owner's legal residence and the place of storage were in the same city.

In connection with the transportation of liquors, officials said, it would be difficult if not impossible for them to determine the legality of purchases and whether the stored stocks had been obtained prior to the effective date of the Volstead act. This was expected to result in more stringent regulations with respect to withdrawals of beverages from bonded warehouses, but the same regulations cannot be made to apply to ordinary storage warehouses. Stored stocks, therefore, again are without the law to a great degree, officials said, adding that they anticipated speedy removal from such storage.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The Supreme Court's ruling that liquor lawfully acquired can be moved from place to place will not affect the legality of the Illinois search and seizure law, which prohibits this practice, Federal officials here said today. Persons transporting liquor, however, will be subject to arrest only by police or State officials.

No "Opening Up," Agent Boyd Declares.

Frank L. Boyd, Federal Supervising Prohibition Agent, declared last night that the ruling in the Street case would have no effect on the local situation so far as "opening up" the city was concerned. The cases with which the prohibition enforcement agents have to deal are entirely different from the one decided by the Supreme Court, Mr. Boyd said, and, therefore, he looked for no difference in the handling of the situation here.

Mr. Boyd said that in his opinion the agents would have the same authority as they have had heretofore in raiding places where they believed intoxicants were held illegally. He denied that the decision meant the return of the locker club system.

It was also said by Mr. Boyd that every bottle of liquor seized in his district had been placed in bonded warehouses. There it remained, he said, ready to be returned to owners if the courts so ordered. He said he had no figures at hand to show the exact quantity of liquor held subject to judicial mandate.

The plaintiff in the action is a railroad Director and member of many clubs, including the Metropolitan, Racquet and American Field and Turf. He makes his home at the Racquet Club, 12 West Forty-fourth Street. Attorney Joseph S. Auerbach said that for some years prior to the time prohibition became operative the plaintiff had accumulated a stock of wines and liquors, storing them at the Lincoln Safe Deposit Company, 60 East Forty-second Street. When prohibition took effect the warehouse company, acting on instructions from the enforcement agents, notified him that the liquor would have to be removed. Action was then started in the United States Court. Judge Knox who heard the case upheld the prohibition agents and appeal was then taken to the Supreme Court.

DOCTORS' RUM LICENSES LAG.

Only 300 of 3,700 Holders Ask Renewal Despite Extended Time.

Only 300 physicians of the more than 3,700 in this city who now have license to prescribe whisky for patients have asked for a renewal of their licenses, although two months have passed since the legal time for making the application for licenses expired. This fact was developed yesterday afternoon, when Charles R. O'Connor, Federal Director of Prohibition for this State, said that the time for the granting of all whisky permits had been extended from Aug. 31 to Dec. 31. The physicians, it is reported, find various medicines of more effect than liquor.

"Another ruling," said Mr. O'Connor in further announcing his policy, "of the greatest importance has been made in this connection. In case a permit, which was granted before Aug. 31 and therefore expires Dec. 31 under the regulations, is not renewed by the affirmative action of the department and the permittee has filed a renewal application, such renewal application amounts to an extension of the original permit until such time as the department takes affirmative action on said renewal application and either approves or disapproves the same. These modifications of Regulation 60 have been made necessary not only by reason of unfamiliarity with the law and regulations, but by reason of the great volume of business with which the Federal prohibition officers have been compelled to cope."

Director O'Connor returned yesterday after several days' conference in Washington with Internal Revenue Commissioner Williams and Prohibition Commissioner Kramer regarding the local situation. Rumors that Mr. O'Connor had been asked to resign were denied in press dispatches sent from Washington Saturday.

Ten agents of Frank L. Boyd, Federal Supervising Prohibition Agent, after a fight with twenty-five men seized about 400 cases of liquor, valued at $30,000, yesterday afternoon in the warehouse of M. Grief, 130 Rivington Street. A crowd of 3,000 collected in the street and somebody sent in a riot call which was answered by all the reserves of the Delancey Street Station.

ANDERSON DOUBTS BIG CHANGE

William H. Anderson, Superintendent of the State Anti-Saloon League, said yesterday that the summary of the Supreme Court decision he had read did not seem to him to weaken the Volstead act materially, but that his opinion might be different when he read the full text.

"There is surely nothing startling about the decision that a man who had acquired liquor lawfully had the right to store it in a warehouse," he said. "If it turns out that the decision makes it difficult to stop carrying liquor on the hip or keeping it in a club locker, undoubtedly amendments to the Volstead act will be introduced and passed at the coming session of Congress, overcoming those defects in the law.

GIVE $4,000,000 FOR CHILDREN'S SOCIETY

mind that we are dealing with children whose lives are spent in suffering and sorrow, whose horizon is the gutter. A little sunshine will warm the hearts of these waifs and strays.

"It is hoped that a clinic will be possible in conjunction with the magnificent hospital now in course of erection next door. The children, if that can be accomplished, will be given an opportunity for self-improvement, a chance to see the trees and shrubs, the green grass and the blue sky in the noble park across the way. There will be educational films, kindergarten, a lecture hall wading and swimming pools. Altogether the intention is to strike at the root of many social evils, the Seeds for which are sown in the stunted childlife of our metropolis.

"While the value of the proposed gift is well in excess of $3,000,000 it is confidently believed that this is only a beginning. With a mission such as the society has now undertaken how can it help but feel that more money will be offered even than these new and far-flung activities can absorb? Let every mother judge and lend a helping hand. Colonel Coulter insists that he had hitched his auto-wagon to a star. May it be the Star of Bethlehem."

Tunnel Under Avenue Planned.

In the tentative plans of the building, the architect, Julius Franke has included a tunnel under Fifth Avenue that will enable the children to reach the park without crossing the thoroughfare. Permission of the city will be asked for this feature of the building, which would open through the embankment directly before the botanical gardens there. An entrance also is to be constructed at the rear so that buses carrying children to the building can drive into the basement and there unload.

Included also in the building are three separate chapels, so that the society may follow its policy of permitting child inmates to receive instruction in the religion of their parents. There will be a place of worship for Catholic children, a separate place for Protestants, and a third for Jewish children. Ample playground facilities also are to be included, although the plan includes also much use of Central Park.

The plot of ground that is to be the site for the new home was acquired by Mr. Heckscher in 1914, and is said to be worth more than $1,000,000. Only one building now stands on the property in the block to the north is the new Fifth Avenue hospital, now under construction, and the Mount Sinai Hospital is only a few blocks away at 100th Street.

When it sold its old home in Fourth Avenue, the Children's Society bought three other lots adjoining the Children's Court at 137 East Twenty-second Street with the idea that it might build on that small plot. Under revised plans this plot will be used for a smaller building that will provide offices and hospital and quarters for children who are to appear in the court.

18,169 Complaints in Year.

The society last year, in the forty-fifth of its existence, acted in 18,169 complaints, involving more than 54,000 children. About 531 lost children were restored to their parents. About 8,862 children under 16 were cared for pending adjustment of court cases.

Adrian Iselin is the acting President of the society and the Vice Presidents are Vernon M. Davis, P. G. Gerry, John G. Agar, Dallas B. Pratt, Morgan J. O'Brien, George G. Haven, Mortimar L. Schiff, George F. Baker and Charles A. Peabody. The Board of Directors comprises about fifteen other prominent citizens.

The only comment made by Mr. and Mrs. Heckscher, aside from the formal announcement, was that "they regret they cannot give more."

Mr. Heckscher was born in Hamburg, Germany, in 1848, but came to this country at the age of 20 to work in the Pennsylvania coal fields. His rise there was rapid and he soon acquired control of collieries. At the age of 42 he lost his entire fortune in a legal fight over title to New Jersey zinc mines and started life over again with a loan of $50,000. He soon became a millionaire again. He is now a Director in many mining companies and banks and as head of the Anahma Realty Corporation, is one of the largest holders of real estate in the city. His home now is at 820 Park Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Heckscher have two children, Maurice Heckscher, a famous polo player, and Mrs. Oliver Brett of London.

A Health Hint

Do you realize just how dependent your health is upon your shoes? Shoes that transmit shock set every nerve aquiver with blow on blow as your feet hit the pavement. Constant repetition is bound to result in nervous exhaustion, and consequent irritability and loss of vitality.

But you can prevent such strain on the health by proper care of the feet, which primarily is dependent on the shoes you wear. The Dr. Reed Cushion Shoe is built to absorb the hammer blows of pavements and the strain of standing. They conserve your health and energy. Better get a pair next time.

H. G. WELLS SEES RUSSIAN MISERY.

Russia is at last trying to do something to relieve the wretchedness of her writers, artists and men of science. H. G. Wells recently visited Russia, and his impressions are being published in The New York Times on successive Sundays in a series of articles attracting world-wide attention. This second article will appear next Sunday.

REPUBLICAN LEAD IN HOUSE NOW 179

Record Majority Compiled by Clerk Will Be Little Changed by Official Returns.

307 REPUBLICANS CHOSEN

Only 127 Democrats and One Socialist on the Membership List as Made Public.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The unofficial list of members of the next House of Representatives, as prepared under the direction of William Tyler Page, Clerk of the House, shows that the Republicans will have a majority of 179, the largest ever known. The list, compiled on telegraphic messages from doubtful districts, may be changed in one or two respects later. As it stands, the Republicans have 307 members, the Democrats 127 and the Socialists 1.

One hundred and nineteen members of the present House were not returned. Some were defeated in the primaries or were not candidates for re-election; a few ran for the Senate, but most were defeated Tuesday.

Hull Beaten for Re-election.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 8.—Representative Cordell Hull of the Fourth Congressional District has been defeated for re-election by a majority of 390 by W. F. Clouse, Republican, according to the official count of ballots completed today.

WOOD PRAISES MILLER TO REPUBLICAN WOMEN

Says Administration Will First Consider State Tax Cut, Expense Reduction and Dry Law.

Lieutenant Governor-elect, Jeremiah Wood, was the chief guest at a "victory" celebration of Republican women at the Vanderbuilt Hotel yesterday. He complimented them for their part in the campaign, and said that it was "a great thing" that the Republican vote was increased largely through their activities.

"The problems that face the party," he said, "are tremendous. The people look to its leaders to do things that are perhaps beyond the possibility of human frailty. The time of promises is past and the time of performance has come. I believe that with the guiding hand of the women those duties will be performed.

"It is a great thing to have in the Governor's chair these next two years a man of the mental capacity and integrity of Judge Miller's. His conception of the law as supreme, and above any official or group of officials, will be the guiding note of his administration. That administration will be a credit to the Republican party. It will be a pleasure to me to serve with Judge Miller, and I feel sure that he will gather around him the men of ability in this State."

After the meeting, Mr. Wood said that the first matters to receive attention after they took office would be the reduction of the State debt, reorganization of departments to effect economies and the passing of a prohibition enforcement law.

Local leaders in the various boroughs spoke at yesterday's meeting. Those from the Bronx, Queens and Richmond were jubilant over their districts' change from Democracy to Republicanism.

TELLS NON-PARTISAN GAINS.

Publicity Director Says League's Candidates Got a Million Votes.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 8.—Results of Tuesday's election are construed as "a remarkable gain" for the National Non-Partisan League in a statement given to The Associated Press today by Oliver S. Morris, director of league publicity for the League.

"League candidates polled more than 1,000,000 votes in 1920 in nine States," Mr. Morris said. "This is more than three times the vote of two years ago, and is a remarkable gain in a Republican landslide year."

Mr. Morris stated that although the League candidates for State office in Minnesota were defeated by large majorities, men indorsed by the League in Wisconsin and North Dakota were elected Governors, while in North Dakota, the first Non-Partisan United States Senator was named.

"We increased our membership in the National House of Representatives from four to six," Mr. Morris continued. "Although beaten for State offices in Minnesota, we just about maintained our minority strength in the Minnesota and Wisconsin Legislatures, and retained control in North Dakota. In Montana, Idaho, Washington and Nebraska we elected several State legislators.

"On the whole, we feel that the League has made wonderful progress in two years."

FIND THREE WOMEN GUILTY.

They Were Arrested in Raid on Hotel Where Waters Was Slain.

Three of four young women arrested in a raid by detectives on the Plymouth Hotel, 267 West Thirty-eighth Street early Sunday while the police were investigating the murder of Leede Vaughan Waters, were found guilty of disorderly conduct in Women's Court yesterday by Magistrate Mansuso and sent to the Florence Crittenton home pending sentence on Thursday. Evelyn Bradley, 20, an actress who lived at the Plymouth, was held on another charge.

There was no reference to the death of Waters at the hearing, the detectives confining themselves strictly to what they saw when they broke into the rooms occupied by the defendants. The young women described themselves as Grace Hastings, 28, of 449 West Forty-sixth Street; Lillian Clifford, 20, of 359 First Street, Long Island City; and Mildred Dunn, 24, of 467 Eighth Avenue.

ACCUSES EX-BOY SCOUT.

Former Financial Secretary of Organization Held on Bad Check Charge.

Charged by the Guaranty Trust Company of 524 Fifth Avenue with grand larceny, Franklin Dubbel of 948 Summit Avenue, Mount Vernon, was held by Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb in the Yorkville Court yesterday in $5,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

James L. Dale, paying teller of the bank, alleged that Dubbel had presented a check for $4,500 drawn on the Bank of Waynesboro, Pa., on Aug. 24, opening an account at the same time. After depositing the check he obtained a draft for $2,400 which he deposited to his credit at the Mount Vernon Trust Company. When the Guaranty Trust Company communicated with the Pennsylvania institution it learned that Dubbel did not have an account there, it was alleged.

Dubbel, who pleaded not guilty, formerly was Financial Secretary of the Boy Scouts of America.

Slade Summons Filed.

The summons in the suit brought by David Weller, a shoe merchant, against David H. Slade, lawyer, for alienating the affections of Mrs. Weller, was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday. The amount claimed is not stated in the summons, but it is said to be for $250,000. The suit was brought after Weller was arrested in Yonkers for assaulting Slade, who was riding in a taxicab with Mrs. Weller.

Printing Facts

Hand-lettering is generally better than type on a catalogue cover; it is seldom as good as type for chapter headings. Beware of having a whole page drawn (unless it be a title-page; and even in this case type is generally preferable). Probably no artist has ever lettered a whole page which is as readable as type. And as we have so often said: That which is printed is printed to be read.

SOVIET AGENTS SEEK TO GET HERE

Spy and Courier System Said to Surpass That of Late German General Staff.

LIST 25,000 "MISSIONARIES"

Many Thought to Have Made Their Way Here as Members of Ships' Crews.

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 8.—Determined efforts are being made by agents of the Russian Bolshevist Government to send "missionaries" and agitators to the United States, according to evidence collected by American diplomatic officials in Europe. The spy and courier system of the Moscow Government is said to have been developed to an efficiency and extent superior to that of the German General Staff before the outbreak of the great war, and on the lists of Soviet secret agents are said to be the names of many men who before 1914 acted as spies for the Central Powers or Russia.

Against this campaign the United States has arrayed its agents and officials at foreign ports. Associated with them in Holland are the Dutch police, who have in their possession documents showing that Lenin, the Soviet leader, looks to Rotterdam as a "world clearing house" for Soviet finance and propaganda. Huge index files have been filled with the names and records of upward of 25,000 Bolshevist "missionaries," and these files have been placed in virtually every American Embassy, Legation and Consulate in Europe. New passport regulations have been adopted and difficulties await the Bolshevist agitator who attempts to procure a visé from an American representative.

Despite these regulations and the constant vigilance of American officials it is believed some Bolshevist agents have in the recent past succeeded in finding means to cross the ocean. Scores are thought to have shipped as seamen on board transatlantic liners. American certificates have been obtained by various means and it is said a brisk trade is carried on in stolen or counterfeited certificates, as well as fake passports. Clever alterations and forgeries have been detected by officials whose duty it is to examine the papers of travelers wishing to visit America.

Attempts are made to obtain places in ships' crews for Bolshevist agents, and often outright bribery is tried. The equivalent of $250 a day was recently offered an attaché of an American consulate if he would assist in getting through to the United States six Soviet agitators daily. Stewards of liners are declared to have sometimes yielded to alluring offers for hiding Bolshevist agents on their vessels during trips across the Atlantic. Failing to get passage to a port in the United States, the Bolsheviki try to reach Canada, whence they can easily get across the border. American authorities abroad are said to have advised Washington that many Soviet couriers are believed to have sailed from here to Canadian ports recently.

Men of virtually every nationality and of every profession are engaged in the work of spreading Bolshevist propaganda, it is asserted. Lists compiled include men of all kinds, from college professors to dock hands. There are also many women enlisted in the cause. Officials who have examined the lists say very few of the Soviet workers are native-born Americans, but that a number of naturalized American citizens are in the service.

YOUTH DIES IN 5-STORY FALL

Police Say He Was Trying to Plunder Merchants' Apartment.

A few minutes before Edward Sullivan, 20 years old, of 1,752 Park Avenue, died last night in Harlem Hospital Detective John T. McLaughlin of the East 104th Street Station stepped to the bedside, identified Sullivan and explained how the youth fell five stories yesterday afternoon from a window ledge of an apartment at 431 East 115th Street.

Sullivan, said the detective, went to the apartment house late in the afternoon bent on plundering the home of Joseph Sagina, a merchant. The youth, described by the detective as a drug addict with a criminal record, swung himself out of a hall window and stepped to the ledge of the Sagina apartment, kicking in the window. Just as he was about to go through the sash a wooden flower box on which he was standing gave way and he plunged to a rear court-yard, carrying the window sash, tightly gripped.

In the same station last night was Patrick Smith, also 20 years old, of 168 East 198th Street, the Bronx, held on charge of burglary made by Miss Lucy Difimedo of 203 East 102d Street. Miss Difimedo is to be married next week and yesterday went out to buy more wedding purchases to add to her $1,000 stock. When she got back the $1,000 stock had disappeared. Detectives saw Smith carrying a bundle in Second Avenue, near 103d Street, and, they declared, examination of the bundle at the station house brought the bride-elect around with an identification of its contents as the things she had missed.

GREER HOUSE OPENED.

Students' Club Will Accommodate Forty-five Young Women.

Greer House, a club named for the late Bishop David H. Greer, at 121 and 123 East Twenty-eighth Street, intended for non-resident women students of art, music or the drama, was opened yesterday. To be eligible one must be a woman student, an Episcopalian and under 30 years old. The club is under the auspices of the Churchwomen's League for Patriotic Service.

There are accommodations for forty-five young women, and thirty are already in the club. The rooms rent from $7 to $11 a week. The students pay for only such meals as they eat. The directress of the house is Miss Antoinette Greely. It is planned to serve tea at the club every afternoon and to hold a dance once a week. Musicales will be arranged for Sunday afternoons.

Smile Magnetism

It is easy to be popular when you can show 32 gleaming white teeth in every smile.

A Personal Word About Your Filing System

Some Suggestions on How to Speed up and Perfect the Service of Filing and Finding

HAVE you ever stopped to figure out just how many minutes you waste hunting for or waiting for correspondence that has been filed but which "just simply can't be found"? The wasted time and labor, the exhausted patience, the actual losses in business—how great these must be every year, from filing inefficiency.

Imagine, then, how decisive is the advantage of the executive who in his office is backed by Rand Filing Equipment. For this Equipment is unique. The Rand Angle Tab, for instance, places each name or subdivision so that it catches the eye instantly. Thus it not only speeds up filing and finding but lengthens the life of the guides and folders considerably by making it unnecessary to "pull or push" to see the sub-division or name. Colored Tabs signal the place to look—thus making the task of filing and finding easier still.

Further, Rand guides and folders, to which these Angle Tabs are attached, are made of the sturdiest material obtainable. Not only are they of such strength that they stand the hardest usage, but their flexibility and distinctive color further aid in speeding up filing service.

In thousands upon thousands of offices—private and governmental—Rand Angle Tabs and Guides and Folders have enabled executives to forget their filing problem—a condition possible only when the service is perfect.

For those who are interested in the filing problem we have published a book called "Filing and Finding" which will help stop the loss and the leaks in your filing system. Ask our local office today to send you a copy. It involves no obligations whatever.

Please do not compare this sale of coats with any other sale of its kind you have come across in Manhattan this season. There is no comparison. There might have been in quantity—but not in quality—at their price. Candidly, there's not a garment in the lot but that would pass for a good all around custom made, had not the contrary been called to your attention. Their appearance is sensible, yet stylish. Their tailoring is not the sort that one usually sees in coats that are sold more for the profit they bring the seller rather than the good they do the wearer. It is much better than this. Look over a seam—a cuff—a collar—any place—anywhere—you will find this to be true. The workmanship and finish will certainly surprise you. The makers mould these garments to coincide with the dictates of the finest trade, and the garments show it at a glance.

WOMEN WILL SHARE IN STATE WAR BONUS

Attorney General Newton Explains to Veterans Conditions Under Which It Will Be Paid.

LEGISLATURE MUST ACT YET

Applicants Are Warned Not to Apply Until Commission Is Set Up to Make Payments.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 8.—The bonus which the voters of the State ratified at the election last Tuesday is for women as well as the men who served in the World War, Attorney General Charles D. Newton declared today in a statement which was designed to give information to veterans as to their status under the bonus plan.

"The bonus will be payable on application to the commission. The time limit for applications will be fixed by the Legislature.

"Qualifications necessary to entitle a person to the bonus are as follows:

"It is payable to both men and women.

"The applicant must have been enlisted, inducted, warranted, or commissioned in the military or naval service of the United States.

"Must have served honorably in active duty at some time between April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918.

"Must have served for more than two months.

"Must have been a resident of the State of New York when he entered the service and must have been a resident of the State of New York on Nov. 4, 1920.

"Must have been honorably separated or discharged from the military or naval service or be still in the service, active, reserve or retired.

"Officers above the grade of Captain in the army or Marine Corps and officers above the grade of Lieutenant, senior grade, in the navy are not entitled to the bonus, nor are men whose only service was in the Students' Army Training Corps.

"The amount of bonus payable to each person entitled is $10 for each month or major fraction of active service, but not more than $250 altogether.

"No bonus will be paid to a person who has received a bonus from another State.

"If a person entitled to a bonus has died, the bonus is payable to surviving relatives in the following order:

"Husband or wife, child, mother, father, brother and sister. If one of these survive, more distant relatives do not become entitled to the bonus.

"Soldiers are advised that no State officer has power to make payments at present, and nothing can be gained by sending applications to any State officer until the Legislature meets. When provision is made for a distributing commission it will undoubtedly give public notice of the proper method of making applications."

ARMENIA PASSING UNDER RED CONTROL

Troops Reported Surrendering to Turks or Tartars or Seeking Refuge in Georgia.

BIG GUNS IN WRANGEL LINE

May Hold Crimea, but Retreat from Taurida Has Had Bad Moral and Political Effect.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7 (Associated Press).—Armenia is passing under Bolshevist control, it is said in reports received here from Tiflis. Turks and Bolshevist Tartars have effected a junction at Alexandropol and it is probable the city of Erivan has been occupied by Turkish troops commanded by Kiazio Kaarabekir Pasha.

Armenian troops are reported to be surrendering or seeking refuge in Georgia.

The Russian Bolsheviki, it is said in reports from Sebastopol, are sending units from three armies now in the Crimean region to Baku and Trans-Caucasia. The purpose is, it is declared, to give the troops a period of rest and to arrange for a redistribution of forces in the Asiatic campaign.

South Russian anti-Bolshevist forces under command of General Baron Wrangel still safely hold Perekop and Salkovo, keys to the isthmus leading from Crimea to the mainland of Russia.

Military observers declare General Wrangel has many long range 10 and 12 inch guns, as well as other heavy pieces, which have been planted to protect his lines from the Bolsheviki, who also are concentrating their artillery forces. Along the seven-mile trench system across the isthmus General Wrangel has established elaborate barbed wire entanglements.

It is believed probable the campaign during the next few weeks will be restricted to artillery battles, unless General Wrangel decides to attack the Bolsheviki, as he did last April successfully when the Soviet armies were demoralized by long siege operations and withdrawals to the Polish front.

It is recognized General Wrangel's withdrawal to Crimea from Taurida has created bad moral and political effects. Moscow already is spreading news of his defeat throughout Islam and the Turkish Nationalists in Asia Minor talk of awaiting the results of the coming Winter before treating with the Allies. Events in India are being watched with particular intentness by the Nationalists.

The impending Winter is dreaded in Crimea, where 2,000,000 people, with only limited food, little clothing and virtually no money, have gathered. A dollar is worth 50,000 rubles at present in Sebastopol. Nevertheless, General Wrangel hopes internal troubles in Soviet Russia will work in his favor.

TO HONOR CARDINAL FARLEY

Fordham Opens Drive for $1,800,000 for Memorial Buildings.

Fordham University plans the erection of several new buildings as a memorial to the late John Cardinal Farley, it was announced last night by the Rev. Edward P. Tivnan, President of Fordham, at a meeting of alumni of the university at the Hotel Pennsylvania. The university has been crowded to the limit, has been turning away many applicants, and "the greater Fordham movement," as the campaign for $1,800,000 was described, will be launched as a testimonial to Fordham's most distinguished son, the late Cardinal of New York.

Father Tivnan and other speakers, who included the Rev. Daniel J. Quinn, ex-President of Fordham, and ex-Supreme Court Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, chairman of the forthcoming campaign for funds, declared that the future of the university depended upon the response to the present appeal for funds, the first ever made by the institution.

Fordham's needs as outlined by Father Tivnan include a $500,000 endowment fund to cover the soaring costs of administration and to provide for extensions in service in keeping with the growth of the university; $300,000 for a new science building, $300,000 for a new library and administration building, $300,000 to provide a large modern dormitory, and $400,000 to erect and equip a modern gymnasium.

MANY POLICE AT FUNERAL.

Detectives Start Fund for Child of Man Accidentally Slain.

Not in many years, according to east siders, has there been a more impressive funeral in that section than that of Dolarato Bifulco, which left 54 James Street yesterday for Calvary Cemetery. Bifulco was accidently shot last Thursday by Detective Kenny, who fired two shots at a youth who had stolen a package from a wagon at Oliver and Henry Streets. This accounted for the large number of policemen among the mourners.

Captain Kinsler and Detective Kenny have started a collection to be placed in the Bowery Savings Bank as a trust fund for the month old Bifulco baby. No donation was greater than a dollar, but already the fund has grown to $750.

THREE CONFESS MURDER.

Admit Guilt as Fourth in Tried for Killing Solomon Fishbein.

While a jury was being obtained yesterday to try Jacob Hermon of 7 St. Mark's Place on the charge of complicity in the murder of Solomon Fishbein, a manufacturer, on May 16 at 77 Second Avenue, three men who had been indicted with Hermon offered to plead guilty to murder in the second degree. They were George Kust of 416 Grand Street, Frederick Traina of 627 Driggs Avenue, Brooklyn, and David Rosansky of 238 South Third Street, Brooklyn. Their pleas were accepted and they were remanded for sentence on Nov. 12. It was said one or more of them might testify for the prosecution.

Fishbein had several friends at a card party, when four masked men invaded his rooms, shot him, seized money and jewelry from the players, and fled in a taxicab. Hermon had been one of the players, and the police charged that he had tipped the gunmen to make the raid.

FIRST HIND-LEGGED WHALE.

Female Caught Near British Columbia Described at Museum Lecture.

The first whale with hind legs ever discovered by man has been caught at a whaling station near British Columbia, it was announced in a lecture at the Natural History Museum last evening. The bones of one of the legs was shown to the audience, who were told that as far as scientists here know a whale thus equipped has never before been seen.

In the absence of Professor Ray Chapman Andrews, Assistant Curator of Mammals, another member of the museum staff described the novelty. The legs projected some four feet from the body near the tail, and were about six inches broad, the bones being covered with a thick layer of blubber which may or may not have contained muscle. The whale, a female fifty feet in length, was unfortunately not preserved at the Victoria whaling station, where it was brought in, and one of the legs was broken off by those making the capture.

Yes—$85 to $110 suits, by all the standards of good storekeeping. The house that made these suits stands at the very top of makers of men's ready-to-wear clothing. Good fabrics. Good cut. Good tailoring. No question about any suit made by the men who made these suits.

A rare purchase at $69.50

Some of the suits are in slender models, particularly suitable for men of youthful figure and taste. Others are in patterns and designs for stout figures or more elderly men.

There are unfinished worsteds in invisible patterns, and cheviots and tweeds. Colors are quite varied, there being many shades of blues, browns and grays. One suit of gray unfinished worsted is markedly admirable in a distinctive double-breasted model. Another likable suit is of blue unfinished worsted, single-breasted model, with a suggestion of fitted waistline.

Many of the suits have the straight back and conservative cut that appeals to the man of quiet taste.

The quantity is unavoidably limited to 227.

BALLOT FRAUDS GO BEFORE GRAND JURY

All Complaints, Including Alleged Theft of Tickets, Will Be Investigated.

INQUIRY TO START TODAY

Mrs. Nora Stanton Barney Tells of Mutilation of Ballots in City's "Toughest District."

The Grand Jury investigation of alleged election frauds was decided upon yesterday by the District Attorney to include all the complaints that have been made since last Tuesday's election and the theft of twenty-six ballots, marked for Democratic candidates, from the polling place in Public School 92, at Broome and Ridge Streets. These ballots were found the next day at a sewer opening at Orchard and Stanton Streets.

Mrs. Nora Stanton Barney of 105 East Fifty-second Street, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, presented a statement to the District Attorney concerning alleged mutilation of Republican ballots in the Thirteenth Election District of the First Assembly District. She said she had asked the Board of Elections to appoint her to "the toughest district in New York," and "I was accordingly assigned to the Thirteenth of the First Assembly District." This polling place was in the basement of a public school in Hamilton Street.

"After the Presidential ballots had been counted and the box containing the State and general ticket had been opened," said Mrs. Barney, "I noticed at once that the ballots had been folded wrong. As we opened them I noticed a very strange thing. All of the void ballots but one were straight Republican ballots except for an extra cross marked in front of Governor Smith's name. The crosses in front of Smith's name were all diagonal and about the same size, while the Eagle crosses differed on every ballot, some being large and heavy, some small, some vertical, some diagonal.

"I called a halt. Immediately the smiling and affable crowd of Democratic watchers and hangers-on changed into a shouting mob, protesting, 'You must be crazy. You have no right to hold up the count! That's what comes of giving women the vote. Go right ahead and ignore her.'

"But there was no going ahead, as by that time I was sitting on the pile of ballots and the count was held up until an Assistant Deputy Attorney General arrived. He ruled that these ballots should be marked 'Protested on account of mutilation' below the marking by the Chairman that they were 'void.' The result was that, for the present at least, Miller gets 37 votes while the Republican candidates for the other offices got from 90 to 111 votes. Forty-six ballots were thrown out as 'void.'

"I found myself wondering how the mutilation was done. Only one way seems possible. The thirty-seven wary Republican voters waited to see their ballots deposited in the ballot box, while the others handed their ballots to the clerk and walked away. The way the ballots were folded Smith's name came right in the open corner, and it would have been an easy matter to slip a cross in front of his name."

MISSING VOTES HALT COUNT.

County Canvassing Board Meets Today, with Many Records Lacking.

Although the Board of County Canvassers is to meet today in the City Hall to canvass the vote at last Tuesday's election, County Clerk Schneider, with whom the records must be filed before the canvass begins, said yesterday that poll books from nineteen election districts, statements of canvass from thirteen and reports as to void and protested ballots from forty-two districts still are missing.

"The Chairman of the board in each district is charged with the duty of seeing to it that the necessary filing at this office takes place within twenty-four hours after the close of the election," said Mr. Schneider. "Each of the persons responsible for the present condition is now liable to arrest and prosecution, but the most serious feature of the situation lies in the fact that the canvass by the County Board, consisting of the Aldermen elected from districts in this county, cannot proceed in districts where filings have not been completed."

SEARCH WOODS FOR JEWELS.

Thief Confesses Throwing Away Gems in Westchester County.

For more than a week Deputy Sheriffs have been searching woodland between Tarrytown and Irvington for $10,000 worth of jewelry which Leroy Green confessed he threw away after robbing the country home of David L. Luke in Tarrytown last July. Green has pleaded guilty and will be sentenced next Friday.

More than $30,000 worth of jewels stolen by Green from the Luke home have been recovered, including $5,000 worth found in the woods.

New Prices on Walk-Over Shoes

WE are now offering the new Fall and Winter Walk-Over Shoes for men and women at reduced prices.

These Walk-Overs were bought months ago when the price of leather was at its highest level. Leather prices are lower now, but this leather cannot be made into shoes much before the Spring 1921 season.

The new Fall Walk-Over prices anticipate the Spring reduction on shoes; they are six months ahead. In other words, you will buy your Fall and Winter Walk-Overs, as you always do, at the rock-bottom prices.

You always buy Walk-Overs with confidence. No matter what conditions exist, Walk-Overs are priced right, they fit right, and they give long wear.

Hildreth's Fleet Colt Captures $10,000 Bowie Handicap from Strong Field.

BEATS BONIFACE BY NOSE

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—Sam C. Hildreth's four-year-old colt Mad Hatter, which only a few days ago set a new track record, gave another remarkable exhibition of speed at Pimlico this afternoon. He won the $10,000 Bowie Handicap at a mile and a half from a field of the best handicap horses in the country, including that great distance runner, Exterminator. Setting the pace for practically the entire distance, the Hildreth colt lasted to get home a nose in front of Commander J. K. L. Ross's Boniface, while Edward B. McLean's The Porter finished third.

There were nine starters, among them On Watch, Yellow Hand and Paul Jones. The race was run in 2:31 3-5, but two-fifths of a second slower than the track record. This was the seventh straight victory for Mad Hatter, and his performance today puts him right at the top of the handicap horses. The son of Fair Play has probably never been in as good condition as he is right now, but, in spite of his fine record and his great race today, it should be explained that he carried but 120 pounds to 135 for Exterminator and 125 for On Watch, at three years old, and equal weights with Damask, also but three years old. He had all the horses in the race outweighed, excepting Yellow Hand, which was the lightweight of the party, with 107 pounds. Buddy Ensor spent the entire morning reducing so as to be able to make the weight assigned to the Wilson horse.

It was undoubtedly this advantage in the weights which enabled Mad Hatter to make his own pace and still withstand the challenges of the others in the final quarter of a mile. He was a tired horse as he got his head under the wire, but he lasted to the end under a well-judged ride by Earl Sande and through his own courage. Boniface was wearing him down at the end, but none of the others was in position to beat the leader.

Victory Is Popular.

As the Bowie Handicap is one of the best of the distance features of the Pimlico season and today brought out such an excellent field, it proved a wonderful drawing card and the crowd packed the racing plant to capacity. The contest provided plenty of thrills for all present, and had the added advantage of resulting in victory for the public choice. Mad Hatter paid slightly less than 2 to 1.

There was probably no one on the track more pleased over the victory than Earl Sande, for it was the first opportunity he had had to ride a winner and defeat one of Commander J. K. L. Ross's horses since he left the employment of the latter. It appeared in the stretch drive, when Boniface was making his strong finish, as though this was the thought on the jockey's mind, for he made a masterly finish on Mad Hatter and outrode Keough at the end.

It took ten minutes to get the horses under way. Boniface was very unruly at the post and refused to line up with the others. The long wait did not do the lightweights of the race any good, and Exterminator, with his burden of 135 pounds, was probably the greatest sufferer. He was so heavily weighted that he could not afford to make any mistakes or meet with mishaps. That he did not finish close to the front was due to the fact that several times he met with interference.

Mad Hatter Takes the Lead.

The Porter and Boniface raced in front for the first quarter, but, by the time the horses reached the stretch for the first run in front of the stands, Mad Hatter had assumed the lead and he never again relinquished it. He had a lead of two lengths going through the back stretch, where Sande took him under restraint and gave him a breathing spell before making the stretch run. Yellow Hand had been running second to the leader through the early part of the contest, but in the back stretch Ensor attempted to wrest the lead from the Hildreth colt. After Yellow Hand had been sent along for a furlong or so, however, he dropped back, badly beaten, and finished last, having given his one best effort much too soon.

Exterminator was in a good position for the first six furlongs but, at the turn below the stand, was cut off and placed so that he could not get clear. Half way through the back-stretch Fairbrother began to move up with the Kilmer gelding and had worked his way into third position, when suddenly Paul Jones moved up on the outside and pinched Exterminator back. The big racer was knocked out of his stride and, the mishap coming just at the time when he was making his run, he was never again able to get going at his best. He was not a contender in the stretch drive though he improved his position once he was clear.

Paul Jones rushed into a contending position and appeared dangerous at the head of the stretch, but could not keep up the pace. Boniface was well up throughout and closed with his usual rush. The finish was so close that, from some angles, it appeared that the Ross horse had won. Mad Hatter was on the inside and just saved the victory. On Watch and Damask were unable to give a good account of themselves under the weights, but The Porter ran an excellent race.

Enfilade a Disappointment.

Morton L. Schwartz's Enfilade again disappointed her backers in the Catonsville handicap at a mile and a sixteenth. She tired at the distance and was third to Carpet Sweeper and Rubidium. The Schwartz filly had been made an odds-on choice, in spite of her recent defeat. She followed the pace set by Rubidium, but weakened in the stretch where Carpet Sweeper, which had been kept in restraint by Sande, moved up with a rush and won with nearly two lengths to spare. Rubidium tired badly also, but managed to keep her nose in front of Enfilade to save second by a narrow margin.

Commander Ross's His Choice was the long shot of the day when she defeated Super, Jadda, and others at six furlongs and paid $26.70 for $2. Tyntee, the well played favorite, was pinched back at the start and never had a chance afterward in the large field. His Choice raced to the front and held the lead to the end, though put to a drive in the stretch when Super threatened.

The steeplechase for horses ridden by maiden jockeys was won by Fair Mac, with Soumangha second and Jaybird third. There was considerable fouling in the race, but the stewards decided that the winner had been the victim. Jarbow, on Stucco, deliberately grabbed the saddle cloth of the winner turning toward home and hung on for a sixteenth of a mile. He was so busy trying to foul the winner that he got off the course and finished over the jump in front of the stands. He made such a strong protest to the judges that he had to be taken away from the stand.

Sobrigade won the dash for two-year-olds, defeating My Friend Pat and Jamaica Belle among others. Regresso upset the form players in the sixth race when he won from Benevolent and Deckmate after being well handled by Jimmy Butwell. Mumbo Jumbo sprang a surprise in the final race at a mile and a sixteenth, defeating Alvord and Lady Emeline, Bally Mooney, the choice, finished far back.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 8.—Improvements made at Bowie, which will be completed for the opening of the Autumn meeting there Saturday, will be a surprise to most of the patrons. A new clubhouse has been built as well as additional stands and field seats. Bowie now boasts of as complete a plant as any of the tracks in Maryland.

RAPID DAY TAKES THE JEFFERSONTOWN

Favorite Wins Event at Churchill Downs — Pewee Valley Purse Goes to Coyne.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 8.—Rapid Day, the well-backed favorite, ran to form today at the Churchill Downs track and captured the Jeffersontown Purse, a test at one mile for three-year-olds and upward.

Eight went to the post for the event. Off to a good start, the pace was set at first by Dr. Carmen, but after going half a mile the Doctor met with interference. Rapid Day was held off the pace for five furlongs, and then moved into the lead with a rush. The chestnut gelding had to be hard urged to meet the challenge made in the stretch by Legal, which finished going very fast. The favorite had enough left, however, to win by half a length. Travesty, which made a fine stretch run, was third, a scant head back of Legal.

The other feature event of the card, the Pewee Valley Purse, at seven furlongs, for two-year-olds, was taken by the second choice, Coyne. The favorite, Blowing Bubbles, tired and failed to place.

The field of twelve got away to a good start. Coyne went to the front at once, showed a fine flight of speed and was never headed. Although challenged, he held his company safe through the stretch run, winning by a length from Red Legs, which was a nose in front of Sir Thomas Kean. Red Legs moved up with determination in the stretch, but interfered with Sir Thomas Kean. The latter showed a good effort.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE—Purse $1,200; claiming; three-year-olds and upward; seven furlongs. High Gear, 113 pounds (Wilson), $68.60, $31.50, $18, first; Ground Swell, 107 (Murray), $10.70, $14.30, second; Missed the Time, 107 (Burke), $8.50, third. Time—1:26 1-5. Belle of Elizabethtown, Walter H. Pearce, Oriova, Harry Burgoyne, Horace Lerch, Serbian, Jago, Elkton, Pullux, Brotherly Love, May Rose and Brig of War also ran.

CLUB OWNERS VOTE FOR NEW LEAGUE

ceded to organize for war while the "Loyal Five" were similarly engaged in another part of the "Loop" district.

It was positively announced by A. D. Lasker, Director of the Chicago National League club, that the twelfth club of the new major circuit would not be located in minor league territory. Rumors were equally divided between Detroit and Cleveland as the city most likely to be invaded by the Amalgamated eleven. A committee comprising Messrs. Herrmann of Cincinnati, Baker of Philadelphia, Ruppert of New York, Ebbets of Brooklyn, Wrigley of the Cubs and Austrian of the White Sox awaited on Judge Landis to offer him the premiership of the new baseball cabinet.

Both sides to the new war sent committees to Kansas City tonight to confer with the minor league club owners at their meeting which opens there tomorrow with a view to obtaining the allegiance of as many of them as possible during the forthcoming hostilities.

That the war will be as short as money can make it was indicated by expressions of opinions by club owners of the two factions after the break had been made. William Wrigley Jr., leading stockholder of the Cubs, stated in all his previous experience he had not been so repeatedly insulted as by the recalcitrant five league club owners of the American League during this controversy and his manner left the impression that he would stop at no financial sacrifice to accomplish the defeat of the opposition.

Several of the loyal five club owners expressed cheerful views as to the outcome of the war and declared that right was bound to triumph in the end. Although they deplored a costly war, bound to injure the sport, it was their belief that in no other way could the elements and individuals which have brought baseball into disrepute be eliminated.

Many of the minor league officials left for Kansas City before the outcome of the sessions here became known. Those who remained until tonight's train continued their non-committal attitude, evidently preferring to await concerted action in dealing with the situation. The eleven club owners will select a committee to act with a like body which the minors have been invited to elect for the drafting of a new national agreement for the government of all professional baseball leagues, club owners and players in place of the 1903 national agreement, which was abrogated by the amalgamated eleven clubs on Oct. 18. A statement, by the owners favoring the new league, was issued after the meeting. It read in part:

"It is hoped and believed by the members of the new National League that the high character of the Chairman of the Board of Control and those to be elected as associate members will be a sufficient guarantee to the baseball loving public that the national game will be conducted on the high plane which public interests and public morality demand. It is thought that with the aid of a Board of Control of the character indicated laws will be enacted which will forever stamp out gambling in connection with baseball.

"It is the belief of the members of the new National League that the public control under which they voluntarily place themselves today will, in large measure, wipe out the politics of league and interleague affairs which has resulted in untoward conditions with which the public is familiar. It is believed that the new method of voting, by clubs instead of leagues, will have the twofold effect of: First, preventing minority clubs in any league from being longer in the position of having no voice in interleague affairs, and, second, will prevent the recurrence of a long-continued deadlock in the inability of organized baseball to choose a presiding officer of its controlling board. The deadlock in the selection of the Chairman of the defunct National Commission, due largely to league politics, is mainly responsible for the trouble through which baseball has lately gone."

The statement was signed by a representative of each club taking part in the formation of the new league.

MINORS MAY OPPOSE PLAN.

Capable of Conducting Their Own Affairs, Say Small Leaguers.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 8.—Rejection of the Lasker plan of baseball reorganization by the minor leagues seemed probable tonight as the Presidents and club owners of the minor leagues gathered here for the convention which opens tomorrow.

The stand was taken that the minor leagues were capable of governing themselves, and that they would continue to direct the affairs of their own organization.

Full details of the plan will be outlined to the minor leaguers tomorrow, and it is possible that they will prove more satisfactory to the minors than now seems likely.

Johnson Off for Kansas City.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—President Johnson and several of his friends left tonight for Kansas City, apparently having been informed privately of the action being taken by the eleven clubs. Most of the other baseball men also left as soon as the announcement of the new league was made. No statement was made by President Johnson concerning the new league.

TWO CHANGES MADE IN POLO PROGRAM

Schedule Revised and Starting Time Set Back an Hour for Horse Show Matches.

That the polo tournament which is to be featured as one of the attractions of the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden will produce the keenest of competition is evident from the present activity in local polo circles preparatory to the tournament.

Two changes have been made in the original program as prepared by the sponsors of the tourney. One is that the games will start each evening during the horse show at 9 o'clock instead of being featured as the opening events of the evening session, which starts close to 8 o'clock. This hour is believed to be too early to insure the attendance of a great majority of polo enthusiasts, whereas if the games are started at 9 o'clock it is believed that much will be accomplished toward popularizing the sport.

The other change is in the original program of contests. The opening game was to have been between Manhattan and Brooklyn, but that has been changed so that Brooklyn meets Boston in the opening game on Monday, while New York clashes with Ontario on Wednesday, instead of a Brooklyn v. Ontario game on that evening.

Preparatory activities of those who comprise the teams in the Metropolitan district and who are largely responsible for the tournament appear to have had the effect of arousing the interest of many who heretofore have paid little if any attention to the game, and, as a result, several scrub and other teams are indulging in almost daily practice at Durland's Academy, the Riding and Driving Club rink, at the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club and at Squadron A's Armory, as well as at West Point and in Boston and Toronto.

The program as arranged by the National Horse Show Association calls for two polo periods each night, with the proposal to schedule an extra event in the interval between periods. But this does not meet with the approval of the polo teams. It has been unanimously agreed among the several teams that if any event is introduced between periods that is likely to render the tanbark unfit for polo play, which requires a firm and even surface, the teams will withdraw. Furthermore, it is stated in behalf of the teams that not more than a minute or two of intermission is required by them between periods. Thus there would be no delay in the program if the interval for the extra events were omitted entirely.

In the practice matches held last night the New York trio defeated Ontario by 8 goals to 7, while Boston won from the Durland Seconds by 10 to 9. These trial games demonstrated the difficulties of playing under poor floor conditions. The tanbark was as heavy as sand and afforded the players no real opportunity to show what they could do. The ball frequently became imbedded in the loose tanbark in such fashion that it was practically impossible to play it, and the footing was dangerous to the horses and riders.

The teams lined up as follows:

NEW YORK.	ONTARIO.
No. 1—Jones.	No. 1—Sherman.
No. 2—Kinney.	No. 2—Nelson.
Back—Johnson.	Back—Grannis.

Goals—New York: Five in first period, 3 in second; total, 8. Ontario: Four in first period, 3 in second; total, 7. Time—Two ten-minute periods.

BOSTON.	DURLAND 2DS.
No. 1—Guthrie.	No. 1—Gilman.
No. 2—Blackwell.	No. 2—Wynn.
Back—Dempsey.	Back—Bier.

Goals—Boston: 5 in first period, 5 in second, total 10; Durland Seconds: 6 in first period, 4 in second, total 9. Time—Two ten-minute periods.

Bushwick High Quintet Wins.

Bushwick High School's basketball quintet defeated the Newtown High School five yesterday in a closely contested game on the Newtown court by the score of 26 to 22. A rally through the second half brought victory to Bushwick. At the end of the first half Newtown was in front by 13 to 11.

JULY 2 FAVORED AS DATE FOR BIG BOUT

Rickard Prefers Saturday Before Independence Day for Dempsey-Carpentier Battle.

MAY SELECT LONG ISLAND

Promoters Consider Site Near New York—To Build Outdoor Arena, with Prices $5 to $50.

Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, and Georges Carpentier, holder of the European title, will clash for the ring's greatest honor probably on July 2 in an outdoor arena and in the afternoon. These developments in the situation came yesterday from the lips of Tex Rickard, who with Charles B. Cochran and William A. Brady, is promoting the international battle.

Promoter Rickard declared that he favored July 2 to July 4 because of the fact that greater success was possible on the former date from an attendance standpoint. The Western promoter expressed the opinion that because of the fact that Independence Day falls on a Monday many workers and others who are expected to attend the bout would probably decide on a trip to the country or some cooling Summer resort on Sunday and Monday. This condition would probably seriously affect the attendance, Promoter Rickard said. For this reason the Garden boxing director is preparing to submit July 2 as the date for the contest when the triumvirate meets to determine the time and place for the big bout.

Promoter Rickard plans to make the coming bout a popular-priced one. His experience with high prices at Toledo on the occasion of the Dempsey-Willard bout probably has convinced him that this is the only safe way to attract the crowd necessary to make the bout a financial success. While the sport itself is extremely popular and unprecedented interest is being manifested in the scheduled meeting between the champions of the two continents, an exorbitant scale of prices probably would not find favor with those eager to see the two ring leaders in action against each other. Accordingly Rickard, with his fellow-promoters, plans to place the attraction within the reach of the average man's pocketbook, through the medium of a sliding scale of prices, ranging from $5 for the general admission section of his proposed arena to $50 for ringside seats. With the tremendous seating capacity of the arena now under consideration such a scale would provide a handsome profit if a capacity crowd witnessed the match.

May Select Long Island.

Although the promoters are not yet prepared to disclose their plans with regard to the actual scene of battle, it is understood they are considering a site on Long Island, not far removed from the heart of the metropolis. The place will be within easy railroad connection of Manhattan and will be easy of access by automobile. These conditions will play an important part in the final selection of the battleground. The building laws of the city will not permit of the construction of a wooden arena in the city limits, so that the promoters must take the bout to the suburbs, where their building plans will be unhampered. At the same time, however, they must arrange the place so that it will be within easy traveling distance of the city.

According to Promoter Rickard, there is absolutely no chance of the contest being held in the city proper. Rickard is unalterably opposed to holding the bout in a baseball park, and there are no other suitable sites available.

Only serious opposition, which would compel the Boxing Commission and License Committee to frown on the proposition, can prevent the contest from being held under the laws of this State. The officials administering the provisions of the Walker law have steadfastly refused to commit themselves with regard to the bout or their probable attitude in the event that Promoter Rickard applies for a license to conduct the ring engagement under their jurisdiction. No definite policy of the sports governing bodies will be known until the request for permission to hold the bout is actually submitted.

Must Be Near Big City.

The contest, to be successful, must be held near one of the country's most populated sections. It would be impossible to attract a capacity crowd to the bout otherwise. Boxing right now is enjoying its greatest popularity throughout this State, and particularly in the local district. The reputations of both Dempsey and Carpentier are of such magnetism as to attract every follower of the sport to the contest between the pair.

In the event that opposition does develop to holding the bout under the laws of the State it is probable the match will be shifted to New Jersey, as was the Carpentier-Levinsky bout when the officials here refused to sanction that contest. The State across the Hudson is eager to secure this important ring match and has the facilities for accomodating an undertaking of such elaborate proportions.

LEONARD TO DEFEND TITLE.

Bout for Lightweight Champion to be Arranged at Garden Nov. 27.

Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, will defend his title against a worthy foe in a fifteen-round bout to a decision at Madison Square Garden Nov. 27, if present plans materialise. Billy Gibson, Leonard's manager, and Promoter Tex Rickard, of the Garden, have held a series of conferences and it is understood the arrangements for the bout have been practically completed. It was expected that the conditions of the match would be available yesterday, but Promoter Rickard, after consulting Manager Gibson, declared he probably would not be prepared to disclose the plans until today or tomorrow.

Leonard's opponent has not yet been definitely selected, but the choice rests among three of the country's greatest lightweights. They are Johnny Dundee, Italian contender; Richie Mitchell, Milwaukee lightweight, who at one time claimed the American championship, and Joe Welling, the sturdy Chicago lightweight, who has been clamoring for years for a match against Leonard. It is understood the chances favor the selection of Mitchell.

The arrangement of this match will force a postponement of the proposed meeting between Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, and Bill Brennan, the Chicago pretender to the title. This bout was originally scheduled for Nov. 27, although it was not definitely announced because of the uncertainty of action of the Boxing Commission. The sports governing officials have not yet declared they would sanction a heavyweight bout at the Garden, but it is expected their indorsement will be obtained for the Dempsey-Brennan contest, which is now planned for Dec. 2 or 3.

AMATEUR BOUTS AT GARDEN.

Entries Sent Out for A. A. U. Tournament Nov. 29 and 30.

Entry blanks for the Metropolitan A. A. U. boxing championship tournament, which will be held in Madison Square Garden Nov. 29 and 30, were distributed among the clubs of the local district yesterday. The tournament will provide competition between the leading amateurs in eight classes, as follows: 108, 115, 125, 135, 145, 158 and 175 pound classes and heavyweight division. The prizes to be awarded will be the regulation gold championship medals to winners and silver championship medals to runners-up.

Yale Will Number Players in Harvard and Princeton Games

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 8.—Decision to number the Yale players in the Harvard and Princeton games was reached tonight by the Yale football coaches and the Elis will be placarded in the two final matches of the season. Head Coach Tad Jones has declined for weeks to made an announcement, but tonight said that the step would be taken. Yale has usually held an adverse view of the scheme. Jones himself ended the longest and most strenuous controversy in the history of Yale football when in 1916, the last year he coached at Yale, he ordered the players tagged for the final games. Last year the coaches decided adversely on the proposal.

WILL START SEASON IN SQUASH TENNIS

Harvard and Princeton Clubs to Meet Today in Metropolitan Class B Tourney.

The squash tennis season in the metropolitan district will receive its inauguration this afternoon, when the Harvard and Princeton Clubs will meet in the first round of the tournament for the Class B championship of the Metropolitan League. The matches will be played on the courts of the Yale Club, where all of the Princeton Club's home matches are scheduled. In the Class B tournament the teams of seven men to each club consist of players who have never previously received an official ranking by the National Squash Tennis Association. As a result the personnel of practically every team in the league will be completely changed this season, inasmuch as nearly all of last year's Class B men have since been ranked. This will not only lend an interesting uncertainty to the outcome of the race, but will fulfill the purpose of the ruling, which is to interest the greatest possible number of players in a more active participation in the sport.

Two new clubs are entered in this year's Class B tournament. They are the Army and Navy Club and the D. K. E. Club. There are skilled players in the membership of both these clubs, but this will be their first organized effort toward acquiring general metropolitan recognition. Eventually, with the graduation of their players into the Class A ranks, it is altogether probable that both will be represented in the Class A tournament as well. This, of course, will not be possible the present season.

There will be seven clubs in the Class B League this season. Besides Harvard, Princeton, Army and Navy and D. K. E., already mentioned, the entrants are the Yale, Columbia and Crescent Athletic Clubs. The first round of the tournament, starting today, will continue on successive Tuesdays up to and including Dec. 28. The second round will start Jan. 4 and continue through Feb. 29.

Last season's Class B tournament was won by the Yale Club, while the Harvard Club captured the honors in Class A. This year's Class A championship will be contested by the same five clubs as last season, the Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia and Crescent Athletic Clubs. The first round of the Class A tourney, as already announced, will run from Nov. 26 to Dec. 23, and the second round from Jan. 13 to Feb. 10.

O'DOWD TO BOX SMITH.

Middleweights in Star Bout at Madison Square Garden Tonight.

Patrons of Madison Square Garden boxing shows will witness their last bouts this evening before the Horse Show and Horse Sale forces an interruption to the weekly ring entertainments, until Nov. 27. Mike O'Dowd, former middleweight champion, and Jeff Smith of Bayonne, one of the leading contenders for the title, will clash in the stellar bout of fifteen rounds. This contest features a card of forty-one rounds of boxing. The men are reported in excellent condition.

O'Dowd's recent bout against Ted Kid Lewis demonstrated that the St. Paul boxer is fighting in better form now than when he held the title. He is engaged on a campaign which he expects will result in a return bout against Johnny Wilson, the present champion. A victory over Smith would advance his claim to the return match. By the same token a victory for Smith would enhance the Bayonne boxer's prospects of getting a crack at the title now held by Wilson.

Lon Rowlands, Milwaukee middleweight, will engage Eddie O'Hare, former amateur, in one of the ten-round bouts. The other ten-rounder will bring together Billy Murphy of Staten Island and Eddie McKenna, of the Fourth Ward. A six-round bout between Lew Snyder of Bayonne, and Charles Pilkington, former amateur lightweight champion, completes the card.

LEWIS TO MEET ZBYSZKO.

Rivals Matched to Open Wrestling Season in This City.

Wladek Zbyszko has been signed to wrestle Ed (Strangler) Lewis to a finish. These two grapplers will meet on Monday night, Nov. 22, at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory and struggle until one goes down to defeat.

Zbyszko and Lewis are well known to the army of wrestling fans as a pair of topnotch gladiators. Both are close to championship form, for Joe Stecher, the world's title holder, was driven out to the last ounce to conquer these two rivals.

This match will be the forerunner of an elimination tourney to try to discover some worthy challenger for Stecher's crown. Zbyszko and the "Strangler" feel confident that they can beat the champion if they receive another opportunity. The winner of this affair will be that much closer to obtaining another match with Stecher.

WALKER NOT A CANDIDATE.

Unable to Serve Another Term as President of U. S. G. A.

A change in the Presidency of the United States Golf Association was forecast yesterday in the announcement by W. D. Vanderpool, Secretary of the association, of the findings of the Nominating Committee. Howard F. Whitney of the Nassau Country Club is named for President to take the place of G. Herbert Walker, who had stated that he would be unable to serve another year because of the pressure of business. Robert Gardner of Chicago, runner-up for the British amateur title last Summer and a former title holder in this country, was named as one of the Vice Presidents. The nominations will be acted upon at the annual meeting of the association, which usually takes place some time in January.

The retiring Nominating Committee consisted of C. J. Sullivan, Chairman; Thomas D. Paine, F. L. Litchfield, Daniel F. Altland and Frank S. Miller. Their nominations of the executive officers and Executive Committee for 1921 were as follows:

President, Howard F. Whitney, Nassau Country Club; Vice Presidents, J. F. Byers, Allegheny, and Robert A. Gardner, Chicago; Secretary, W. D. Vanderpool, Morris County Country Club, New Jersey; Treasurer, Mortimer M. Buckner, Garden City; Executive Committee, Albert D. Locke, Brae Burn, Chairman; Nelson Whitney, New Orleans, Hugh Wilson, Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, and James D. Standish, Lochmoor, Detroit.

The Nominating Committee for 1922 officers will consist of James A. Stillman, National Links, Chairman; Harry W. Ayer, Brae Burn; W. C. Fownes, Jr., Oakmont; Robert P. Jones, Atlanta, and Wallis Whiter, Ontwentsia, Chicago.

NEW CUE RECORD MADE BY PETERSON

Fancy Shot Expert Scores Phenomenal Run of 1,020 Points in 5 Min. 40 Sec.

Page the traffic squad! All speed laws were violated in Brooklyn last night. Charley Peterson, the fancy shot expert of St. Louis, gave his super-six billiard stroke its second public workout in an attempt to count 1,000 points in five minutes. He failed by a couple of clock ticks to attain his objective, but counted the unprecedented total of 1,020 points in five minutes and forty seconds. This is at the rate of three points a second, or 180 points a minute.

One of the largest crowds of the season had shoehorned its way into the exhibition academy at the National Recreation in Brooklyn to see Peterson make the attempt, immediately following an 18.2 balkline match with Willie Hoppe. The place was jammed to capacity and many were turned away. With Abe Yager, a sporting writer of Brooklyn, holding the watch, Peterson launched on his time-wrecking whirl. Naturally, to accomplish the feat, or even approach it, it is necessary for him to violate one of the cardinal rules of billiards and stroke his cue ball while it is still in motion. He never permits it to stop rolling. He starts by freezing the white ball to the long rail at about the second diamond. He places the red ball about three inches out on the table and about a ball's width to one side of the first object ball. He freezes his one ball to the red ball and then plays the cue all against the centre of the object ball, that is frozen to the rail. As it rebounds it barely grazes the red ball. To hit the first object ball the slightest fraction off dead centre would spell disaster. It would mean missing the red ball entirely or hitting it full enough to drive it down the table and spoil any chance of rapid counting.

Speed of stroke and accuracy of hitting are the secrets of the stunt. At the expiration of the first minute Peterson had counted about 120, but he speeded up his work as he advanced, until he was traveling so fast at the end that the referee experienced great difficulty in announcing the points as they were clicked off.

In his two exhibition matches against Peterson yesterday afternoon and last night Willie Hoppe continued to show the same fine form that has featured his work throughout the current season. In the afternoon the champion won by a score of 300 to 65 and in the evening he defeated Peterson, 300 to 58. Three times during the two sessions Hoppe made runs in excess of a hundred. In the matinee performance he made a cluster of 168 on his second turn at the table, and averaged an even 50, running out the game in six innings. He ran the night's game out in four innings for an average of 75, making high runs of 120 and 143, the last cluster being an unfinished effort at the end of the match.

They will play again this afternoon and tonight.

STEINBUGLER WINS TWO.

Takes Measure of Johann and Gardner in Class C Balkline Play.

Charley Steinbugler won a double header at the Broadway Academy last night in the Class C 18.2 balkline tournament for the Metropolitan championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. In the first match the recent winner of the interborough championship of the association defeated Joseph Johann by a score of 150 to 134, and later Steinbugler won from the veteran Gus Gardner, 150 to 97.

It was in the first match, that against Johann, that Steinbugler showed to better advantage. In a measure this was undoubtedly due to the fact that Johann forced his opponent to play at top speed, for Johann was in stroke, and with a few more breaks in the game he might have succeeded in finishing on the long end of the score. Steinbugler took the lead soon after the start of the match, but Johann pressed him very closely, and finally caught him in the twenty-third inning. But Steinbugler was not to be denied, and an inning later he forged to the front again and maintained his advantage to the end. The winner averaged 5 10-28, while the loser averaged 4 26-28. The fact that both men had high runs of twenty shows at what speed these two Class C rivals performed.

In his match against Gus Gardner, Steinbugler was not compelled to unlimber his stroke to quite the same extent. Gardner got away in front, but was not traveling at a high rate of speed. For a time, however, it seemed that Steinbugler's earlier efforts would have a telling effect upon him and that he might not be able to encompass the task of beating two men on the same evening. Gardner led until the twenty-ninth, when Steinbugler finally caught him, and then cut loose with a brand of billiards that carried him far ahead. Had the ultimate winner played as well during the early innings as during the last nine rounds he would have recorded a much better average than the 3 36-38 he hung up. His best run was 22. Gardner averaged 2 23-37, with a high run of 13.

FIRST BLOOD FOR CUTLER.

Defeats Taylor, 300 to 72, in Start of 1,500 Point Balkline Match.

The first night's play between Albert Cutler and Alex Taylor in their 1,500-point 18.2 balkline billiard match at Maurice Daly's Academy last night resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 300 to 72. Cutler made a high run of 108 and averaged 25. Taylor's best effort was a cluster of 22, and his average was 6 9-11. It was just as easy a victory for Cutler as the score indicates. Cutler took the lead at the start and had gained an impressive working margin by the end of the eighth inning. In the ninth round he injected his run of 108, and it was all over but the shouting. Taylor was unable to hit his normal stride at any stage of the opening block, although he showed enough form to convince the spectators that he is capable of much better billiards. They will continue play tonight, meeting in another 300-point block.

ANDERSON DEFEATS WOOD.

Wins Closely Contested Match in Snooker Pool Tourney.

John Anderson defeated Courtenay Wood in the snooker pool tournament last night at Doyle's billiard room by a score of 75 to 58 in a game that was closely contested until the last few innings.

In the pocket billiard handicap Max Winchell won from George Bothner, the total being 66 to 61. The former wrestler made as game a fight at the table as he ever did on the mat, but could not seem to get hold of a lucky streak.

The snooker match was anybody's game down to the last four balls when both Anderson and Wood started playing safety, each waiting for a set up. For a dozen innings neither tried to score until Anderson, attempting to bring the four ball back to the table, accidently slipped it into a pocket. This left him a lucky position shot for the five which he made. The six was in bad position, so he again tried safety and again the little sphere dropped into a hole. The seven ball was fairly difficult but as he already had the game cinched he knocked it off. Tonight Raymond Crane, the amateur champion, will cross cues with Bill Wathey.

Boxing Tourney in Brooklyn.

The Lexington Council, Knights of Columbus, will hold an amateur boxing tournament at St. Antony Hall, Brooklyn, Friday night. Four classes have been arranged, the weights being 110, 130, 150 and 140 pounds. Four competitors will be entered for each class, making a total of twelve bouts.

VEIL OF SECRECY SHROUDS COLUMBIA

Blue and White Eleven Holds Practice Behind Closed Gates for Cornell Game.

A veil of secrecy was thrown around the Columbia football workout yesterday afternoon as Coach Buck O'Neill began a week of hard preparation for the Cornell game at Ithaca next Saturday. After a short kicking and passing exercise on South Field the coach led his charges to the main gymnasium and closed all doors behind him. For the second time this year newspaper men were excluded from the sacred precincts of the gymnasium and only the managers and coaches were allowed to watch the workout.

It was said later that only a signal drill had been indulged in, the teams running through signals on the floor of the main gymnasium. Frank Canapary, who was not selected to start the Swarthmore game and did not get in until the little Quakers had done their afternoon's damage, was sent back to his old place at right halfback. Harris was, as usual, at quarterback; Thornton was Canapary's running mate at halfback and Applebaum took care of fullback. Thornton ran through the signal drill with his hand bandadged, but it is expected that he will be in condition to be used against Cornell if the coaches decide on him. Lack of a long-distance punter was one of Columbia's drawbacks on Saturday and Thornton had a long workout on the field yesterday.

In the line Calloway was finally returned to his old position at guard, where Herman has played since the Wesleyan game. Calloway has been an in-and-out performer, playing in mediocre style at one moment and flashing brilliantly the next. It is still a matter of doubt whether or not he will finally win the assignment for the Cornell game. His running mate at guard was Walder. Scovil and Modarelli were at tackle and Forsythe and Pulleyn had charge of the end positions.

Saturday's debacle had surprisingly little effect on the student morale at Columbia. It was taken as a forecast of a good game at Ithaca next Saturday, since the Blue and White came back strong after the Wesleyan defeat and overcame the strong Williams eleven. Preparations proceeded without interruption yesterday for the trip to Ithaca. Nearly 200 tickets have already been sold and a private train engaged to carry the Columbia delegation to the up-State town. Other students will go by automobile and still others will travel in auto trucks.

Not all the Columbia rooters, however, will come from New York. Syracuse, where O'Neill coached for so many years, is taking as much interest in the coming battle as is the metropolis. The newspapers are carrying pictures of the Columbia players and accounts of their practices, and the Cornell management recently was rather surprised to get a large order for tickets from the Salt City. It will be Syracuse's only chance of the season to watch O'Neill's new team in action, and it is apparent that the town will be there in force to help out the Columbia cheering section.

No serious injuries as a result of Saturday's game were reported yesterday. Moszczenski, who played brilliantly in the second half after Canapary had joined him in the backfield, took a rest, but he is fit for heavy work. Since his squad is in such good condition, O'Neill will probably order scrimmage today and tomorrow before taking the team to Ithaca for a final drill.

ROBERTSON MAY PLAY.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 8.—A short, light workout behind closed gates was in order for the Dartmouth eleven this afternoon. A snappy signal drill and a separate session for the ends and the kicking department were ordered by Coach Spears as an opener in the week's preparation for the contest with Penn on Saturday.

Captain Robertson was the only man who id not appear in togs for today's practice. His injured shoulder was given an X-ray examination to determine whether he would be able to play against the Red and Blue. It is not expected that the strain will prove severe enough to keep him out of the fray, but all precautions are being taken to keep him in condition.

Spears has mapped out an intensive program for the week, as Penn is expected to be a tough proposition after the ability shown against Pitt last week. The aerial attack will be given further emphasis, as it is proving a decided asset in the Dartmouth offensive game. Trainer Hillman is pleased with the condition of the men after Saturday's affair with Cornell, and is confident that the Green eleven will come through the Penn contest in better shape than it did in last year's disastrous game. Heavy scrimmaging will be confined to the middle of the week.

LETZTER WINS ANOTHER.

Defeats McDaniel, 35 to 30, in 3-Cushion Billiard Match.

In a match that was replete with safety playing Mannie Letzter last night defeated James McDaniel, 35 to 30, in the amateur handicap three-cushion billiard tournament at Joe Thum's Academy. The game lasted ninety-four innings, a fact that can be directly attributed to the nine deliberate safeties made by McDaniel and the ten that Letzter resorted to. Besides these deliberate safeties both players sprinkled plenty of "oil" on the green cloth. McDaniel enjoyed a handicap of nine points on Letzter, but in spite of this liberal allowance McDaniel was unable to check the rush Letzter is making toward first prize. Letzter now has a commanding lead in the tournament and appears to be a sure winner.

GREENLEAF IS WINNER.

Champion Beats Franklin in Pocket Billiard Title Tourney.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Ralph Greenleaf, national pocket billiard champion, tonight defeated Walter Franklin of Kansas City in the second game of the finals, the score was 125 to 31. Tomorrow Franklin meets Maturo, and Woods meets Greenleaf.

The first game of the finals was won this afternoon by Arthur Woods of Minneapolis, who defeated James Maturo of Denver, 125 to 104. Woods had high runs of 34 and 24 and Maturo had runs of 31 and 27.

Amateurs in N. Y. A. C. Ring.

Entries will close today for the amateur boxing tournament which will be held at the New York A. C. Thursday and Saturday nights. As a special incentive for a heavy entry list the Mercury Feet officials have decided to award a trophy to the club whose boxers score the greatest number of points in the tournament. Competition is scheduled in five classes, as follows: 108, 115, 125, 135 and 145 pounds. The 145-pound division will be for novices.

Tendler Knocks Out Kelly.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Lew Tendler, local lightweight, knocked out Harlem Eddie Kelly, New York, in the fifth round of a scheduled eight-round bout here tonight. Tendler outclassed Kelly from the start. Dannie Kramer, Boston, outpointed Billy Beavans, Wilkes-Barre, in eight rounds.

CYCLING INTERESTS ON BRINK OF WAR

Upheaval May Follow Clash Between National Association and "Outlaw" Promoters.

WILL DISQUALIFY RIDERS

N. C. A. to Debar Contestants in Armory Event — Americans Take Threat Lightly, Says Young.

The ranks of organized cyclists in this country seem on the brink of a war which promises to rip asunder the National Cycling Association and disrupt the bicycle racing sport, in a similar manner to that which prevailed during the baseball war between the major and Federal leagues. The plan to hold two independent six-day races in this city, with but a week's interval between the two, will precipitate this upheaval in the cycling ranks. The first race is scheduled for the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, during the week of Nov. 21-27, and will be conducted under the auspices of the New York Velodrome Company, without the official indorsement of the National Cycling Association, the controlling body of the sport in this country. The second race will be held in Madison Square Garden, during the week of Dec. 5-11, under the promotion of Tex Rickard, and with the sanction of the N. C. A.

The armory race has been declared an "outlaw," event by the N. C. A. This would automatically disqualify any cyclist at present riding under N. C. A. rules who participates in the uptown whirl of six days. Despite this fact the promoters are proceeding with their plans and are determined to conduct the race as originally scheduled. Many of the leading American cyclists, dissatisfied, according to George H. Young, with conditions attending previous grinds, have signed to ride in the armory, in defiance of the N. C. A. edict against the race. This will mean the disqualification of these riders and will prevent their riding on the N. C. A. tracks in Newark, Philadelphia, Boston, Providence, and on a new track being constructed in Worcester.

Will Affect Races in Garden.

Under the conditions the race scheduled for the Garden, where the event has always been held in the past, will suffer appreciably, as far as the American representation is concerned. The participation of prominent home-bred riders in the armory race, in violation of the N. C. A. rules, will eliminate them from the Garden event. On the other hand, the Garden promoters have the cream of the foreign riders signed for their race and have secured signed contracts from eleven American riders.

Aside from the effect on the respective races the situation will determine just how important is an N. C. A. individual or corporate indorsement, and just how far-reaching and effective the controlling body is. Richard F. Kelsey, Chairman of the N. C. A. Board of Control, stated last night that the association would debar every rider who competed in the armory race, depriving them of the privilege of racing on any N. C. A. tracks.

"The situation is not a war of promoters," said George H. Young. "There is no animosity between the Garden promoters and myself, as far as I know. I have placed no restrictions on the riders who have signed with me. If they are permitted they can ride in the Garden race after fulfilling their contracts with me.

Riders Want a Change.

"It is just a case of a number of the leading American riders objecting to conditions as they have been in the past. They are dissatisfied and want a change. They are determined to ride at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory despite the N. C. A. ruling, and I am determined to go through with the race as it is at present planned. Under the arrangements which will be made a crowd of 7,000 will be accommodated at the race in temporary and permanent seats, and a nine-lap track will be installed. I could have installed an eight-lap track, but under this arrangement negotiation of the turns would have been hasardous and the plan was discarded. The race is proving popular in the Washington Heights section. This is reflected in the signatures of 124 business men of the section who have indorsed the event."

Young said that he had fourteen riders signed for the race, and disclosed their identities. They included Al Goullet, Fred Hill, Jake Magin, Eddie Madden, Ray Eaton, Harry Kaiser, Willie Hanley, Willie Keller, Gus Lang, Pete Drobach, Arthur Spencer, Joe Kopsky, Fred Weber and Tom Bello. Foreigners signed, Young said, included Mercel Dupuy, French rider; Spiessens, Buysse and De Ruyter, Belgians, and Constant Girardengi, Italian rider. Young also claimed contracts with Alex McBeath, Cecil Walker and Frank Corry, Australians.

Tex Rickard, with the assurance that his race will be officially indorsed by the popularity of the Garden as a sports centre, is confident the Garden race will prove as successful as ever before. Eighteen foreign riders and eleven American cyclists have been signed to date. Reggie McNamara and Frank Kramer are the most prominent American cyclists signed. Others include Willie Spencer, Fred Taylor, Percy Lawrence, Louis Coburn, Lloyd Thomas, Ted Byron and Menus Bedell. The foreigners signed include Alex McBeath and Cecil Walker, a pair claimed also by the armory race management; Maurice Brocco, Oscar Egg, Orlando Piani, Italian riders; Vandevel and Vandenburgh, Belgians, and Van Nek, Holland.

"I could have secured the other riders if I wanted to," said Promoter Rickard. "It was proposed to turn their contracts over to me for the Garden race, but I declined the offer. I took the attitude that if I couldn't deal directly with the riders, I would rather not negotiate at all. If I can't have personal negotiations with boxers and cyclists and others with whom I do business I would rather withdraw from sports promotion. I don't think the defection of American riders will seriously affect the Garden race as an attraction."

Is Question of Jurisdiction.

The situation, as explained by Chairman Kelsey of the N. C. A. Board of Control, involves a question of the association's jurisdiction. The N. C. A. will not recognize the race, and will refuse to sanction any event in which the recalcitrant riders participate in the future. In explaining the situation Chairman Kelsey likened the N. C. A. operative activities to those of organized baseball and the Amateur Athletic Union.

"The situation presents a condition similar to the baseball war of several years ago," said Mr. Kelsey. "The N. C. A. is a holding body in which the franchise holders are a directing factor, just as in baseball. We had issued sanction for the Garden race, and when the Velodrome officials sought sanction we refused to issue one. This was but natural in view of the fact that we had to protect the holders of the sanction previously issued for the territory. It amounted simply to a protection on a money investment. When the plan to build an outdoor track was submitted the franchise holders readily agreed to sanctioning races there. This track has not yet been built. It was but natural, therefore, that when the application for a sanction for the armory six-day race was submitted it was not approved by the franchise holders, who in this particular instance happened to be the Cycle Racing Association of Newark, which is identified with the Madison Square Garden race.

"The penalty for competitors in the armory race is disqualification. This will become automatic when they start in the race against the N. C. A. warning. We cannot stop the riders from racing in whatever unsanctioned events are available, but we will prevent their participation in races conducted under N. C. A. supervision, which means they will not be permitted to ride on tracks in Newark, Philadelphia, Boston, Providence, Bridgeport or Worcester, where a new track is being constructed."

Yale Bowl Will Accommodate 73,000 for Harvard Game

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 8.—The seating capacity of the Yale Bowl for the Yale-Harvard football game on Nov. 20 will be 73,000. The Yale Athletic Association has begun the erection of temporary wooden seats inside the masonry of the bowl and a tier of temporary seats has been completed around the top of the enclosure. The Yale Athletic Association has announced that the entire ticket allotment for the game has been taken by the two universities and no public sale of tickets will be held.

HARVARD WARRIORS GIVEN NEEDED REST

Fisher Grants a Day Off—Crimson Eleven Received Many Bruises in Tiger Game.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 8.—Harvard's 'Varsity football players forgot today that there is such a place as the Stadium, Coach Fisher declaring a day off for everybody. The coaches, as well as the players, needed a rest from their strenuous efforts of the last week. The men who played in the game Saturday are considerably bruised, for the battle, considered from a physical standpoint, was a hard one, the roughest, so the Harvard coaches think, and the players are ready to believe, that has been staged between the Tigers and Harvard for a long time.

Although stiff and sore the 'Varsity men will be able to start work for the Yale game tomorrow, when the practice will be light. Coach Fisher and Trainer Donovan are certain that the men all will be in trim by the end of the week.

There was a coaches' meeting tonight at which the possible lineup for the Brown game on Saturday was thoroughly discussed. There is more than an even chance that there will be more than the anticipated number of first-string men put in at the start of the game with the Brunonians. Sedgwick needs the work of such a game, and so do several of the other linemen. Macomber, who scored the tieing touchdown against Princeton, is sure to have a long tryout in the game this week.

There is some talk of shifting Tolbert back to tackle and using Fiske Brown at left guard. If Sedgwick comes along all right he probably will be the choice to start the Yale game over Faxon, in which case Tolbert probably will remain in the middle line, where he has played for the last few weeks. When the 'Varsity gets to work again it also is probable that Fitts will be in the backfield regularly. The general opinion of the coaches is that Churchill is too light to go against Yale, at least at the beginning of the game.

Today the Harvard athletic management announced that Harvard and Yale had received applications for more than 91,000 seats. More than $50,000 has been returned to graduates, and there are thousands of unopened applications from men who sent in their requests too late. Of the 91,000 applicants there were 38,500 from Harvard men and 37,500 from Yale men. In the bowl on Nov. 20 there will be approximately 74,000 seats.

SCRUBS EASY FOR 'VARSITY.

Fordham Eleven Scores Four Touchdowns on Substitutes.

Coach Joe Dumoe of the Fordham football team sprang a surprise yesterday afternoon when he sent the 'Varsity against the scrub eleven in a practice game consisting of four twelve-minute quarters. The Monday practice at Fordham has usually been rather light, but as the Maroon athletes have not engaged in a regular contest in over a week Dumoe determined to give them some real work yesterday. The 'Varsity had little difficulty in trouncing the scrubs, getting four successive touchdowns and preventing the second eleven from crossing their goal line. Steele and Noonan alternated at quarterback for the regulars and both handled the team well.

One of the long-expected changes in the Fordham line has been made. Vergara, who was such a sensation at Ciasson Point last year and who has shown a marked improvement in the few games he has played for the Maroon this season, supplanted Alexander at right tackle in yesterday's workout, and it seems probable that the change will be permanent. While Vergara has not had much 'Varsity experience, he is coming along rapidly. He played for a short time in the Georgetown and Detroit contests and created a very favorable impression. He is a big youngster and very fast, and should add a lot of strength to the Fordham line.

NAVY TEAM LET DOWN.

Midshipmen Take It Easy After Victory Over Georgetown.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 8.—The substantial victory over Georgetown last Saturday revived the spirits of every member of the Naval Academy contingent and put life into the practice this afternoon. The workout lasted throughout the afternoon, but the players were not driven as hard as usual. Excepting Larson, centre, and Moore, rightguard, who were given a little rest, every player who was in the game Saturday and other members of the squad were in the signal and formation work this afternoon.

While the team is undoubtedly in fine shape, every effort will be made to avoid overconfidence and to get the eleven in the finest possible condition for the Army game, which now looms large. Saturday's backfield, composed of Koehler, Conray, Hamilton and McKee, did better work than any other combination this year, but their places are not certain. Such fine backs as Cruise, Noyes, Watters, Poole and Rawlings are still to be considered and the competition will undoubtedly raise the standard of the backfield before the final game.

NO TEST FOR ARMY ELEVEN.

Victory Over Lebanon Valley Too Easy—Stars Still Crippled.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 8.—The easy victory over Lebanon Valley, while pleasing to the Army supporters, signified but little, for the collegians presented about as weak opposition as the Army has encountered this year. It is questionable whether any real benefit came from that game. For the greater part of the time substitutes played for the West Pointers, and they did not overexert themselves.

French's fine runs make him the Army's mainstay behind the line. He was in for only a short time on Saturday yet scored 21 of the Army's 53 points. The Army's cripples, Breidster, Greene and Strohecker, are still absent, but Greene may get back this week. Davidson broke a bone in his hand on Friday and will be out of the game for a while.

Bowdoin comes here next Saturday and the soldiers will rehearse some new plays for this game during the week.

YALE LINEUP STILL SHROUDED IN DOUBT

Condition of Several Players Keeps Situation Unsettled —Callahan at Guard.

Eddie Shevlin was at left end today and Justin Sturm at fullback, but Cutler and Jordan followed the team in its signal drill, which constituted its afternoon work. Because of the severe Brown game it was decided to rest the first-string players. The coaches said tonight that Captain Callahan would be used in the scrimmaging this week, but that there is still some doubt of the ability of Acosta to play, although he will be in the signal lineup and the chances are that he will get into part of the Princeton encounter. "Doc" Jordan has partly recovered from his attack of tonsilitis, although he is still somewhat weak, but there is every indication that he will be strong enough to play one half against the Tigers.

The condition of Mack Aldrich, halfback, and Tom Dickens, tackle, was so unfavorable today that hope of their facing the Tigers is almost negligible. Efforts were made today to develop several of the strongest reserve players who lined up against Dr. Billy Bull's scrubs.

There was a scrimmage between Dr. Bull's scrub team and the second 'Varsity. Captain Callahan played on the latter team, being subsequently replaced by Cruikshank. The ends were Bean and Dutton, the tackles Into and Quaile; Herr was the other guard and Galvin played centre. Neville started at quarterback with Knapp, Stabeck and Webb as the backfield trio. Wise was shifted from the second team as quarterback for a trial. There was no scoring.

A feature was the defense against the forward pass by both teams. For the scrubs, Dave Saunders and Eckert intercepted forward passes and made long runs. Guernsey, substitute guard on the second 'Varsity, intercepted a pass when the scrubs were close to the goal line. Dan Kelly played on the second 'Varsity and made a 30-yard run. Wakelee of the scrubs was the individual star, both in tackling the second 'Varsity men and in carrying the ball for Dr. Bull's team. He also did the kicking for the scrubs.

NO REST FOR W. AND J.

Eleven Beaten by Syracuse Has Long Monday Session.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 8.—Under the lash of a half dozen coaches on College field this afternoon, the Washington and Jefferson eleven, humbled by Syracuse, and sore and suffering from innumerable bruises sustained in that encounter, was sent through a rather hard Monday practice this afternoon. The session was designed primarily as a limbering workout to get the kinks out of the bruised gridiron warriors, but they were given just a little bit more than might ordinarily have been expected.

It was evident today that Washington and Jefferson means business in its preparation for the Pitt game next Saturday. The defects in the game with Syracuse were pointed out to the Red and Black players in no uncertain terms. There was only a short signal drill, but before and after it there was a little bit of everything imaginable, from the rudiments of football to a drill in new formations behind dummy scrimmage.

The practice this afternoon was the final one of the week at College Field. Tomorrow the entire squad of close to thirty men will be taken to the country, where the final drills in preparation for Pitt will be staged.

DEVELOPS AERIAL ATTACK.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 8.—Coach George Foster Sanford had his Rutgers football men back at work again today with renewed vigor. There was no game last Saturday and the men had three days of rest. The coach had them hard at it in preparation for the West Virginia game this week. The men are in much better physical shape than for some time past, and it is expected that all will be ready for this Saturday's game.

Paul Duffy, halfback, who has been out for a month with injuries, is expected to be back for West Virginia. Open aerial attack was featured by the coaches in their work with Rutgers here today, centring on the forward pass. There was a long signal drill with the 'Varsity working on the passing game, followed by a scrimmage in which the 'Varsity kept possession of the ball. Good gains were made against a strong scrub team. Carl Wolff was given a long tryout hurling the passes, and he made such an excellent showing that he may be given a chance to start against the West Virginians.

W. VA. POINTS FOR RUTGERS.

Mountaineers Prepare to Greet Foster Sanford's Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 8.—In spite of the fact that many of the West Virginia eleven were tired from their grueling contest with Washington and Lee at Charlestown last Saturday, practice for the Rutgers game Nov. 23 was held today. All the players were on the field and in uniform except three or four men whose homes are in the southern part of the State and who had been allowed to stop over on their way back from Charlestown.

Captain Lents, who, it had been feared, would be out of the game for the remainder of the season, took part in the day's workout.

HOLDS SECRET PRACTICE.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 8.—Behind closed gates here this afternoon Coach Keady started priming his Lehigh University squad for what will be the biggest home game of the season, when Lehigh meets Penn State on Saturday afternoon in Taylor Stadium.

The entire squad was sent through a long drill of fundamentals, winding up with a signal drill that was continued until it was too dark, and while Keady was drilling the 'Varsity, his assistant, Jimmy Murphy, had the scrubs gathered at the other end of the field, where State plays were tried out in preparing for the several scrimmages that are in store for the regulars this week.

Every player emerged from the Muhlenberg game on Saturday in good condition, and Lehigh is planning to give the Penn State eleven a good argument when it comes here this week.

Realizing that the Penn State game will be the biggest event of the season, many former stars of Lehigh returned to assist Coach Keady, among them being Bucky McDonald, who played on the 'Varsity last year.

The practice for the remainder of the week will be strictly secret.

TIGERS UNLIMBER IN SIGNAL DRILL

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 8.—Princeton's football squad took up its final drive for the Yale game this afternoon when the men reported at University Field House. The team returned from Boston on Sunday without a break in the rigors of strict training.

Keene Fitzpatrick, the Tiger trainer, looked the squad over with a careful eye for bruises and sprains and then announced that no team could be expected to come through such a hard game as the Harvard battle in better shape than did the 'Varsity on Saturday.

The day's workout consisted of little more than a limbering up after the game and the long trip down from Cambridge, and Roper reserved scrimmage for later in the week. The scrubs and the "omelettes" also put in a busy appearance on the gridiron and were hard at work brushing up on the Yale plays under Nat Poe's able direction. The 'Varsity will be required to meet the Eli formations in practical operation when the coaches call for the final practice scrimmage of the season. This will probably be on Wednesday, and it is doubtful whether Roper will devote more than a single afternoon to rough work. The team is in fine shape physically and needs more polishing than rough hewing.

Roper Lectures Team.

Roper led the squad out on to the field after taking advantage of the digestive hour following lunch to analyze the faults of the Harvard game. The Princeton coach is a great believer in the necessity of headwork on the field and the players pass many a quiet hour in football analytics and gridiron geometry in addition to their more conspicuous capers on the turf.

Although scrimmage was missing, the day was by no means an easy one, and the 'Varsity, readily distinguishable from the half dozen other teams on the field by its precision and its snap, galloped up and down for an hour and a half trying out new plays, stopping now and then to let one of the backs shoot a drop kick over the bars, ad listening to a rain of instructions from the small army of coaches that followed on its heels all afternoon. The team seemed a little stiff at first, but warmed up in a few minutes and showed no signs of fatigue when the early darkness drove them to the showers.

Roper put Frank Murrey and Thomson into the hands of Maury Trimble, who sent them through their paces on drop kicks from the 30-yard line. Neither Joe Scheerer nor Don Lourie tried any punts today, for Roper decided that a rest would be good for both of them. Lourie's punting at Cambridge was a distinct surprise to the coaches, for, while he has always been considered a fair kicker, his drives had never before reached their standard against the Crimson.

Can't Draw Roper Out.

Roper was in his usual non-committal mood about his team's chances against Yale. When asked point blank what he thought of Princeton's chances, he smiled pleasantly and observed that Yale has one of the best elevens in the East and is improving fast.

Confidence in the team on the Princeton campus remains about the same as before the Harvard game. It is a quiet, not a boastful, confidence, but the undergraduates feel that they have a great fighting team.

Princeton will be a busy place during the latter part of the week, when some fifty thousand visitors swell the old college town to fifteen times its usual size. Tickets for the game are impossible to get, and careful supervision by the Treasurer's office seems to have frustrated the scalpers. George Piper, the undergraduate manager of the team, said tonight that the athletic association could have easily disposed of at least one hundred thousand seats had they been available. Telegrams and letters are piling in to "Jo" Murrey, the graduate Treasurer, every hour, but the entire supply inclusive of the wooden stands erected at the east end of the field were sold out two weeks ago.

CRITICISM IS RESENTED.

Georgia Tech Threatens to Sever Relations with Centre.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 8.—Georgia Tech and Centre College may not meet on the football gridiron next year, Dr. J. B. Crenshaw, athletic director at Tech, declared today in announcing that he had sent a telegram to Professor Frank S. Rainey, faculty Chairman of athletics at Centre, asking whether newspaper articles vilifying the playing of the Tech team had appeared in newspapers. The articles, he added, purported "to come from members of Centre's team, Centre's coach and also officials of Centre College."

The telegram assured Centre authorities that if "these articles and expressions do not really represent your attitude," Georgia Tech would be glad to hold a date open for Centre on its 1921 schedule. The two teams played here Oct. 30, Tech winning, 24 to 0.

LIGHTS FOR THE GRIDIRON.

Stevens Squad Gets In Long Workout Under the Electrics.

With large electric lights reflected on the gridiron, the Stevens football squad got under way on its last lap of the football season yesterday afternoon. But two more games remain to be played, and the engineers are working hard to defeat the last two opponents.

The battleship team from the U. S. S. Arizona will be the opponents next Saturday. Plans are under way to make this a gala occasion. Special grandstands are to be erected for the N. Y. U. game, and it is expected that they will be up in time for this week's game. The team will bring along a marine band and some officers.

This game was placed on the schedule at the last moment. Manager Barker was unable to close this date with a college team, and it looked as if the date would remain open until B. Franklin Hart, class of 1897, who was a Captain in the navy during the war, took the first steps to get this game.

Moller was the only member of the squad who was not in uniform at the practice as a result of injuries received in the Delaware game. Johnson, Bradley and Herty still are unable to play. It is expected that Johnson will return in time to get into the contest with N. Y. U., but the two others are probably out for the remainder of the season.

HESS RETURNS TO LINEUP.

Special to The New York Times.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 8.—Following a short discussion of the Nebraska game this afternoon the Penn State squad went through a snappy signal drill, using the white ball. Beadek permitted the men to set an easy pace today as a reward for their fine work Saturday.

Captain Hess was back in the lineup and seems to have fully recovered from his injury. Dick Schuster, the big tackle, is also on the job once more, although he will have to go some to beat out Baer. The team will leave here for Lehigh on Thursday night, so Beadek has ordered hard work for tomorrow and Wednesday. Red Griffiths, the star guard, was called home because of illness in his family and may be out of the Lehigh game.

REO

A Policy that Dominates all Conditions
A Product that is Always Worth Par

"Reo is financially the second strongest concern in the automobile industry."

That assertion, published five years ago, created a lot of comment, not only in the automobile trade, but in banking and business circles everywhere.

Incredulity was followed by approval when the proofs were looked up.

That statement is still true, we believe.

That standing, that solidity, that prestige is due to a policy of such soundness, such integrity, it has withstood those storms that have swayed others from time to time.

The well-known quality of the Reo product is the direct outcome of that policy.

Not to build all the motor cars—but the best.

Not how many—but how good.

Such a policy makes for a degree of excellence that knows no rival, and is always in demand.

Reo prices have been dictated always by the same high resolve.

Not "all the traffic would bear" but just a definite margin of profit over cost.

And that cost lower than others, because of the superior skill and facilities and experience of Reo.

Reo is "The Gold Standard of Values"—now as always.

To determine that for yourself, compare any Reo model with others selling—not at a similar price—but at twice the price.

This Sedan, for example. Compare cloth and upholstery—silver and other trimmings; the all-aluminum body. Compare design—beauty and finish.

Compare these external features with any sedan selling for $4500—and say where you find any difference in quality—in value—to account for even a fraction of the difference in price.

And the price of this luxurious equipage is $2750!

And—and—that wonderful, silent, flexible, powerful, economical Reo fix motor!

No matter how much you are willing to pay for your new automobile, you owe it to yourself to see this Reo first.

For professional or business men—or for milady who drives herself—the Reo Six Coupe is ideal. Same general design, same chassis, same quality—$2700. Prices are F. O. B. factory, plus Special Federal tax

GOVERNMENT OPENS DR. RUMELY'S TRIAL

TELL OF NOTES SOLD HERE

Witnesses Describe Negotiations for Transfer of Paper in 1915 and Flotation of German Loan.

The manner in which the Imperial German Government floated $10,000,000 worth of Treasury notes in this country in 1915 and the process by which The New York Evening Mail came into the possession of Dr. Edward A. Rumely in June of that year were revealed yesterday in the Federal court at the opening of the Government's case against Dr. Rumely and Norvin R. Lindheim and S. Walter Kaufman, lawyers, on trial on the charge of conspiring to withhold from the Alien Enemy Custodian in 1917 the fact that The Evening Mail was purchased with $750,000 furnished by representatives of the Kaiser.

Henry L. Stoddard, editor and owner of The Evening Mail, from whom Dr. Rumely bought the newspaper, was the first witness called by Harold Harper, former Assistant District Attorney, acting as special prosecutor for the Government. Mr. Stoddard testified that in February, 1915, rD. Hugo Schweitzer, a chemist, widely known for his pro-German activities in this country before it entered the war, called on him in reference to the purchase of the newspaper. He said Dr. Rumely visited him soon after and opened negotiations for the paper.

The witness said Dr. Rumely assured him that his contemplated purchase was in no way connected with the German propaganda move and declared on his word of honor that none but Americans were interested in the matter.

Frank M. Lambin, formerly Secretary and Treasurer of the S. S. McClure Newspaper Corporation which, the Government contends, was organized as a holding company by Dr. Rumely when he acquired The Evening Mail, admitted that a short time before Dr. Rumely obtained control of the newspaper the doctor introduced him to Dr. Bernhard Dernberg, chief of German propagandists in this country, and Dr. Heinrich F. Albert, up to the time America entered the war, head of the German fiscal agency at 45 Broadway.

The witness said that Dr. Rumely turned over to the S. S. McClure Newspaper Corporation $748,000, which was used in the purchase of The Evening Mail.

Percy M. Chandler, President of Chandler & Co., bankers, of Philadelphia testified that of the $10,000,000 in German Treasury notes floated by the Imperial German Government in this country in 1915 about $7,200,000 were taken up by his firm and others.

The trial will be continued today.

One-Fifth The Nation's Food

A pint's a pound the world around. At 150 Sheffield stores you can buy a pound of milk for 6½ cents.

TWENTY-THREE million cows, working twenty-four hours a day, produce ninety billion pounds of milk a year.

It is estimated that this is one-fifth of the country's food supply. From this total production your butter, cheese and Ice Cream is made. Forty-four per cent. is used as fresh milk. The point to be emphasized here is that while milk, in volume is one-fifth of the nation's food supply, in price it forms but a small fraction of our food costs.

Milk is the only complete food that nature has made. It is also the cheapest. Aside from the obvious economy it offers, it is the most valuable adjunct to any diet.

Messrs. Lee Benoist & Co., Inc.,

Gentlemen:

I am greatly pleased to hear from you that the public has responded so remarkably to the offering of the shares of D. W. Griffith Incorporated.

You will be interested to learn that the box office receipts of "WAY DOWN EAST" are more than meeting my expectations, and that this picture alone will be even a greater financial success than "THE BIRTH OF A NATION", which, as you will recall, was the most sensationally profitable theatrical attraction in the history of the world.

The fact that the receipts of "WAY DOWN EAST" for the first eight weeks of its engagement at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, New York, and in other cities, are 30% in excess of those of "THE BIRTH OF A NATION" for the same period, enables me to state that this production alone should earn net profits of at least $3,000,000 for D. W. Griffith, Incorporated.

"WAY DOWN EAST" is only one of the several pictures of our company now earning large profits, and as a constantly increasing number of productions will follow during the next twelve months, and each year thereafter, I can state, with absolute confidence that the 10% dividend on the present selling price of the stock at $15.00 per share, will be earned many times over.

The income of the company, in addition to its net assets of more than $30.00 for each of the shares now being offered, not only assures the security of this investment, but the additional profit-sharing rights give stockholders exceptional possibilities for larger dividends.

In offering this stock to investors, please emphasize that they get their share of the profits of the company before I receive any dividends whatever.

I take this occasion again to refer to the very large profits which the motion picture productions of my organization have made in the past, and to express the opinion that the opportunities for the future expansion of D. W. Griffith, Incorporated, are practically unlimited, affording the stockholders who are joining me at this time, a thoroughly sound investment, and one possessing unusual money-making possibilities.

Sincerely yours,
D. W. Griffith

MORSE DRYDOCK PROFIT EXAGGERATED

N. Y. American's Inquiry Proves Manson's $23,000,000 Charge Inaccurate and Raid a Myth.

The New York American, in opposing the proposed sale by the United States Shipping Board to British interests of the shipping seized during the war and which formerly belonged to the North German Lloyd and to the Hamburg-American Line, published in its issues of February 7, 1920, and February 12, 1920, extracts from the testimony of Philip Manson, who appeared as a witness at the hearing before the Committee on Commerce of the United States Senate on February 2, 1920.

At that hearing Mr. Manson in substance testified that if the Morse Dry Dock and Repair Co. had made a profit of $23,000,000 in two years in the repair of Government shipping that profit could not have been honestly made, and that the Morse yard had been raided by the Naval Intelligence Bureau and its books and records seized.

The American thereafter conducted an independent investigation to determine the accuracy of Mr. Manson's testimony in these respects, with the result that it was found that there was no truth in the assertion that the Morse Company had made $23,000,000 in two years, and furthermore the American's investigation proved that the Morse yard had never been raided by any Government agency.

The American publishes the results of its investigation as an act of justice to the Morse Company.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

A Belated Wartime Farce.

FRENCH LEAVE, a comedy in three acts, by Reginald Berkeley. At the Belmont Theatre.

Corporal Sykes	Dallas Welford
Rifleman Jenks	Harry McNaughton
Mlle. Juliette	Mrs. Coburn
Madame Denaux	Helen Tilden
Captain Harry Glenister	Alexander Onslow
Brig. Gen. Archibald Root, C.B.	Chas. Coburn
Lieutenant George Graham	Noel Tearle
M. Jules Marnier	Arthur Klein

Mr. and Mrs. Coburn came back to town last evening in a conventional and rather vociferously staged farce entitled "French Leave," which may be roughly described as one of those plays in which two men, each looking for the same woman, crawl around in the dark until they bump into each other. One would be inclined to suspect it of having gathered dust in manuscript for many and many a year did it not bear many internal evidences of being almost contemporary. For "French Leave" is one of those 1917 war plays, the kind that flourished in the season when every other program bore the inscription "Somewhere in France" and no theatrical entertainment was considered quite complete without a spy scare.

In this instance the scare and all the other complications arise from the effort a British officer's wife makes to pay a clandestine visit to her husband's brigade when it is resting back of the line. She disguises herself in a French accent and, passing herself off as the daughter of one of the peasants of the village where the General is billeted, she arrives from Paris, bringing with her, to judge from her subsequent appearances, several trunks and at least one maid. Of course all the officers flirt with her ardently and the young husband is noisy with jealousy and the old General is easily wheedled and everything ends ever so happily.

The play is the work of Reginald Berkeley and first saw the light last Summer in London, where the Coburns picked it up, doubtless in the feeling that they owed something to the memory of "The Better 'Ole." It is well enough played at the Belmont by a company that had apparently been rehearsed at the Hippodrome. Mr. Coburn as a soft-hearted old stuff of a brigadier, Alexander Onslow as the young husband, Helen Tilden as a bit of local color, and Harry McNaughton, betraying a strong family resemblance to his uncle of the "Three Live Ghosts" company—these all shoulder the entertainment. Above all, there is the frequently recurrent Dallas Welford, who, finding no butler's rôle in "French Leave," made what shift he could with the part of the Brigader Mess Corporal. Thus cast, he quite outdoes himself.

HELEN STANLEY SINGS.

Operatic Soprano Pleases in Simple and Plaintive Songs.

Helen Stanley, a soprano formerly heard with the Philadelphia-Chicago Opera Company in its visits to this city, where she has since made her home, appeared before a large audience at Carnegie Hall last evening in a recital of songs and airs wholly foreign to her operatic training, a program of intimate moods, evincing study and artistic growth in their expression. If her voice, of a remembered bell-like quality, full and round, found less scope and variety in simpler lyrics, it was precisely in these, especially the plaintive and tender, that she gave new pleasure as interpreter.

Her finest singing, in quiet appeal, was in a Scandinavian sailor's death song, "The Last Long Voyage," by Eyvind Alnaes, a North Sea chantey of alternate lines in the composer's tongue and a refrain ever recurring in English, "Sing, Sailor, Oh!" Assisted by Ellmer Zoller at the piano, Miss Stanley gave an air from Peri's "Orpheus," folksongs arranged by Moniuszko, Bourgault-Ducoudray, Laparra and Grainger; groups of Grieg and Alnaes, and others of modern French and English, including American pieces dedicated to the singer by Howard Barlow, Charles H. Marsh and Lucile Crews.

Cantor to Quit 'Broadway Brevities.'

Eddie Cantor will leave the cast of "Broadway Brevities" at the Winter Garden on Saturday night of this week. During Christmas week he will be seen out of town in a rewritten version of the present midnight show on the Century Promenade, now being made by Cantor and Harold Atteridge. This will be known as "Eddie Cantor and the Midnight Rounders." Cantor will remain on tour for the balance of the season.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Kissing Time" was transferred from the Lyric Theatre to the Astor last night.

"The Mandarin," with Brandon Tynan in the leading role, will open at the Princess Theatre tonight.

The opening of the new Apollo Theatre, with "Jimmie" as the attraction, will take place on Wednesday night of next week instead of Monday.

DELYSIA RESPLENDENT.

London Idol Makes "Afgar" with the Aid of Lupino Lane.

AFGAR, an extravaganza in two acts, by Fred Thompson and Worton David; based upon the French of Michel Carre and Andre Barde; lyrics by Douglas Furber; music by Charles Cuvillier. At the Central Theatre.

Don Juan, Jr.	Irving Beebe
Coucourli	Lupino Lane
Houssain	Paul Irving
Danasch	Guy Collins
Giafar	Philip Sheridan
Khasan	Glenn Gamble
Lord Afgar	W. H. Rawlins
Isilda	Frances Cameron
Mesmounda	Violet Blythe
Hanifa	Fay Evelyn
Amina	Jean Caselle
Badoura	Jean Gray
Morgiana	Alyce Meland
Bethsalh	Clara Burton
Seraphine	Vera Ruby
Marrima	Carolyn Reynolds
Zuruddu	Lorette Lewis
Delona	Jacque Bare
Sylphine	Anna Miller
Artilas	Billie Danesha
Zaydee	Alice Delysia

The resplendent Delysia, who emerged from her native France to become possibly the foremost idol of the London extravaganza stage, made an auspicious New York début at the Central Theatre last night in a much-authored, sufficient-for-the-purpose musical production bearing the name of "Afgar." It is, with some American interpolations, the same piece in which she scored her London success—a success which is quite likely to be duplicated on this side of the water.

For Alice Delysia compels attention. Like Gaby Deslys, she first wins that attention with striking headgear and bizarre costuming, but she holds it by reason of a very real, if hardly vivid, personality. Her appeal is elemental but undeniable. In a creation of white and a green-feathered cloak, as the curtain comes down on "Afgar," she supplies the picture which most of those who witness the piece will carry away with them. She is not much of a comedienne, nor possessed of great finesse as an actress; her marked French accent frequently renders her unintelligible, but for all that she is likely to be something of a sensation in New York this season.

Stunning Delysia, however, was obliged to share the honors of the evening with Lupino Lane, one of those Lupinos whose comedy and kockabout talents have so long provided the most amusing interludes of the London pantomimes. He is not of a style familiar on this side of the water; he is perhaps best comparable to Fred Stone. He has all of Stone's comedy knack and a good deal of his acrobatic talent, if not his versatility. Last night his acrobatics definitely halted the show in the first act.

As for "Afgar," it is framed chiefly as background for Delysia, and as such it serves. It is Moorish in settling—a thing of gorgeous and fantastic costumes—almost too fantastic, in fact, and grouped upon a stage which is for the most part too small for them. The stage pictures are striking, but crowded.

The entertainment is the work of several French authors and three or four English, in addition to the composer, and with the importation of the piece to America still further things have been done to it. Two American song writers have inserted several agreeable numbers, but some one else has been turned loose to localize the book, and the effect is frequently ghastly. A fervid romantic scene is likely to be interrupted at any moment with a glib allusion to Man o' War or a Broadway delicatessen store, spoken by one of the overseas players with just as much aplomb as though they knew what it was all about.

On the other hand, Charles Cuvillier of "Lilac Domino" fame has written a score which contains several fine numbers—and there is Delysia. First and foremost, it is Delysia who makes "Afgar."

Concert Will Aid Navy Club.

Revenue from the sale of seats in the Hippodrome reserved by the Navy Club for the Titta Ruffo concert next Sunday evening will go into the $400,000 fund which is being raised to pay off the balance on the club building at 15 East Forty-first Street and for certain necessary repairs.

JESSIE REED SECRETLY WED.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Jessie Reed, "Follies" show girl, was secretly wed on Saturday to Daniel O. Caswell, said to be the scion of a socially prominent Cleveland family.

The young couple were married in Pawtucket by a clergyman whose name they find it impossible to remember today. Caswell was fined $100 recently for speeding. He told the court that his home was at Hotel Commodore, New York, and that he had recently inherited half a million dollars.

New Kummer Comedy in Rehearsal.

Clare Kummer's newest comedy, "Rollo's Wild Oat," is now in rehearsal here, with Roland Young in the principal rôle, and will be produced in a New York theatre late this month. Miss Kummer has not been represented on the New York stage since the production of "Be Calm, Camilla."

"Rollo's Wild Oat" was produced out of town last Spring by the Selwyns.

MOTION PICTURES.

Why have New Yorkers
during the last eight weeks crowded in to see Over the HILL twice a day, following it from playhouse to playhouse, talking about it, writing about it, exclaiming about it?
Is it because they know that they will roar with laughter at the many mirthful incidents which punctuate this story—the clean humor of wholesome American life?
Or, is it, perhaps because they have heard that between their smiles and their laughter come moments of profound grief, pent-up with emotion—that clutch at the human heart and wring it with sympathy?
It is because no such human document has ever before been set forth in a theatrical entertainment—it is because OVER THE HILL
is life itself unfolded before your eyes—that is why all the town, and folks from out of town, are coming to see this "wonderful thing" which William Fox has made from the poems of Will Carleton, directed by Harry Millarde.

NO COMMODITY INFLATION.

The foreign trade of the United States for the current calendar year is expected to reach a total of fourteen billions for exports and imports combined, or about threefold the prewar figure. World trade is estimated at about one hundred billions at the close of the war as compared with forty billions at its beginning. Yet it is possible that the larger figures in values represent no great increase in quantities. The explanation is that prices have risen faster than production and that foreign trade in measured goods is correspondingly less than the foreign trade measured in moneys of the world. This is less striking in the case of England and the United States than for other countries where the inflation of currencies has been greater. Yet there is an amazing contrast between the trend of trade and prices in the two countries where this condition is least striking. Not once during the war did the curve of British prices fall below the curve of exports. Not once during the war did the curve of our prices approximate the perpendicular increases of our exports. No doubt the same is true of the imports, but the City Bank's economist has not provided the country with those diagrams. Mr. O. P. AUSTIN, however, has instructed observers of this striking contrast between prices and quantities in foreign trade by making interesting calculations.

The difficulty of the comparison appears from the fact that foreign trade may be done either by simple count or by weight, measure or volume. Such different quantities are not comparable, and it is only possible to make comparisons of prices for articles whose quantities may be estimated by weight. They compose about 70 per cent. of the foreign trade and, comparing 1914 with 1920, exports of them increased in weight 65 per cent. and imports 34 per cent. The difference may be taken to be largely due to the fact that our exports were mostly raw and bulky products. The proportion of manufactures was never larger. But the increase of values of exports was 249 per cent. and of imports 224 per cent. Valuing the 1920 trade at the 1914 prices, the total value of 1920, $9,478,000,000, shrinks to $4,285,000,000, as compared with $2,830,000,000 for the quantities and prices of 1914.

Mr. AUSTIN makes the surprising statement that the growth of trade for the six years since the war began is but little greater than the percentage of growth for a like period preceding the war. We are more enriched by the prices we charged than the foreign buyers were by the goods for which credit was given to them. Considering the uses to which our exports were put, there is little glory in the profits, unrealized as yet, whose total is so misleading as to the growth of our productive power. It may be imagined at what rate the countries grew poorer whose production actually declined and whose prices rose more prodigiously. It is clear that all world trade figures for the war period are worthless in an economic sense and cautionary in a financial sense.

Take cotton, for example. Its quantity and value are as correct as for any other commodity. The quantity exported was 25 per cent. below 1914 and the value was 125 per cent. greater. The 1920 exports at the 1914 prices would have brought only one-third as much as the 1920 official export figures. The increase of a half billion dollars in the export values of 1920 was due to the fact that the price, 39 cents, was threefold the 1914 price. That is how it happened that the three and one-half billion pounds of 1920 were worth 125 per cent. more than the four and one-half billion pounds of 1914. There is a similar contrast in the imports of rubber. We imported five times as much in quantity in 1920 as in 1914, but the price per pound was 25 per cent. below that of 1914. Increases in values and decreases in quantities are nourishing only in bank accounts, which are kept in a depreciated currency.

For comfort to back and stomach and feet goods are necessary, and here the indications are both stimulating and encouraging. On a rising wage market production decreases as surprisingly as it increases on a falling wage market. At times it has seemed that our workers produced less the more they were paid, and they were the best workers in the world at that. Our coal miners produced 300 tons per man more than the miners of the country nearest their report. The miners of England who are proposing to reform society rank far down in the list. This is a universal lesson. Prices rise and fall with currencies in all lands and are disappointing in the satisfactions procured at all stages. Production is the only true test of prosperity. Much is left to be wished for in production in domestic and foreign trade alike.

THE RED CROSS DRIVE.

The two weeks' campaign of the Red Cross roll call begins on Thursday of this week and 400,000 members are wanted in Manhattan. If every one who had put on the button in past years should renew membership this week, that figure would probably be far surpassed, but there seem to be a good many persons who think that since the war is over the Red Cross may lapse into innocuous desuetude.

That is a mistake. The Red Cross never rests. The war is over, but its effects have not passed away. The Red Cross is still helping the families of the dead or disabled, working for the assistance of the veterans incapacitated by wounds or disease and aiding in the replacement in civil life of men whose careers have been disarranged by their sudden entry into the service. Those, it may be said, are governmental functions; but we know how badly, and how slowly, the Government has performed most of them. For months the Red Cross was the only resource of families whose income had been halted by tangled red tape in Government offices, and though with the passing of time these conditions have been greatly improved there is still work for the Red Cross to do.

In most of Europe the war is not over and will not be over until people once more have enough to eat. In those countries the American Red Cross has been one of the principal agents of relief and will deserve a considerable share of the credit if the new generation grows up with soundly nourished bodies to build the new Europe of the mid-twentieth century.

Wars can sometimes be foreseen, but great calamities such as earthquakes, fires and storms cannot be foreseen. For all these, as for epidemics such as we knew two years ago, the Red Cross is always ready. Not a stricken city but is helped back on its feet by the Red Cross. Not a community swept by pestilence that does not find ready aid from its doctors and nurses.

Yet these are subsidiary activities, so far as the New York County chapter is concerned. It aids them all, but nearly half of its budget is devoted to the needs of humdrum daily work here at home—not cure but prevention. The nursing profession must constantly be recruited; public health nurses must be stationed in quarters where the population cannot afford the competent nursing service which might make the difference between life and death in critical cases. For those who do not know, but want to know, how to keep themselves and their families and their households germ-free and clean, how to feed their children intelligently, how to care for young children, how to stop disease in the family before it starts, there must be public health centres where information can be given freely. The war is over, in a sense, but this work is never over. The Red Cross has rendered great service in epidemics, but it does better work in preventing epidemics. In this less regarded daily work it saves lives one at a time, but the units mount to a surprising total. This work will never stop, and it cannot be carried on without money.

PREMIER HUGHES'S PLEA.

In a remarkable speech to the Australian House of Representatives, which is now published in this country, Prime Minister W. A. HUGHES declared that Great Britain must be prepared to fight to the death for the freedom of the seas, not as Germany wanted it interpreted, but as it was understood in a protective sense by the constituent parts of the empire; that, similarly, the United States must be ready to maintain the Monroe Doctrine, and Australia the doctrine or principle of a white Australia. The nations of the world today, Mr. HUGHES contended, cannot allow their war insurance to lapse. Speaking for his own land, the Prime Minister said: "Either by sea or by "air we must keep the enemies of "Australia outside of Australia. "* * * Our first line of defense "must be the navy and the air. "The question," he added, "is not "whether we are spending too much, "but whether we are spending very "little." It is significant that Mr. HUGHES predicted a year ago, but before the Peace Conference drafted the Treaty and the Covenant, that the next war would be fought on the Pacific.

In considering the robust views of the Australian Premier, the mistake must not be made of inferring that he is tempted to turn his back upon the League of Nations. The Australian Parliament unanimously ratified the Treaty and accepted the Covenant. There is a paragraph in his address which disposes of the speculation that he may have shifted his ground:

> The League represents a noble idea, and its acceptance by the greater part of the civilised world is the only hope of enduring peace. On its ultimate success depends the future of civilisation. But the League is yet in its infancy, and it is Utopian to expect from the League in its present stage of development that protection which would render unnecessary any precautions for our own defense.

It would be well to compare this with what Mr. HUGHES said about the League upon his return to Australia, in the end of 1919, to an audience in the same House of Representatives:

> The League of Nations does not attempt to govern the world. It attempts rather to set up the machinery by which civilized men, if they will act as Christianity and common sense alike dictate, may avoid war. It lights the way to a better road. It does not make that road, nor does it carry us along it. We must walk.

What Mr. HUGHES had in his mind when he addressed the Parliament recently may have been the danger of a war in the Pacific before the League was in effective working order. He may have thought that it was time to intimate to the Government in London that the "scheme of imperial defense" for the Dominions as well as for the mother country had better march quickly from a mere draft to organization and training. If a war should come suddenly—there is one war, and one only, that haunts Australia like a nightmare—the League would not be ready to function with its international force and the "scheme of imperial defense" itself would still be on paper. This notable address of the valiant and statesmanlike Australian Premier, who understands the Pacific problem better than they do in Downing Street, should be regarded as a hurry-up plea to the Home Government to be prepared for any crisis and to the nations composing the League and joining it to avert another great war by making the Covenant fully effective without more delay.

REPUBLICAN TROUBLE AHEAD.

How much better is a sure, neat, "working" majority than a loose, sprawling, overgrown majority, factious and fractious! The Republicans have a bigger one than they can always manage in the present House. In the next it is so large that declarations of independence and mutinies are likely to be frequent. Already the stirrings of revolt are heard. Mr. GILLETT of Massachusetts was elected Speaker over Mr. MANN of Illinois by a combination in which reform had some part, and political expediency, reaction and the interposition of such eminent reformers as Senator PENROSE and Senator LODGE had one much larger. Under the lead of Mr. LONGWORTH of Ohio some of the younger members tried to change the seniority rule in the appointment of committees. After the Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania delegations had anchored themselves to Mr. GILLETT and his nomination in the Republican caucus was certain, Mr. GILLETT's friends took pains to disclaim any interest in the abolition of the seniority rule. The old methods prevailed. Defeating Mr. MANN, whose election was undesirable for various reasons, the old stagers kept their hands on the House and did business at the old stand in the old way.

Mr. GILLETT has been a Speaker of the old type. His refusal to see with a recognizing eye Mr. IGOE of Missouri, who had a resolution for the investigation by the Federal Trade Commission of the high price of food, is a case in point. Former Speaker CLARK, likewise invisible to the gentleman from Massachusetts, called his whole ruling an outrage. On the day when thirty Republicans deserted their party on what was meant to be a strict party vote on the resolution requesting Secretary BAKER to sell army goods to the public immediately, Mr. GILLETT's rulings were growled at by many Republicans. The Bonus bill was driven through the House, against the votes of forty Republicans, by the same arbitrary castiron process. The oldest member by service in the House but two, Mr. GILLETT has shown a certain unexpected gift for mistakes. Probably he is the only Speaker who has ever censored the prayers of the Chaplain.

New Rumor is wagging her tongue about the Speakership. In the first place, Massachusetts has too many of the good things. The next Vice President is of Northampton. The leader of the Senate and Chairman of its Foreign Affairs Committee is of Nahant. If the rule of seniority continues, the next Chairman of the important House Committee of Interstate and Foreign Commerce is Mr. WINSLOW of Worcester, and so on. Besides, the next House will be full of Westerners, who love insurgency and change. What must the well-beloved Uncle JOE CANNON think of the theory and proposal that no Speaker should have more than one term, be more than a biennial "czar"? The old fight against seniority is to be resumed. What do Mr. PENROSE and Mr. LODGE and their authoritarian compeers think of these lax and regrettable notions? Is the next House to be allowed to elect its own Speaker? The present one wasn't. Shall so edifying an example not be followed? As for the seniority rule, that is vital to the veteran bosses. Young blood, new and striking ability, musn't be encouraged. Time and the machine order things better.

Some counsellors of perfection propose that THEODORE E. BURTON of Ohio, elected to the Sixty-seventh Congress by a majority almost too big to count, be the next Speaker. Mr. BURTON has served sixteen years in the House and one term in the Senate. His knowledge of public business is varied and vast. The Republicans could hardly find a fitter man for Speaker. He has a fine presence, if that is necessary to the Speaker, and an ample knowledge of parliamentary law. Possibly his merits disqualify him. At any rate, when the stud of wild colts breaks loose at Washington the Republican trainers and riding masters "had better get out o' the way."

MRS. ASQUITH AND STEVENSON.

If scandal is success, Mrs. ASQUITH'S autobiography has been a great success. English society and the English press are falling furiously upon the indiscretions and vulgarities of "MARGOT," whom one rather fancies to be delighted by the attacks. Just so much more material for the next installment of her reminiscences! But to be convicted of clear blunders or misrepresentations is another matter. And this is what is happening to the too daring lady.

She ventured to publish a bit of gossip about ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON at Davos. There she represented him as paying "long visits" to the family of JOHN ADDINGTON SYMONDS, and reported Mrs. SYMONDS as saying that the STEVENSONS "were not particular, "and that what with hemorrhages, "ink and cold mutton gravy, her "beautiful sheets were much spoiled."

Thereupon came forward STEVENSON'S biographer, Sir SIDNEY COLVIN, with proof that the STEVENSONS "were "never guests in the SYMONDSES' "house at all." And then some one turned up with a letter written by Mrs. SYMONDS in 1911, regretting that she had not "made notes" of the "housekeeping" of the STEVENSONS at Davos, which was "amusing and original." She added, however, that she cordially disliked "sweeping up of "crumbs from accidental intercourse "with distinguished persons." In that respect she was far behind the times—at least, behind MARGOT'S times.

FAME.

So MARK TWAIN has at last got into the Hall of Fame. EDGAR ALLAN POE was admitted in 1910, but WALT WHITMAN still lingers outside the mystic inclosure within which sit the honored figures of HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW, JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER and WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT.

It may be argued, and doubtless has been—for few forms of error have the virtue of novelty—that fame and merit are not the same thing. He who is called the greatest of American poets is understood and appreciated abroad, though his own people have failed to live up to his somewhat optimistic prophecies. But so long as he is under moral disapproval here at home no amount of foreign favor will suffice to mark him as famous. Fame is a local matter; a man's place in history may depend on the estimate of his unsuccessful neighbors in his home town. But WHITMAN'S exclusion can no longer be defended by this argument, for by this time WHITMAN is pretty widely appreciated at home, as well as in foreign parts where some of the most distinguished American medi ities have never been heard of.

WHITMAN was a great writer and he has become famous, but that is not enough to get him into the Hall of Fame. POE was let in after a period of probation, but then POE'S writings were respectable. His life was not always commendable, but neither were the lives of some of the founders of this Republic who were admitted virtually by acclamation. The difference is merely one of emphasis; we permit our famous men to overstep the bounds of conventionality, provided they do it apologetically and without putting anything down on paper which may seem to suggest extenuation for their behavior. Perhaps WHITMAN would have been more fortunate if he had lived in our day.

LABOR'S VIEWS ON MONEY.

The bankers of the country having dissented from the view of the Controller of the Currency that usury in call money in New York gripe the heart of commerce, it was sure that the spokesmen for labor would rally to the Controller's support. Labor agrees that high money, not high labor costs, is the cause of high prices, and finds that the Controller is a convert to labor's position that "credit is "social and should be controlled by "Government and not by bankers."

> Under the control of private financiers, it (credit) is administered not primarily to serve the needs of production, but the desire of financial agencies to levy a toll upon community activities as high as "the traffic will bear."
> Credit as now administered does not serve industry, but burdens it. It increases unearned incomes at the expense of earned incomes. It is the centre of the malevolent forces that corrupt the spirit and purpose of industry.

The ripe fruit of this theory of credit and money is realized under the dictatorship of the proletariat, where money is the cheapest thing and the plentiest. In Russia there is no credit and money is worthless.

The majority of those influential in our labor circles are too young to remember the distress of labor when paid in cheap money. In those days it was settled for that generation that the best money was none too good for those who had least of it. That is the present view of labor in England, where a committee of workers has recently made a report, signed by the most radical among them, urging the earliest possible return to the full gold standard. There are even some British bankers less conservative on the money question than the British wage earners, who are promoting action by the League of Nations along the lines of deflation of the currency of all nations and international assistance for the stabilization of the exchanges between nations on a common standard of value. There are many respects in which the position of American labor is better than that of the labor of other countries, but the declaration on the money question is not among them.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Warning About the Schools.

In the current edition of American Education there appears an earnest warning to the effect that at the next session of the New York Legislature another effort will be made to diminish, if not to abolish, the present large measure of independence from local political influences and compulsions enjoyed by School Boards throughout the State.

Local administrations often do find irksome their inability to control the members of these boards, as regards expenditures and other matters of even more interest to politicians in office, but, everything considered, and in spite of the superiority, on general principles, of home rule to legislative rule in matters of local interest, American Education probably is right in defending the system now in operation as better than its opposite.

The rightness, however, is one somewhat humiliating to confess, or ought to be, for to whatever extent Mayors, Aldermanic Boards and like depositories of power would subordinate public school interests to those of politics, to just that extent are the people in the several communities to blame, even more than are the officials who would do such things—for the people elected them to office. However, we must deal with the world as it is, not as it ought to be, and it is true that the schools seem to be safer in the hands of the Legislature than in those of the stay-at-home politicians.

Unknown But Not Unhonored.

In both England and France—it is not clear which country originated the admirable plan—it has been determined to give deserved recognition to the soldiers who in the great war sacrificed not only life, but identity—who in death, that is, could not be recognized and over whose grave no name can be inscribed on one of the white crosses.

In England the purpose is to place one such victim in Westminster Abbey, there, as representative of his class, to sleep with the highest honor that England pays to her most distinguished sons. In France the first intention was to place the body of such a soldier in the Panthéon, which "a grateful country dedicated to great men," but second thought seems to favor placing him in the Arc de Triomphe. There he will rest, not as "un soldat Français," but as "le soldat Français," a small difference and yet of large significance.

These are gracious and pious precedents that the United States well might follow, modified, of course, as we have nothing quite corresponding to the Abbey or the Arch. Without either we can show the reverence we feel for the men whom an especially cruel fate has deprived of all the ordinary forms of perpetuation in memory. At Arlington there already is a monument to the thousands of "unknown dead" that are buried there in one long trench, but that is not quite the same as selecting for special honors one man who typifies what is perhaps the culminating cruelty of war.

ASKS WILL WE DISARM.

Tokio Paper Says If We Start New Navy Program Others Will Follow.

TOKIO, Nov. 8.—Quoting a reported statement of President-elect Harding that the United States would set an example for the world in disarmament, the Jiji Shimpo asks whether in view of the attitude of the Republicans in the past he will be able to carry out his pledge.

The newspaper predicts that if a fresh naval program is launched it will have the effect of stimulating competition in armaments in all countries on the Pacific and the Atlantic.

The Yomo-Uri-Shimbun quotes a member of the Cabinet as confirming previous reports that Japan will not introduce a racial equality proposal in the League of Nations conference, though such a proposal is only postponed. The Minister said that the policy of Japan was not to ask for entire abolition of the exclusion program, but to demand the restriction of exclusion to natives of less civilized countries than Japan.

DOWN BY THE SEA.

I love the sea on a troubled day,
Gray and green, green and gray,
With a single far-away sail in sight,
White and alone, alone and white,
And the sea gulls resting a little space
On the rocks, then away with their weird, wild grace.
I love the sea on a troubled day!

I love the sea on a happy day,
With the tossing foam and the dancing spray,
For the waves more sunshine than they can hold,
Gold and blue, blue and gold,
And the voices of children, shrill with glee,
At play by the frolicking, changing sea.
Then the tranquil sea, subdued, serene,
Green and blue, blue and green.

Oh, I love the sea whatever the day,
Blue, and gold, and green, and gray,
And it matters but little—the things that be,
I'm in love with the sea—I'm in love with the sea!

ETHEL MARJORIE KNAPP.

A TAX ANOMALY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is a situation in connection with the imposition of the transfer tax by the State and the estate tax by the United States with respect to a particular class of American citizens that operates, in my judgment, to produce a result never intended by Congress, that is almost burlesque in its effect upon the minds of the victims and that calls for some public discussion with a view to such action being taken as may remedy the ridiculous conflict and contradictions in the administration of the two statutes.

Without disclosing any particular estate, let me say that an American missionary, commissioned shortly after graduating from the theological seminary in this State which constituted his last place of residence in this country, dies abroad while engaged in his missionary work, and after being subjected to outrages and abuses, without protection from the American flag, Consul or State Department, and leaving a small estate, most of which, at his request, had been converted into Liberty bonds during the war as the sole contribution he could make (beyond his gallant personal attempt to protect American property in the city where he died), and far under the $50,000 exemption which American citizens are given within the intent of Congress in administering this estate tax.

Proceedings were promptly begun, making allowances for the impossibility of getting particulars, owing to the disturbed condition of the country of his death, and the interruption of the mail service, both before the Treasury Department, Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the New York State Controller's Department.

Of course, every one knows that there is no exemption of $50,000 to persons not residents of this country under the Federal Tax law, and, second, that as to a New York tax a resident is taxed on more than a non-resident would be; that is to say, there are exemptions in either case that operate, the one in favor of residents, the other in favor of non-residents. At once the Federal Government takes the position, fortified, not by the law, but by the interpretation of the act by the department and by opinions of the Solicitor General, that this American missionary had no residence in the United States; that he was a non-resident; that he was domiciled abroad; that presumably he did not intend to return and take up a residence in the United States.

How could he, without giving up that life as a representative American to which he had consecrated his whole energies, and why should he lose his American residence any more than an Ambassador or a Consul temporarily representing his country abroad? The State of New York, on the other hand, and with some show of reason, contended that he was a resident of the State of New York; that that was the last American residence that he as an American had, a domicile in the United States to which, when he might return from time to time, he would presumably resort, and at which, if he stayed long enough on a furlough, he would have the right to vote, and therefore, in order to impose the heavier tax, the State Controller asserts that he is a resident of the State of New York.

Now it is possible, and unfortunately probable, that both of these rulings will stand. It was never the intention of Congress to expose to tax American missionaries resident abroad, and possibly possessed of some small legacy, which might be the sole support of a widow or surviving children, none of which missionaries receive salaries that would content a carpenter or wheelwright in this country. To put them on the same plane as wealthy Americans who leave this country and establish a temporary domicile in London or Paris, or some other capital in Europe, for the purpose of evading taxes, is, in in respect to which public opinion should be brought to bear on Congress, to my judgment, a gross outrage, and one to secure some express amending act, since even the representations of the Boards of Missions have been unable to move the red tape bound and stiffened conscience of the Treasury Department. I appeal to persons interested to discuss the matter with any persons connected with the administration of affairs at Washington, particularly with their own member of Congress. The act could readily be made to provide for such cases by an express provision providing for or at least allowing, as you please, but at least including some such words as that, "An American citizen, commissioned by a missionary board of any church denomination in the United States as a missionary, occupied in the discharge of his duties as such missionary, shall not be deemed to have abandoned his place of last residence at the time he departed from the United States, and his estate shall be entitled at his death to any exemption to which it would have been entitled had he died at such place of last residence."

WOULD NOT DIVIDE TURKEY.

Sir William Ramsay Says America Should Accept Entire Mandate.

The idea of governing Turkey by partitioning it among other nations, was condemned yesterday afternoon by Sir William Mitchell Ramsay of Great Britain, the famous archaeologist and authority on the life and work of St. Paul. Sir William, who arrived in this country only recently, addressed a large gathering of clergymen of all Protestant denominations in the Rutgers Presbyterian Church, Broadway and Seventy-third Street, held under the auspices of the Clerical Conference of the New York Federation of Churches and in conjunction with a meeting of the Presbytery of New York.

Sir William, who is 69 years old, was introduced by the Rev. Dr. Nehemiah Boynton of Brooklyn, Chairman of the Clerical Conference. Every minister was indebted to Sir William for his writings, Dr. Boynton said.

Because he has spent thirty-four years in Asiatic Turkey, Sir William said he felt it his duty to express an opinion about the political future of that country. He said that for two years he had been instructed by his Government to speak on Turkey, and that he did so before the Paris Conference. This resulted in his being sent on a mission to Constantinople by the military authorities, he said.

"America ought to accept the mandate for running Turkey as a whole," said Sir William. "It is infinitely easier to keep peace in the whole country than is part."

He said that the partitioning off of Turkey "would result in a century of disgrace to European history."

"It seems to me that the mandate should be accepted by the four powers of America, Great Britain, France and Italy. The idea of dividing up the country should be abandoned. The salvation of Turkey depends on local self-government."

Sir William said it was due to the generosity of "a New York woman" that his research work in Antioch was to be carried on. It is known that this woman is Mrs. John S. Kennedy.

BIG SPANISH WINE YIELD.

Expected to be 607,660,000 Gallons, Far in Excess of Last Year's.

MADRID, Nov. 8.—The wine grape harvest of Spain this year will probably produce 66,050,000 gallons of wine above last year's figures. An official forecast shows the grape harvest to total 8,375,300,000 pounds, which it is estimated will yield 607,660,000 gallons of wine, as against 7,624,200,000 pounds of grapes, yielding 541,610,000 gallons in 1919.

The provinces of Barcelona, Tarragona, Ciudad-Real, Toledo, Valencia, Alicante and Timeria head the list in point of grape production.

HITS CARE OF DISABLED.

Legion Commander Says They Are Treated as Cases, Not as Human Beings.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 8.—The American Legion must put itself between the disabled service men and Government incompetency, G. W. Galbraith, Jr., of Cincinnati, National Commander of the legion, told department Adjutants of thirty States in conference here today. Mr. Galbraith also disapproved of the policy of placing World War soldiers in old soldiers' homes along with veterans of other wars.

"The trouble is," Mr. Galbraith declared, "that the men are regarded as mere cases and not as human beings. They appear to be sheaves of papers rather than the nation's heroes. The situation is pitiful—even frightful. The conditions in the tuberculosis hospitals are particularly bad fundamentally because the Government did not build any hospitals for the derelicts coming back from the war. In Chicago seven former service men were found on a poor-farm."

Mr. Galbraith said he was trying to raise $500,000 from "an agency whose work is closely related to the problem of the disabled service men" so that the legion might have the facilities to carry out its plans.

GIVES ARMY REORGANIZATION

Secretary Baker Announces Regrouping of Peace-Time Force.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The new tactical peace time organization of the regular army, based on the Army Reorganization bill passed at the last session of Congress, was announced today by Secretary Baker. It provides for one skeleton army in time of peace with a paper strength of 337,221 men.

An army corps, under the new organization, will consist of 70,966 men, an infantry division of 19,385 men, a cavalry division of 6,417 men, an artillery brigade of 3,414 men and an infantry brigade of 6,158 men.

The act providing for the new organization divided the country into nine corps areas and in time of war by general mobilization this division would result in three armies, each of the tactical strength and organization announced today.

As the peace time strength of the regular army is only 280,000 men, Mr. Baker explained that the National Guard and organized reserve would fill the gaps.

WILSON FRAMING MESSAGE.

Expected to Renew Recommendations for Reconstruction Measures.

WASHINGTON, Nov., 8.—President Wilson has begun work on his annual message to Congress, which will be transmitted either on the opening day of the next session, December 6, or on the day following.

White House officials said today that they had no information as to what recommendations the President planned to make to Congress, but Administration officers expect that among other things he will again urge the enactment of a number of reconstruction measures which he recommended at the first special session of the present Congress early last year.

ASKS FACTS ON RHINE FORCE

Baker Orders General Allen to Sift Charges Made in the Reichstag.

WASHINGTON, Nov., 8.—Charges made recently in the German Reichstag that American soldiers at Coblenz had been guilty of drunkenness and disorderly conduct will be communicated immediately to Major General H. T. Allen, commander of the Army of Occupation, for investigation, Secretary Baker said today.

Mr. Baker added that he had had no reports from the American officers of any such occurrences among the American troops.

FIGHT HIGHER AUTO FEES.

Jersey Organizations Say Proposed License Increase is Too Much.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 8.—More than 200 representatives of automobile and manufacturing organizations attended a hearing today by the Assembly Judiciary Committee and objected to the White bill providing for increases in automobile license fees. A joint committee of opponents of the bill, among them the Association of Automobile Clubs of New Jersey, the Newark Automobile Trades Association, the Union County Mill Owners' Association and the New Jersey Automobile and Truck Club, submitted a statement in which it was charged that, under the bill, the fees would be increased from 3 to 65 per cent. on automobiles and from 25 to 362 per cent. for trucks.

Backers of the measure had stated that the bill called for increases of "20 per cent. and upwards."

The chief arguments of the advocates of the bill, as presented by Walter J. Busby, was that the State's immediate problem was to get more money for maintenance of highways.

SUSTAINS 8-CENT FARE.

Commission Makes the Rate Permanent in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The Public Utilities Commission today sustained the 8-cent carfare in Chicago and made it permanent. The valuation of the surface lines was fixed at $150,113,144.

The city fought the 8-cent rate and insisted that the franchise rate of 5 cents be restored.

DENIES CITY GAVE UP TITLE.

Old Commission's Finding Cited in Ejectment Suit Against N. Y. C. R. R.

Evidence offered yesterday by the City of New York in its suit to eject the New York Central from the property along the Hudson River to Spuyten Duyvil was intended to strengthen the city's plea that a large part of the right of way claimed by the railroad included land belonging to the city, title to which, a city commission in 1867 found, had not been given up by the city. One of the parcels involved extends from 123d to 127th Street and from high-water mark to the easterly boundary of the right of way.

The trial will continue before Supreme Court Justice Donnelly today.

WOULD CUT CHRISTMAS MAIL

Postmaster Patten Asks Business Men to Withhold Circulars.

Postmaster Thomas Patten has addressed a letter to business houses urging them to discontinue during the ten days before Christmas the mailing of circulars and catalogues.

Mr. Patten said it was also advantageous for large shippers of parcel post mail to deposit it under permit numbers without stamps affixed, or to use precanceled stamps and to have such shipments separated to towns, cities and States and deposited, whenever practicable, at final points of distribution.

Urges Bell Ringing on Armistice Day

ALBANY, Nov. 8.—In proclaiming next Thursday as Armistice Day Governor Smith today requested that Mayors, village Presidents and pastors of churches have bells tolled at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

GEN. NIVELLE HERE, WELCOMED AS HERO

BRINGS FRANCE'S MESSAGE

Representative at Mayflower Tercentenary — To Meet Cabinet Members and Pershing Today.

General Robert Georges Nivelle, hero of Verdun and former Commander in Chief of the French Army, arrived yesterday from Havre on the French liner Lorraine to represent his country at the National Mayflower Tercentenary celebration being held in American cities this month. He was commissioned by the French Government, being a Protestant, to represent the early French settlers, who previous to the Mayflower era and throughout the seventeenth century came to North American shores.

General Nivelle also brings greetings from France to several American cities, on the occasion of the second anniversary of the final victory, which is now uniting France and America.

The famous French military leader was met at Quarantine yesterday morning by Major General Robert Lee Bullard, commanding the Department of the East, and his staff, and more than thirty delegates from the French Huguenot Society, French War Veterans, American Legion and other organizations who traveled down the bay on the army tug Ordnance. The two Generals met in the smoking room on the promenade deck of the Lorraine, which had been reserved for the purpose by Captain M. Brevet, commander of the ship.

General Nivelle, who is a well built man of medium height, with gray hair and a close-clipped mustache, almost white, carries his 64 years better than many city workers twenty years his junior. He wore the blue-gray uniform of a General in the French Army, with the star of the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor and five rows of service bars across his left breast.

After Major Gen. Bullard had made a short address welcoming the distinguished visitor in the name of the American people, General Nivelle replied in excellent English:

"I am delighted at the honor bestowed upon me by the French Government in sending me here as its representative to the Tercentenary celebration of the Mayflower Pilgrims. It has been my ambition for many years to visit the United States and I am still more delighted to come here now and renew my acquaintance with the great American soldiers who in France proved themselves not only heroes, but gentlemen as well.

"The great republic of Europe," he continued, "will always maintain a close and everlasting friendship with the United States."

When asked by reporters if France was recovering financially since the armistice was signed, General Nivelle replied: "France will take care of herself financially without outside help, as her taxes are already producing ample returns."

He declined to answer other questions regarding financial or industrial conditions in France, asserting that he had been a soldier all his life and was not a business man.

General Nivelle did not have an opportunity to see the beauties of New York Harbor yesterday morning. His time was fully taken up in the smoking room, as the liner steamed up the bay to her pier at West Fifteenth Street. In receiving the members of the delegations, many of whom wore silk hats and buttons of the Legion of Honor As the Lorraine neared the Statue of Liberty, General Bullard tried to get him on deck, and exclaimed: "Why do they keep the General in this room instead of letting him see America, the country he is coming to visit?"

It was no use, however, as the reception committees had him hemmed in. When the liner passed Governors Island and the fact gave him a salute of seventeen guns one of General Bullard's staff said to him: "General Nivelle, the fort is saluting you."

On hearing this the French General rose from his seat and rubbed the port glass to look out and see what was passing, but finding it impossible he stood at attention in the smoking room until the firing ceased. His first view of America was the Jersey Central Railroad Station at Communipaw, when he managed to get out on deck and look over the side and afterward posed for photographers.

General Nivelle made himself popular during the voyage and gave an autographed photograph of himself at Fort Douaumont, Verdun which was auctioned off at the concert on Saturday night for the Seamen's Widows and Orphans' Fund and sold for 1,700 francs. He also gave a silver wrist watch presented to him by the Touring Club of France, which was bought by a New York milliner. This disappointed Edgar S. Cambere, an American boy, who bid until it went beyond him. This was noticed by the General, who afterward gave him another wrist watch for nothing.

Astor Knight, an American artist returning on the Lorraine, designed a testimonial representing the battlefield of the Marne, with a wreath above, and which was signed by the passengers and presented to General Nivelle by Mme. Frances Huard, daughter of Francis Wilson, the American actor-manager. He expressed his thanks for the gift from his fellow passengers and as a token of his gratitude kissed their fair representative on both cheeks.

General Nivelle was accompanied by Colonel Paul Azan and Chaplain André Monod, who were in civilian dress. Mlle. G. Saint Paul, who will be the guest of Mrs. Charles B. Alexander in New York, was also in the party.

At the pier General Nivelle was received by five companies of Boy Scouts under the command of Scout Commissioner Charles F. McFarland and delegates from French and American societies. He drove to the Waldorf-Astoria, where Consul General Paston Liebert headed another delegation of members of the French colony in New York, and 180 Boy Scouts of America were drawn up with many American flags and one French flag fifteen feet long.

After a brief reception and luncheon with General Bullard and his staff and the Consul General, General Nivelle left in the afternoon for Washington.

HONORED IN WASHINGTON.

General Nivelle to be Guest of Secretary Baker Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—General Nivelle arrived in Washington tonight from New York City and will be the recipient of many honors. After paying his official calls tomorrow morning he will be entertained at luncheon by Secretary of War Baker. Following the luncheon at the Army and Navy Club, which will be attended by the members of the Cabinet, General Pershing, Major Gen. Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff, the chiefs of bureaus and services of the War Department and members of the French Embassy, General Nivelle will motor to Mount Vernon to visit the tomb of Washington.

ROBT. W. GOELET MAY WED MLLE. GUESTIER

RELATIVES HERE NOT TOLD

Rich Bachelor Spends Much of His Time at His Sandricourt Estate in France.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The engagement is announced by the Paris Figaro of Robert Walton Goelet, wealthy New York real estate owner, financier and clubman, to Mlle. Anne Guestier, daughter of a large Bordeaux landowner and Director of the Orleans Railroad.

Robert Walton Goelet, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goelet of New York, who resides at 591 Fifth Avenue, is one of the wealthiest bachelors in this country. He has been abroad for some time and is expected back shortly.

The report of his engagement to Mlle. Guestier could not be confirmed here yesterday through any of his relatives or friends. It was said at the office of his estate, 9 West Seventeenth Street, that no word had been received there of his engagement, and others who knew him well doubted that it was true.

In 1908 Mr. Goelet purchased the Sandricourt estate near Paris, which belonged to the Marquis de Beauvoir, where he has spent much of his time. The château is one of the finest near Paris, and has one room to which visitors are not allowed access, where a complete royal equipment is kept, all intended for the Duke of Orleans when he should come as King. It is not known whether Mr. Goelet kept the room with its royal trappings intact or not. He paid $100,000 for the château.

Upon the death of his mother, about five years ago, he came into a fortune estimated at about $40,000,000, including her splendid estate at Newport and the fifth avenue residence. He is also owner of Box 24 in the parterre at the Metropolitan Opera House. By his father's will he came into half the Goelet property at the age of 21, and the rest at the age of 25. He is now in the thirties.

He is a cousin of Robert Goelet, who married the Princess Riabouchinsky in Paris over a year ago. In 1902 he was graduated from Harvard University and is a member of most of the exclusive clubs of New York. His engagement to a prominent society girl of this city, now married, was reported in 1909, but afterward denied. During the war he donated $250,000 for the establishment and equipment of additional ambulance sections of the Harjes-Norton American Ambulance Corps.

SOCIAL NOTES

New York.

Washington.

Prince de Beam, Charge d'Affaires of France, has issued invitations to a ball on Thursday evening to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the French Republic. This will mark the re-opening of the French Embassy to society, as during the war the Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand took little part in society. The ball, which will not be large, will be preceded by a dinner for forty with the Prince de Beam and his associates of the Embassy as hosts.

The Baroness Romano Avezzana, wife of the Italian Ambassador, was the guest in whose honor Mrs. Henry W. Keyes entertained a large luncheon company yesterday.

Mrs. John Hays Hammond has gone to the Virginia Hot Springs for a stay of several weeks.

CHANNING RUDD DEAD.

Controller of Government Loan Organization Dies Suddenly.

Channing Rudd, who had been for the last year in charge of the Government Loan Organization of the Second Federal Reserve District, died suddenly yesterday morning of acute dilatation of the heart in a drug store in Hoboken, N. J.

In his work for the Government he had charge of more than 2,500,000 installment accounts of the Liberty Loan. During the war he had been executive manager of the Liberty Loan campaign in Maryland, where he had previously been Vice President of the Maryland Bankers Association. Mr. Rudd was 45 years old.

Edward Bagley Merrill.

Edward Bagley Merrill, who began the practice of law in this city in 1860, died Sunday at the residence of his son, Edward Gibbs Merrill at 326 West Nineteenth Street, where he had recently made his home. An attack of bronchitis proved fatal owing to his advanced age. He was born in New Bedford, Mass., Jan. 25, 1835, graduated from Bowdoin College in 1857 and from the Harvard Law School in 1859. In 1861 he was married to Miss Mary Elizabeth Gibbs. He was formerly Vice President of the New York Colonization Society and also on the executive committee of the New York Prison Association.

Ready for Red Cross Roll Drive.

A number of New York society women who were chiefs of Red Cross Canteen Units during the war are to head the corps of district lieutenants in this city for the Red Cross Roll Drive, which is to begin Thursday, Armistice Day, and will close on Thanksgiving. Mrs. John S. Ellsworth is Chairman of the district organization. The headquarters will be in the 7th Regiment Armory, the armories of the 1st Field Artillery and the 22d Engineers. Mrs. Montague Flagg, Mrs. Clough C. Overton, Mrs. MacLane Van Ingen and Mrs. Edward Zabriskie are among those who will head the corps.

No School Religion Course.

The Rev. Harry Webb Farrington corrected yesterday a misconception in THE NEW YORK TIMES that the Interdenominational Committee for Week-Day Religious Instruction was planning to teach religion in the public schools. He said it was the desire of the committee that pupils be dismissed at 2 P. M. on Wednesdays for religious instruction, to be given outside schoolrooms. Dr. Farrington said the movement, which is under way in about thirty cities in ten States, had never been suspended after initiation. "All have either held their own or made progress," he said.

Armistice Ball for Charities.

An armistice anniversary ball will be held on Thursday evening by the 1920 Relief Committee of the Missouri Woman's Club of New York in the Roof Garden of the Waldorf-Astoria. The proceeds will go to the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Fresh Air Funds, Hospitals and other relief work, the gifts from the fund being proportionate to the patrons and ticket purchasers representing such charities.

EX-DUTCH PREMIER, DR. A. KUYPER, DEAD

Leader of Anti-Revolutionary Party, Author, Lecturer and Editor, Was 83 Years Old.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 8.—Eighty-three years old, Abraham Kuyper, who for a long time was Dutch Premier and Minister of Internal Affairs, died today after a long illness. Besides being one of the greatest Dutch diplomats and leader of the Dutch Anti-Revolutionary Party, Kuyper was well known as an author and editor of The Standard.

Dr. Kuyper, whose varied activities covered a period of more than fifty years, furnished in 1901 one of the rare instances in history of a pastor who became Prime Minister. He was born at Maassluis, Holland, on Oct. 29, 1837, obtained the degree of Doctor of Theology from the University of Leyden and in 1863 accepted the pastorship of the Reformed Church at Beest later taking charge of churches at Utrecht and Amsterdam.

In 1872 he entered journalism, founding the daily paper The Standard and acting as its editor in chief. This venture he followed six years later with the weekly, Heraut. Yet he had at the same time accepted an election to the States-General and served in that body for many years. In 1897 and 1910 he held the office of Minister of State. He made a lecture tour of the United States.

James H. Shine.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 8.—James H. Shine, President of the Hope Knitting Company of Cohoes and a manufacturer of knit goods, died suddenly at his home at Cohoes today. During the war Mr. Shine was Chairman of the Underwear Branch of the Council of National Defense and through him all contracts for underwear were awarded. President Wilson commended Mr. Shine in a letter for this work.

THE WAY TO DO BIG THINGS IS TO PULL TOGETHER

Charles E. Gehring, President of the Gehring Publishing Company, which publishes the Hotel Review, the Metropolitan Guide and the Gehring Hotel Directory, has asked me to write a series of 5 advertisements to appear daily in The New York Times during the Hotel Men's Exposition, which opened at Grand Central Palace yesterday and will continue until Saturday.

First, I want to speak of the fraternal spirit which exists between hotel men and dealers who furnish the hotel men with their supplies and equipment.

Mr. Gehring is responsible in great measure for bringing about this fraternal spirit, because through his publications, the Hotel Review, the Metropolitan Guide and Gehring's Directory he has consistently insisted in editorial and news columns that the only way to standardize the hotel industry and its affiliated interests was to get together and to stick together.

It is a well-known fact that hotel men stick together—probably more genuinely than men engaged in any other industry. They have no jealousies; on the contrary, their code is just old fashioned brotherhood, which means "standing by"—helping one another.

By way of illustrating this point, let me tell you about what happened at the Commodore Hotel last night.

Hotel men from all sections of the country arranged a banquet to do honor to Thomas D. Green, proprietor of the Hotel Woodward, Broadway at 55th St., New York City, who, as president of the Hotel Association of New York City, has done so much for the good of the hotel industry.

There were 1,200 of Mr. Green's friends at the banquet, which is a splendid tribute to his popularity—but it was more than that; it was recognition of his able, unselfish, square work in behalf of his fellow-hotel men.

In telling you of the banquet given to Mr. Green, I am reminded of another banquet tendered to Mr. Gehring at the Hotel Biltmore in 1916, which was staged by John McE. Bowman, Lou C. Wallick, and several other good friends.

This banquet was attended by 750 men from all over the country, who paid $25 per cover, and were glad to do it. Mr. Gehring was showered with gifts, representing the affection and appreciation of his friends in the hotel industry.

It was said at that time that the extraordinary brilliancy of this affair surpassed in many respects the famous Bradley-Martin Ball.

The Gehring Banquet will be long remembered and I happen to know that it was a well-deserved tribute, because after Mr. Gehring had started the Hotel Review and was losing money, he refused, to my knowledge, a position that assured him of an income for life of $20,000 a year, and an allowance of an equal sum for expenses.

He turned down this munificent offer because he wanted to do something that would help his friends, the hotel men, and at the same time, establish himself in a business of his own.

His Hotel Review, which he acquired in 1907 and was then a 12-page monthly publication, has developed into a powerful weekly, averaging 84 pages an issue, and is universally accepted as high, fair and accurate authority on all hotel matters.

I don't know how much annual return Mr. Gehring gets from his publications, but whatever it is, he is happy over it, because the thing that interests him most is how he can best serve the hotel men and the supply and equipment people.

As illustrating Mr. Gehring's service, many of the most successful hotel men in the country consult him as an authority on hotel supplies and equipment and he is frequently called on to advise in cities all over the country as to the practicability of establishing hotels, the best locations, and how to finance them.

A great many requests come to him weekly from all over the country to decide on matters affecting the supplies and equipment for hotels and no request is ever ignored. This entails a vast amount of work, but Mr. Gehring is equal to it, and, besides, his motto is SERVICE.

I believe there are many business houses all over the country that should advertise in Mr. Gehring's publications, and during this series of advertisements I will try to give them reasons why they should, but not today.

Today I just want to say to you that you ought to visit the Hotel Men's Exposition at Grand Central Palace in order to get a good line on what the hotel men of the country are doing.

If you will telephone Bryant 9630, or will call at the Gehring publication office, 1480 Broadway, Mr. Gehring will be glad to supply you with tickets for admission to the Exposition with his compliments.

* * *

Yours, sincerely,
WILLIAM G. FREEMAN.

HOTEL MEN BEGIN WEEK'S CONVENTION

THOMAS D. GREEN HONORED

President of City Organization Guest at Dinner and Receives a Silver Service.

Hotel men, more than 1,200 strong, members of the New York Hotel Association, began yesterday their annual convention in this city. For one week they will meet and talk shop. The convention is held in connection with the fifth National Hotel Men's Exposition which began last evening in Grand Central Palace.

The opening event of the week's program was a luncheon to visiting hotel men at the Park Avenue Hotel. More than 400 of them were the guests of George C. Brown, of that hotel. At the luncheon it was suggested that hotel managers reduce the price of bridal suites and make special rates for those who admit they are on honeymoon trips.

At night in the Hotel Commodore the association paid honor to Thomas D. Green, President of the Hotel Association of New York City. Besides being the guest at a dinner that did honor to the hotel profession, Mr. Green received from his friends a silver service containing forty pieces. John McE. Bowman presided and the tribute to the guest of the evening was offered by Mr. Tierney. Mr. Green, affectionately hailed as Tom Green by his friends, responded.

The exposition in Grand Central Palace opened formally with an address by Mr. Tierney, as Chairman of the Show Committee. Mr. Green spoke, as also did W. N. Robinson, President of the American Hotel Association.

Nearly everything that has to do with the hotel and allied industries is shown in the Grand Central Palace. It is a show that will especially delight the housekeeper. There are washing machines at work, electric heaters, all sorts of apparatus for cleaning, for cooking and in stall after stall tempting displays of edibles are shown. A leading attraction is the Salon of Culinary Art, given by the Societie Culinaire Philanthropique.

On Wednesday the culinary exhibition will include all sorts of chicken dishes; on Thursday an exhibition of birthday cakes; on Friday an exhibition of new temptingly cold fish can be prepared and on Saturday there will be exhibitions of salad-making and the preparation of a private dinner ready to cook.

Eliminating Luck

The organization which does not itself control all parties to a building project, cannot be certain of constructing a plant adapted in every respect to the client's requirements.

Medical authorities advise a DAILY change of underwear. Aside from any health consideration, this is a real economy. The underwear lasts longer.

When Underwear Throws a Fit

BAGGY, bunchy underwear has "thrown" the fit of more top-clothes and ruined more dispositions than you can shake a stick at. To have neat, fine-fitting clothes, you must be certain to wear the right kind of underwear.

Reis Lavender Label Union Suits follow the lines and curves of your body like the bark on a birch-tree. They hug snug where you want a clinging fit; and give way for the long stride or the upward reach, like the slack-rope on a windlass.

Ask your dealer for the Reis 8-exclusive-feature pamphlet, or write us for it—NOW. Then your underwear will never throw a fit.

It's a Buyer's Market

Manufacturers must cut production costs to meet low selling prices

You, the manufacturer, must accept today's prices for your product.

They are much lower than a few months ago.

We have decided to fall in line and further reduce the prices on our surplus equipment despite the fact that we are selling a million dollars' worth a month—an unprecedented demand.

We announce a

General price reduction on used equipment

Take advantage of this offering at once and cut the cost of operating your plant to a minimum. Our surplus equipment will answer your problem of more and economical production.

The equipment listed below is in usable condition, ready for immediate shipment. It is the same high grade equipment we have been selling to American manufacturers all along—but at greatly reduced prices.

COMMITTEE TO RULE IF IRISHMEN REFUSE

Parliament Provides Alternative to Irish Legislatures in Home Rule Bill.

LEAVE MINORITIES TO THEM

Irish Legislatures Will Have Authority to Establish Second Chambers for Protection.

DROP NOMINATION OATH

Another Amendment Requires Southern Ireland to Provide Funds for Its Own Universities.

LONDON, Nov. 8 (Associated Press).—The Irish Home Rule bill passed through nearly the final stage in the House of Commons tonight, with two new clauses added by the Government, which, in the opinion of Irish and Liberal politicians, rendered the measure practically dead.

These clauses, which provide for second chambers and the dissolution of the Parliaments should they not be properly constituted, were carried after being severely criticised by former Premier Asquith and others as tending to reduce Ireland to the condition of a backward crown colony, by ample majorities in a small House, showing the slight interest now shown in the bill.

The new clause provides that if the number of members validly elected to either Parliament at the first election is less than half the total membership, or if the number who have taken the oath of allegiance within fourteen days from the date Parliament is summoned is less than half, the King may by an order in council dissolve such Parliament and place the functions of the Government in the hands of a committee nominated by the Lord Lieutenant pending the summoning of a new Parliament.

Lord Hugh Cecil criticised the clause as the greatest legislative absurdity ever suggested. Mr. Asquith said the clause forcibly illustrated the farcical character of the southern Parliament. The contingency contemplated, he asserted, was certain to arise in southern Ireland, which then would be reduced to the condition of the most backward of the Crown colonies.

This clause was carried by 137 to 11.

The measure has to run the gauntlet of the House of Lords, where, according to rumors current in the coalition papers, an attempt will be made to cut the six Ulster Counties completely out of the bill, leaving them to be administered as at present from Westminster.

The Home Rule bill came before the committee of the whole House. The clause providing for the creation of second chambers for the protection of minorities was adopted by 175 to 31. It leaves to the Irish Parliaments the duty of framing the necessary scheme.

The Government had originally proposed itself to draft the scheme, and was today subjected to much hostile criticism for evading the task. The Government's critics declared that the Irish Parliaments would not succeed in drafting a successful scheme.

Andrew Bonar Law, the Government leader in the House, and Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Minister of Pensions, replying to the criticisms, explained that there were insuperable difficulties in the way of the English Parliament attempting the task. In the course of the debate Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, argued that it would have been quite sufficient to provide a second chamber for the Southern Parliament, and by a question elicited from Worthington-Evans that even if second chambers were not established the Irish Parliaments would continue to function.

Another amendment to the bill was adopted placing upon the Southern Parliament the responsibility of providing funds for Irish universities.

The Government's early proposal that all candidates for election to the Irish Parliaments must take the oath of allegiance before being nominated, which has provoked severer criticism from Irishmen and the Liberals than any other provision of the bill, has been quietly dropped, and today Worthington-Evans, in behalf of the Government, moved the new clause to replace it and provide for the case of either Irish Parliament not being properly constituted.

Irish Railways Collapsing.

DUBLIN, Nov. 8.—The railway situation is represented here as being serious, owing to the refusal of the railwaymen to transport troops and munitions. A complete collapse at Christmas time of the profitable food traffic is feared.

Although the general public is desirous of a compromise on the munitions question, the attitude of the railwaymen remains unchanged, and they are being supported by the Sinn Feiners. The newspapers are printing very little concerning the protests of the public on the controversy.

PASSPORTS FOR WITNESSES.

Britain Permits Irishmen to Come Here to Tell Their Story.

DUBLIN, Nov. 8.—Denis Horgan, Chairman of the Thurles Town Council, and John Derham, father of the Chairman of the Balbriggan Council, have received passports from the Foreign Office in London which will permit them to proceed to the United States to give testimony on the sacking of their respective towns before the American Commission on Ireland, which is to begin its sessions in Washington on Nov. 17. Mr. Derham represents his son, who is in jail.

The passports of Mr. Horgan and Mr. Derham have been visèd at the American Consulate. Therefore they can start for the United States immediately.

A Washington dispatch last Friday said the American Commission on Ireland had invited a number of persons in Ireland to appear and testify at its hearings. Those invited included the Lord Mayors of Cork, Belfast and London derry, the Chairman of the Urban Councils of Thurles and Mallow, the Town Commissioner of Balbriggan, and Mrs. MacCurtain, widow of Lord Mayor MacCurtain of Cork, who was assassinated.

9 HUNGER STRIKERS FAST FOR 90 DAYS

Those Left in Cork Jail Are Frequently Offered Suitable Food.

ALL DETERMINED TO DIE

Eight of the Nine Are Reported to Have Relatives in Chicago—Physicians Are Puzzled.

DUBLIN, Nov. 8 (Associated Press).—So far as the authorities here know, the nine hunger strikers in Cork Jail, who today began their ninetieth day of fasting, are taking no food, according to the Chairman of the Prisons Board. The Chairman said today that suitable food constantly was being offered to the men.

The latest reports from the prison doctors testify to the weakness of all the prisoners, and say that their condition is puzzling the authorities. The prisoners recently were visited by Father Fielding of Chicago. According to the Dublin newspapers, Father Fielding reported them as being determined and resigned to their fate. Eight of the nine men are said to have relatives in Chicago.

CORK, Nov. 8.—Reports from the Cork Jail today described the condition of the nine remaining Irish hunger strikers there as precarious. Although this was the ninetieth day of their strike, the emaciated prisoners were declared to be still determined to refuse food, as they have done since Aug. 11.

There were originally eleven of the Cork hunger strikers, but one of them, Michael Fitzgerald, died on Oct. 17, and another, Joseph Murphy, on Oct. 25, within a few hours of the death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork in Brixton Prison.

PANAMA, Nov. 8.—Memorial services for the late Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, were held here yesterday by the Friends of Irish Freedom.

SAYS SINN FEIN LEADERS ARE LEAVING IRELAND

They Are on the Run, London Authority Asserts—Lloyd George Has Tiff in Commons.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Premier Lloyd George, in the House of Commons, today refused to make an additional statement with reference to the demand for an inquiry into the Irish reprisals question, saying that the question already had been fully debated.

In answering further questions the Premier made what was understood to be a reference to the case of Mrs. Ellen Quinn, who, according to Sinn Fein reports, "was deliberately shot dead at Keltaran, County Galway, by English constabulary on Nov. 1 while holding in her arms a nine months' old baby." The Sinn Fein Publicity Bureau further claimed that Mrs. Quinn was pregnant.

Replying to Sir Donald MacLean Mr. Lloyd George said: "Under present conditions I am fully convinced that the men who are suffering in Ireland are men engaged in the murder conspiracy," and a member cried, "and women." Mr. Lloyd George replied: "The honorable gentleman knows perfectly well that that was an unfortunate accident and no decent person would suggest that the police would deliberately act so. It is one of those unfortunate accidents that always happen in war."

Honorable members— In war?

Lloyd George— In war. It is war on the other side. It is rebellion [cheers]. It happens in every conflict of this kind.

Recent optimistic statements by the Government as to the success of its policy in Ireland, and the alleged decline in political crime are arousing more confidence here. The greatest decrease during the last half of September and October was in seizures of mails, the weekly figure for which fell from 47 to 25, and in raids for arms, which fell from 76 to 6. The interpretation of these statistics given to THE NEW YORK TIMES by a man in close touch with the situation was:

"Too much stress has been laid on sensational incidents like the shooting of policemen and not enough on the gradual diminution of lesser crimes. I believe the revolutionary forces are being steadily depleted and there is a great falling away in the more faint hearted that leaves us face to face with the more desperate criminals and we ought not to be disheartened if they try to bring off more desperate crimes. They are really to be expected. Of course, it is quite likely as the net is drawn tighter around the criminals that their leaders will seek safety in flight, and as long as the ports of Belfast and Dublin are busy with a number of small coasting craft it ought not to be impossible for them to escape. As it is, we believe Michael Collins, adjutant general of Ireland, and finance minister of the Dail Eirann is on the run and has got away already.

"THE NEW YORK TIMES was also assured that before long certain court martial sentences would be promulgated which would show conclusively that the Government is holding officers responsible for the discipline of the forces under them and would not tolerate the slackness that made reprisals possible.

The District Attorney received a letter yesterday from a clerk in the office of William Eastman of Mineola, who was mentioned in Mrs. De Poy's letter as her attorney, stating that the lawyer was absent on a vacation and would not return for a week. Mr. Eastman had also been invited to call upon Mr. Ross. The District Attorney has taken no other action in the matter.

POILU TO BE BURIED UNDER PARIS ARCH

Plan to Lay the Unknown Soldier in Pantheon Is Abandoned.

RIOTOUS SCENE IN CHAMBER

Royalists and Socialists Cause Uproar Over Vote on Armistice Day Celebration.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—It is below the great vault of the Arc de Triomphe, on which are engraved the names of the generals and victories of Napoleon, that the body of an unknown French soldier is to be buried on Armistice Day, and not, as had been planned, in the Pantheon.

This decision was taken this morning at a Cabinet meeting over which President Millerand presided. At the same time the whole plan of Thursday's celebrations was altered. The procession escorting the heart of Gambetta and the body of the unknown hero is to start from the statue of the Lion of Belfort on the south side of the city and go first to the Pantheon. There the heart of Gambetta will be placed in the crypt and speeches will be delivered commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Third Republic.

The procession will then go by way of the Boulevard St. Germain and the Champs Elysees to the Arc de Triomphe, where, after the body of the unknown soldier has been buried, there will be a march past of troops.

Most elaborate preparations have been begun today for decorating the city. Paris is returning to the great days when her fetes were the wonder of the world; and the illuminations and decorations will surpass anything ever before attempted. The car on which the Heart of Gambetta will be carried is a magnificent work, on the making of which crippled soldiers have been mostly employed. It is more than twenty-five feet long and fifteen feet high. On the top is a glass-sided casket containing a lead case in which is the heart. The lower part of the car is ornamented with allegorical figures and the arms of the great cities of France.

The body of the soldier will be carried on a simple gun carriage.

All along the route elabdrate decorations are being prepared, and in the evening a torchlight procession of more than 6,000 men will march through the city. All the public buildings will be illuminated, and the Seine bridges are being outlined with thousands of lamps.

When the Chamber of Deputies opened in extraordinary session this afternoon the first question to be discussed was the decision of the Government to include in the celebrations of Armistice Day the burial of the unknown soldier. The motion for credits was made by Deputy Maurrisson, who was wounded in the war. Several others spoke in support of the motion and then M. Bracke, one of the most violent Socialists, mounted the tribune. In his first sentence he declared: "You are hiding the republic behind the body of a dead soldier."

The reference was to the attempt that had been made by the Royalist and anti-Republican parties in the Chamber and press to prevent the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Republic. They forced the change of the date from the real anniversary, Sept. 4, and the amalgamation of the celebration of the anniversary of the Republic with that of the victory.

When M. Bracke made his charge the uproar began.

"The only question is the glorification of a pollu," remonstrated the President, Raoul Peret, and from Right and Centre the tempest broke loose.

"He hasn't the right to speak of pollus," shouted Prince Murat, "for he never fought."

Another Deputy cried out:

"It wasn't his fault that France won the war!"

The tumult became so great that M Bracke was in the end compelled to descend.

The Socialists, however, took revenge when a Royalist Deputy mounted the tribune. They began their uproar and continued so long that the President was obliged to suspend the session.

When it was resumed Premier Leygues made an appeal for the solidarity of all parties. Only once was he interrupted, and that was by the Royalist Leon Daudet.

"We will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the Republic which restored the country," M. Leygues began.

"That isn't true!" shouted the turbulent Royalist; but for once he hadn't the sympathy of the Chamber. M. Leygues's appeal swayed the Chamber, and the necessary votes carried.

SOCIALISTS VICTORS IN MILAN ELECTIONS

But They Have Been Beaten in Florence, Genoa, Palermo and Pisa.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Nov. 8.—Far-reaching political significance of the municipal elections which were fought out stubbornly in seven of the largest Italian industrial centres Sunday can scarcely be overrated.

Here in Milan, where the menace to existing Socialist supremacy on the one hand and the bourgeois fear of Bolshevism on the other lent impetus to the wholly unprecedented struggle and attracted 76 per cent. of the voters to the polling stations, the Revolutionary Party scored a triumph over the Democratic bloc by about 3,000 votes. The bulk of the population, however, went to bed deluded by the early reports into believing that the Bolshevist ticket had been defeated.

The Catholic Popular Party abstained from the contest, while from the Socialist list all representatives of peaceful and progressive Socialist views, such as the Parliamentary Deputies Turati and Treves, were ruthlessly excluded. Today the street railway men, suspended service in celebration of the victory and the workers are deserting the great factories to organize a huge processional demonstration.

ROME, Nov. 8.—Municipal elections were held in all the important centres of Italy yesterday, with the exception of Rome, where the elections were decided the previous Sunday.

The definite results of yesterday's balloting have not yet been learned. In Milan, 120 districts gave the Socialists a small majority, but in 200 other districts the returns have not yet been counted. In Florence the Socialists were defeated. In Turin, Palermo and Naples the Constitutionalists apparently were victorious, while in Genoa and Pisa their success is considered certain. In Leghorn the Socialists were successful.

No disorders attended the elections.

GENOA, Nov. 8.—The Constitutionalists won a splendid victory in the municipal elections, having received 23,000 votes, as against 8,700 for the Socialists and 4,000 for the Catholics.

FLORENCE, Nov. 8.—Anti-Socialists celebrating the elections last night clashed with the Socialists. Two persons were killed and several others were wounded.

TURIN, Nov. 8.—Although the definite results of the election are not yet known, the indications are that the Socialist-Communist ticket will win with a majority of about 300.

PALERMO, Nov. 8.—The Socialists were completely defeated in the municipal elections.

Ambassadors Meet in Washington Today To Discuss the Controversy With Japan

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Baron Shidehara, the Japanese Ambassador to the United States, and Roland S. Morris, the American Ambassador to Japan, are to hold a conference at the State Department tomorrow in connection with the preliminary negotiations concerning the settlement of the various problems growing out of the alien land ownership situation in California.

After the conference Ambassador Morris, who has received sixty days' leave of absence, will go to Philadelphia, but it is not expected that he will return to Japan after the expiration of that leave, because so brief an interval will remain between the end of his vacation and the change of the National Administration in this country on March 4, 1921. It is also believed that his advice and aid will be requested further by the State Department in connection with the development of the treaty negotiations between Tokio and Washington.

State Department officials continue to be reticent relative to the status of these negotiations, but it is believed that they have proceeded to the point where tentative drafts of a proposed new treaty between Japan and the United States have been prepared.

Inquiries at the State Department today, however, elicited the statement that it would not be well to go "too far" in regard to the matter under negotiation. There are intimations that the tentative draft of the projected treaty contemplates an extension of rights and privileges of Americans in Japan, as well as defining the rights and privileges of Japanese nationals in the United States.

AMERICANS SEIZED AS TURK HOSTAGES

BLAME PUT ON BOLSHEVIKI

Their Advice and Advance Said to Have Instigated Mustapha Kemal's Attitude.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8.—The Turkish Nationalists are holding Colonel J. P. Coombs, Director of the American Commission for Relief in the Near East, at Samsoun and will not permit him to proceed into the interior on a tour of inspection or return to Constantinople.

It is reported that he and other Americans are held as hostages at the instance of the Bolsheviki at Angora.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha's attitude may result in the American Commission for Relief in the Near East abandoning its work. He has stated, despite the fact that work has been carried on among the Turks as well as Armenians, that most of the relief measures were for the Armenians, and that the commission were acting as political and military agents.

It is believed that the Bolshevist advance has much to do with Mustapha Kemal's stand.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—A report from Constantinople to the American Red Cross today stated that Emmet Kilpatrick, an agent of the Red Cross with the rank of Captain, operating with the South Russian Red Cross unit, had been captured by the Bolshevist forces operating against General Peter Wrangel.

Kilpatrick was employed overseas by the Red Cross last April, and was later sent to the Army of Russia unit. Red Cross headquarters here were unable further to identify Kilpatrick tonight.

STACK DEAD OUTDOORS ALL WINTER IN SIBERA

Escaped Austrians Tell of Huge Death Toll in Prison Camps There.

COPHENHAGEN, Nov. 8.—Lieutenant Fischer of the Austrian Army and eight comrades, who escaped from a Siberian prisoners' camp, arrived here today and declared that the prisoners in Siberia were dying by wholesale from starvation, tuberculosis, typhoid and other diseases.

As an example of the death rate the Austrians cited one camp of 5,000 prisoners, of whom, they said, 2,000 died in six months. Forty thousand died up to the end of 1919, and the number who had perished since then was unknown. Conditions were getting worse daily, they said, and certain camps were called "dead man's camp," because there were so many deaths.

Owing to the frozen ground, it was impossible to bury the dead during the Winter, according to the Austrians, and the naked bodies of the dead prisoners were stacked like logs outside the huts they had occupied, remaining there until Spring. During the Summer large graves were dug in advance for the doomed to death by starvation or illness during the Winter.

The Russians formerly gave the prisoners well-night uneatable bread. The prisoners now are getting houses, the Austrians declared, but must get food for themselves in districts where almost no food is to be found.

PASQUALE IS INDICTED FOR COUGHLIN MURDER

Grand Jury Returns Three Other True Bills Against the Baby's Kidnapper.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Nov. 8.—August Pasquale, known as the "crank," was indicted by the Grand Jury here today on the charge of killing Blakely Coughlin, thirteen months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Coughlin of this city, on June 20. The Grand Jury also found true bills of indictment charging kidnapping, burglary and extortion, there being two counts on the extortion bill.

Pasquale appeared in court with a smile on his face. When told by Judge Swartz of his right to challenge the list of Grand Jurors, he answered that he had no challenge. Only three witnesses, Mr. Coughlin, Captain Gerhart and another State policeman, were heard, and the jury was out less than an hour. The courtroom was crowded to the doors.

FOCH SEES FRANCE DEFEATED BY TREATY

Marshal Says His Advice Was Rejected and That Clemenceau Opposed Him.

THINKS RHINE BORDER VITAL

Haig Backed Him for Generalissimo, While His Own Premier Again Objected.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—Marshal Foch, in an interview in this morning's Matin, makes some trenchant criticisms of the Versailles Treaty; the manner in which it was arrived at; the slighting of his advice, for which he was insulted when he offered it; the opposition of Premier Clemenceau, and the Peace Council's failure to give France a Peace of Victory.

He also revealed that it was Field Marshal Haig who proposed unity of command and insisted that Foch be generalissimo, while Clemenceau opposed.

His interviewer asked him if it would not have been better if he had taken a larger part in the peace making. Foch then told how he had tried, but had been repulsed. He began by saying that he thought the Peace Treaty bad because it gave France neither the boundaries nor guarantees to which she was entitled. He said France should have had a military frontier on the Rhine. Reviewing his efforts at peace making Foch said:

"In April, I believe, I succeeded in being heard by the Council of Ministers. I had vainly sought to be heard by the French peace delegation. I was refused. I remember that Council meeting. I went with Tardieu and Cambon. I asked if the minutes were kept. I was told that was not customary. Then, as I had written my observations I handed a copy to each Minister. Then I spoke saying that without guarantees we had no security. M. Poincaré alone supported me. After that I was asked to retire.

"As we went out I said to Tardieu: 'Perhaps one day the High Court will try us, because France will never understand that out of a victory we gave bankruptcy. On that day I want my record to be clear.'

"I made one other attempt. That was at the plenary session on May 6, when the Treaty, which had been finished the night before, was handed to the Allied Powers. The Portuguese protested. Then I got up and presented my argument once more. They listened to me, but no one said a word. The meeting broke up.

Refused to Go to Versailles.

"As we were having tea in the next room I got hold of Clemenceau and said: 'I asked a question. I want an answer.' Then I saw him talk a moment earnestly with Wilson and Lloyd George. Then he came back and said: 'Our answer is that there is no answer.'

"I then said: 'I doubt if I ought to go to Versailles with you tomorrow to give this Treaty to the Germans. Mine is a case of conscience, the gravest I have ever known. I repudiate this Treaty. I do not wish by sitting beside you to share the responsibility for it.'

"He was angry and implored me to come. In the evening he sent Jean Dupuy, who, with real emotion, begged me to be present. I saw then that the Chiefs of the Allied armies should be present, and I consented to go.

"At Versailles I sat next to Klotz. When the Treaty had been handed over I said: 'With such a Treaty you will go stand at the bank window of the German Empire and you will be paid in monkey money.'

"And they were people whom I had told to make any sort of Treaty they chose and I would impose it!'

After discussing occasions where Clemenceau had differed with him on the conduct of the war, Foch said: "At Doullens there were Lord Milner, Field Marshal Haig, Poincaré, Clemenceau, Loucher and General Petain. I was not in good humor. I had learned that Petain was about to withdraw on Paris and Haig toward the sea. That left the way open to the Germans—and that meant defeat.

Haig Insisted on Unity of Command.

"Haig declared unity of command essential and it was proposed. Clemenceau said 'we could give to Foch the command of armies around Amiens.' Haig opposed this, saying that there was only one sensible solution, and that was to give me command of the Allied armies of the Western front. Clemenceau gave way and it was so decided.

"At lunch Clemenceau said: 'Well, you've got it like you want it.' At that I lost my patience. I replied: 'You give me a lost battle and ask me to win it. I accept, and you talk as though you give me a present. It required all my self-composure to accept under such conditions."

Fate of Russia's Scientists and Artists

Even in the worst period of storm and violence, says H. G. Wells, in the second article of the series on "Russia in the Shadows" in The New York Times next Sunday, Russia kept her dramatic and operatic life going. Singers and actors have fared well, but great men of literature, science and art were at first forgotten. Today a belated effort is being made to rescue them from misery and starvation.

GERMANS FORMING GIGANTIC TRUSTS

Prepare to Challenge the Whole World for Commercial and Industrial Supremacy.

GREAT GROUPS COMBINING

Iron, Coal and Electricity, Dye and Chemical and Other Concerns, Pooling Capital.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—German industry is busy marshaling itself into vast trusts. The fight between the industrial giants of this country is ending and one big chapter in German capitalistic enterprise is closed.

Last week on the economic soil, which at least seems marshy and uncertain, the biggest piece of trust-making ever known in Germany was carried out. This was an arrangement between the German Luxemburgian Coal and Iron Company and the Gelsenkirchener Mining Company, on the one hand, and Messrs. Siemens and Stalske, the Electricity Company of Nürnberg (formerly Messrs. Schuckert & Co., and Siemens, Schuckert & Co. on the other. The powerful Bochum Coal and Iron and Steel Association will undoubtedly be drawn into this trust, which will then have a capital of 621,000,000 marks.

The important point is this: The first two mentioned companies, which are in the Stinnes group with a joint capital of 260,000,000 marks, will bring coal, iron, copper, aluminium and all Herr Stinnes's ships to the great Siemens trio of companies, which form the second biggest concern in Germany and one of the biggest in the world for the manufacture of electrical machinery and commodities. Thus this vast trust will be absolutely self-supporting.

It controls, too, other smaller companies more or less completely, such as the Continental Electrical Undertakings Company. It will not be wrong to read into the formation of this trust Stinnes's thunderous reply to the demand for the socialization of industry.

Great Electrical Combination.

Where the great Siemens organization goes the still greater General Electricity Company, the biggest concern of its kind, must inevitably follow. Up to now it has been the General Electricity Company which has always led in ideas and enterprise, but that is not to say that it has been caught napping. It recently took serious stock of the new industrial situation. Its first step was to link up with Messrs. Felton & Guilleamue, large makers of half manufactured articles for machines of all kinds.

Then it opened up negotiations with the Upper Silesian Iron Industries Company, a very large concern, but though the General Electricity Company is sure of large supplies of coal it will have to make its position secure in this respect and on the Exchange there are rumors of parleys with the Good Hope Coal and Iron Company of Upper Silesia, one of the biggest enterprises in that region.

If these rumors materialize there is a prospect of yet another tremendous trust. The whole machine building world must follow the electrical industry. Indeed that is begun already. The Augsburg and Nürnberg Machine Factory, one of the biggest of the South German companies, with a capital of 100,000,000 marks and about to double it, has entered into negotiations with the Good Hope Company, which recently came to a trust-like arrangement with the big Esslingen Machinery Factory Company.

Thus two vast industrial groups are in touch with the Good Hope Company and it is not improbable that they will eventually link up. That would make a trust with a capital of several hundred million marks more than that first mentioned, the Stinnes-Siemens alliance.

Chemical Manure Plans.

That is not all. There is something even greater. Since 1912 two great firms, the Leuna and Oppau Ammoniak Works, have been in process of completion, with a view to supplying Germany's requirements in chemical manures. The war interfered with this, of course, but now the factories are almost complete. Germany needs 800,000 tons of chemical manures annually, and these two firms are already producing rather more than half that amount.

They have been relying on the financial support of the Baden Aniline and Soda Factory, and during the war the State gave them no less than 100,000,000 marks. It is now proposed to release the new works from such great financial dependence on the Baden trust by setting them up as a limited company with a capital of 500,000,000 marks.

The Baden concern itself is really a great trust, consisting of eight of the biggest dye and chemicals firms in the country. This trust has invested nearly 60,000,000 marks in the Leuna and Oppau Works that will enable them to go ahead in bringing their output up to an amount which will cover home requirements, a highly important matter for Germany's future economic prosperity, and to go on increasing the output so as to enter the foreign market, which they are confident of doing at an early date.

Their debt to the State will gradually be repaid and the Baden trust, which at the end of last year was reported to have had a turnover of more than 1,000,000,000 marks, will therefore be released very considerably from the task of financially supporting the Leuna and Oppau works.

This will enable the trust to bring much greater resources to the task of supplying foreign countries with dyes and chemicals, and it is planning a great campaign to this end. It will not, however, wholly give up its interest in the manufacture of chemical dyes, so that what is really a great dye, chemical and chemical manure trust will be the result. The Baden concern has opened up negotiations to establish chemical manure factories in Japan and North America. Other industries are following suit.

Another trust is to be formed between the wealthy Lothringer Iron and Coal Association, the Hasper Iron and Steel Works and the Kofigsborg Coal Mining Company. The first mentioned acquires the second for 91,000,000 marks in shares and cash and an interest in the trust arrangement, with the third guaranteeing it a minimum dividend of 20 per cent. and acquiring it wholly at the end of twenty-four years. To carry through these arrangements the Lothringer Company will increase its capital from 38,000,000 to 72,000,000 marks.

A great starch combine has been formed with a capital of 7,000,000 marks and it will control 90 per cent. of Germany's whole output.

The cigarette factory of Adramicos & Co. of Dusseldorf has bought up the Quell & Wittig Co. and is raising its capital from 2,000,000 to 8,500,000 marks.

Even the breweries are not behind. The big concerns of Schultheiss and Engiehardt are negotiating unions and the Leipzig brewery of Reibeck & Co., with a capital of 7,000 000 marks, has swallowed up the Brueckner Brewery in Erfurt, which has a capital of 2,000,000. These groups, it is rumored, may be linked up.

Such is the week's evidence of how German industry is forming in a phalanx to challenge the whole world to an industrial and trading battle.

Marlborough Divorce Case To be Heard in London Today

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Marlborough divorce case will be heard in the law courts tomorrow. Although the Duke of Marlborough did not defend the suit of the Duchess, who was Consuelo Vanderbilt, daughter of the late W. K. Vanderbilt, for the restoration of conjugal rights granted in March last, he is defending the divorce proceedings tomorrow.

Early in October the Duchess of Marlborough's petition appeared in the list of defended causes for hearing by the divorce court. Under the English law failure to comply with the decree for the restoration of conjugal rights constitutes desertion. The marriage of the couple took place in New York City in 1895.

REFUSE TO DISCLOSE ORDERS AT JUTLAND

British Admiralty Will Only Allow Publication of Orders Prior to the Battle.

STATEMENT BY PREMIER

Some of Jellicoe's Instructions Said to be "Still in Force" and Confidential in Nature.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The controversy over the Battle of Jutland, which has been going on for more than a year, was carried a stage further today but apparently is still far from settlement.

Some naval experts and a section of the press, headed by the Northcliffe papers, have been calling for the publication of all official reports of the great sea fight on the ground that the public was entitled to know whether or not Admiral Jellicoe, by too cautious tactics, failed to seize an opportunity within his grasp of completely smashing the German fleet. Only by full publication, it was held, could it be determined who was right—Beatty, who tried to bring about a general engagement, or Jellicoe who, according to the most enthusiastic of the Beatty partisans, was reluctant to put his battle fleet to the hazard of German submarine attacks.

For a long time the official spokesmen held to the views that it was undesirable to meet the demand for the publication of the official reports at this stage, and it was stated that all the necessary documents would be at the disposal of Sir Julian Corbet, the naval historian of the war. The Beattyites, and particularly the Northcliffeites, refused to be satisfied, and both in Parliament and the papers the subject was pressed until last week the Government announced that the official reports would be issued.

"But will the official reports include the battle orders?" asked Lord Curzon, the M. P. (not the Foreign Secretary of the same name), in the House of Commons. Lord Curzon had called attention to the battle orders were made public along with the other documents, it might be suspected that the Admiralty was trying "to play a new trick upon the public."

The matter came up in the Commons again today when Premier Lloyd George, answering Lord Curzon, said that the papers to be published on the battle of Jutland would include the full dispatches and all instructions between the Admiralty and the admiral in command prior to the battle. The battle orders, however, included detailed instructions and orders still in force and these being of a confidential nature it was not in the interest of the navy that they should be made public. The Prime Minister's further statement that "everything necessary for the studying of the battle of Jutland would be published" did not satisfy Lord Curzon and is still less likely to satisfy Lord Northcliffe.

"RAIN OF BLOOD" IN RIVIERA,

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—There was a "rain of blood" upon Monte Carlo and Mentone on Saturday night. The downpour began about 6 P. M., accompanied by a strong southeast wind, and when it ended an hour and a half later the roofs, roads, gardens and luxuriant shrubs of the Riviera were covered with sticky crimson.

The scientific explanation is that the rain clouds had been saturated with red sand from the Sahara Desert, but the superstitious inhabitants of the gambling metropolis shake their heads and prophesy new horrors for war-racked Europe. Curiously enough, Saturday was the eve of the anniversary of Lenin's red revolution in 1917.

The phenomenon noticed in the Riviera, although unusual in intensity there, is not unusual in Italy, particularly in the Autumn. It is called the "sirocco." It always comes from the southeast and has the appearance of a very dark thunderstorm, although no rain falls.

E. J. STEICHEN, ARTIST, NOW SUES HIS WIFE

Asks Return of Antiques Following Her Alienation Action Against Miss Beckett.

Edouard J. Steichen, well-known artist, filed a suit in the Supreme Court yesterday against his wife, Mrs. Clara Smith Steichen, to recover personal property which he alleges belongs to him but which he says his wife took into her possession wrongfully on Sept. 3, 1919. Shortly before that time Mrs. Steichen filed suit here against Miss Marion H. Beckett, daughter of the late Surrogate Charles C. Beckett, for $200,000 damages for alienating the affections of Mr. Steichen. In her answer Miss Beckett alleged that the artist became estranged from his wife because of her "disagreeable conduct" and that any affection he had for Miss Beckett "was wholly voluntary" and was not "encouraged" by her.

The artist alleges that his wife took from his home near Paris an early French antique table, worth $5,000; marble torso of a woman, worth $5,000; Egyptian bas-relief stone, valued at $1,500, an unfinished landscape of his own, worth $2,000, and other antique and porcelain objects. The total value of the property is alleged to be $35,000.

MANY HIGHWAYMEN GET PISTOL PERMITS

Mineola Magistrate Admits Issuing Them Blank—Passed on to Criminals, Police Say.

JUSTICE'S PRICE $2 EACH

But Crooks Paid as High as $50 Apiece—Record in Case Goes to Governor Smith.

MAGISTRATE'S PAPERS GONE

He Declares They Have Been Destroyed, and He Was Told Permits Were for Policemen.

Frank P. Seaman, Justice of the Peace in Mineola and Police Magistrate in North Hempstead, admitted in General Sessions yesterday that he had been issuing pistol permits wholesale, many of them in blank. Detectives testified that many of the blank permits had found their way into the hands of criminals.

The Justice of the Peace, who is 65 years old, admitted he had issued 200 permits since Jan. 1, 1920, when he assumed the Magistracy. The police said fully 500 had been written. Magistrate Seaman testified that he charged a fee of $2 for each license, but Alfred J. Talley, Chief Assistant District Attorney, said that by the time the blank permits got to highwaymen, burglars "and other crooks" the price was $50.

John Bright, described as a special officer for the Long Island Railroad Comapny, was named as the agent who procured the blank documents from the Justice. Last night detectives from the District Attorney's staff were seeking him.

Case to Go Before Governor.

When the facts came out, Judge William H. Wadhams instructed Mr. Talley to forward the case to Governor Smith. This will be done this morning. In addition, Mr. Talley will ask the Legislature in January to amend the Sullivan law to "correct this serious state of affairs." Mr. Talley also said he planned to put the matter before District Attorney Weeks of Nassau County.

Samuel Markewich, Assistant District Attorney, investigating disturbances in the recent furriers' strike, got the first hint of irregularities about a month ago. Then began a quest for "Seaman permits."

Justice Seaman appeared in General Sessions yesterday under subpoena. He was called to testify in the case of Harry Trone, alias "Harry Thaler," of 123 Madison Street. Trone had served three terms in State prison and was up for sentence for violation of the Sullivan law. After having pleaded guilty, he asked to withdraw the plea and produced a pistol permit, issued April 2, 1920, by Justice Seaman. This was on Oct. 29.

When the ex-convict produced his permit, Judge Wadhams and Theodore L. Waugh, Assistant District Attorney, who had the case then, noticed that Trone's name was in different colored ink from Seaman's signature and the date. Two detectives were detailed to investigate the "ablil."

The detectives reported that 500 similar permits had been issued by judicial officials in the county and that one issued by Magistrate Seaman had been in the possession of Fiore Grinaldi when arrested in Brooklyn last week charged with the murder of a policeman and butcher two years ago. This permit had been issued to a "Jacob Greenberg."

Armed with this material, Mr. Talley began questioning the Justice, who said he had been in the public service in Nassau for more than twelve years. He said he was a motor cycle policeman and that motorists arrested by the son frequently were brought before the father.

His permits, he testified, were marked "Good for New York State," and when Mr. Talley asked him why he had issued so many, the Magistrate said they were for persons who represented they "needed protection." He said he assumed the applicants were persons of good repute, although he hadn't known all of them personally.

Then came the evidence that permits had been distributed blank, and Seaman readily admitted it. He said Bright would come to his office and say he expected to hire additional policemen and that he wanted the permits for them. The Justice would turn over a sheaf of permits, signed by him, but with the licensee's name to be filled in, and then Bright would report back to him the persons whose names had been written in. Mr. Seaman said he Printcloths Head Gray Goods.

With the volume of business done of no great moment, printcloths were easily the most active sellers in the local gray goods market yesterday. In fact, transactions of importance in other quarters of the trade were lacking, from all accounts. The sales of printcloths that were made yesterday were for delivery during the current month, and they included 39½-inch 72-76s at 12⅞ cents; 35-inch 68-72s at 11⅞ cents; 39½-inch 64-60s at 9¼ cents, and 38½-inch 60-48s at 8 cents.

Retail Sales Must Be Pushed.

Just how the stores which insist upon averaging prices are faring under the present public insistence on lower values may be gauged from the statement of a men's wear retailer, who declared yesterday that even with goods priced at replacement cost there is difficulty in keeping sales up to the mark. "Two months ago," he said, "we inventoried our merchandise and marked prices at what the public would pay. We disregarded cost entirely. Our business is making headway, but it is hard pushing and we will be content to come out of the present period without profits as long as we can move our stocks."

Store Council Plans.

With the leading retail organizations authorized by their Directors to accept membership in the National Council of Retail Associations, a meeting will be held on Nov. 23 to complete the formation of this body. Very few changes have been made, it is said, in the original plan which was submitted to the various store associations, the only one of note being the present method of preserving entirely the individual character of the different groups. When the council is formally instituted it will take up all matters affecting the general interests of merchants throughout the country and serve as the mouthpiece through which the retailers will express their needs and desires.

"Russian" Hats Coming Strong.

Models showing a pronounced leaning toward Russian ideas, some of them developed in fur, are coming strong in the local millinery trade. Among the new effects which have appeared in the market is an unusual Cossack turban of duvetyn which has for a brim a cuff about two inches high. The top of the crown is peaked and made in sections. Another cuff is placed below the peak of the crown. For trimming, an ornament of rhinestones, shaped like an alligator, is placed across the front of the brim. In the trimming of another smart hat, flowers and fruit fashioned out of gray squirrel fur are used. These are combined with pointed leaves of gray felt to make a wreath about the crown.

Shirt Prices Lowered Further.

Only one of the leading shirt concerns has made a formal opening of Spring lines. Reductions approximating 30 per cent. were offered as an inducement for Spring purchases, enabling the sale of the low-priced line at $3.50 retail. Other concerns, it is said, have made no openings, but in place of them have agreed, in some instances, to accept lower prices for goods on order. Thus on one line the reduction has amounted to one-third the prices asked when orders were placed. Job lots continue to be offered in large quantities and offers of percales as low as $0.50 have been heard. These goods, though, are "job cut," making possible special economies in the use of material.

Small Stores Selling Silks.

Reports received by silk manufacturers from retail stores indicate that there is a fairly active consumption of goods. The small specialty shops which have sprung up to undertake the sale of dress goods and silks have been especially busy and principally, it is explained, because they are selling their merchandise at close margins. The amount of small store business, it is said, should awaken the large stores to the danger of such competition and induce them to mark merchandise at prices more in keeping with wholesale values. It is pointed out that competition with mill outlet stores is scarcely possible, but the huge buying power of the large stores ought to place them at an advantage with the ordinary small retailers.

Ready for Clothing Cuts.

Opinions vary in the local clothing trade concerning the amount of merchandise which will be made available at reduced prices when the guarantee on suit values comes to an end on Nov. 15. But while there is doubt about the quantities to be offered, there is no uncertainty regarding the drastic price cuts to be made. The market is ready for some stiff competition along price lines when the individual firms are once more in a position to revise their values. The opening gun has already been fired by a Rochester house, which has taken a mark-down of a third of its former quotations. It is understood that many of the concerns bound by the price guarantee have taken orders for shipment after the 15th at much lower than the prevailing rates. By Thanksgiving it is thought that there will be an unprecedented number of retail sales.

Will Keep Road Men Back.

Due to the continued unwillingness of retail buyers of dress goods to show interest in wholesalers' offerings for the coming Spring season, it is likely that salesmen employed by the latter will be given no chance to book advance business this year. It was learned yesterday that one of the biggest secondary distributers of dress goods in the local market would probably not send its men out until after the turn of the year, and then with instructions to take immediate delivery business only. A few salesmen employed by local jobbers are now on the road for Spring, but are said to be doing so poorly that they will shortly be called back. This has already been done in some cases. The demand for Fall dress fabrics for immediate delivery is lifeless, despite the fact that some of the larger houses are now offering the goods on the basis of Spring, 1921, buying costs.

Denim Prices Cut Sharply.

Quotations on indigo denims were revised downward very sharply here yesterday, when the Cone Export & Commission Company, the largest producer of the goods in the country, repriced its lines on the bases of 25 cents for 2.20-yard white back fabrics and 21½ cents for 2.40-yard double and twist cloths. The last previous prices made on these goods, which were announced last June and which covered deliveries during August, September and October, were 44 and 39 cents, respectively. The new prices will prevail only on denims sold for shipment during this month and December. All orders will be taken subject to acceptance by the mills, and only regular customers will be accommodated. Comment in the trade yesterday, after the announcement was made, was to the effect that the revisions would make it possible for overall manufacturers to turn out garments which could be retailed at $2 a pair.

JOBBERS DROP PRICES.

Offer Men's Clothing at 10 to 50 Per Cent. Decline.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Men's ready-made clothing is being offered to the trade by jobbers at 10 to 50 per cent. under present wholesale prices, according to delegates to the National Clothiers now in session here.

Goods for Spring and Summer delivery are being offered at prices 10 to 33 1-3 per cent. under last year's prices. Shirts, $45 a dozen at wholesale a few months ago, now sell at $16.50 a dozen. There are 2,000 suits offered at $16.50 each. These suits last year were $45 wholesale.

"The public is not buying, and manufacturers and dealers are overstocked," said W. L. Mohr, General Manager of the association. "The banks are closing in on the jobbers, who are forced to take big losses to move their stock."

PRICES OF COTTONS CUT.

Reductions Averaging 55 Per Cent. Made on Printed Goods.

What were said by experienced cotton goods men to be the sharpest reductions in prices for prints and percales on record were announced to the jobbing and cutting-up trades here yesterday by M. C. D. Borden & Sons and by the Algonquin Printing Company. The new quotations show declines averaging 55 per cent. from the figures which previously prevailed. Prices made on similar merchandise three weeks ago by Converse & Company, through whom the products of the Windsor Print Works are sold, were revised again to meet the reductions made by the other two houses mentioned. The Windsor fabrics, which were the first to be cut, showed original reductions averaging 50 per cent. At the offices of Lawrence & Company, through whom Pacific prints are sold, it was said that no revisions of the prices of these goods had yet been made.

The new prices made yesterday took effect at once. In no case were stock protection or price guarantees given the jobbers. The figures announced by the Borden firm are subject to change without notice, and the stipulation is also made that all orders are subject to "our acceptance or revision."

This is the way the new print prices contained in the Borden list compare with those which last prevailed on the goods:

Hebrew Schools Kommel Legatees.

The will of Aaron Kommel, knit goods dealer, who died Oct. 21 last, disposes of an estate of more than $200,000. He gave $150,000 to his five sons and four daughters and left the remainder to Hebrew charitable and religious organizations. The largest gift, of $3,000, went to the Machzikel Theological Seminary and $1,000 each was left to the Rashi Jacob Joseph School, the Uptown Talmud Thorah, the Talmud Thorah Synagogue and the Yeshivath Tiferis of Jerusalem. Eleven other organizations got $500 each.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Another Violent Break in Prices —Stocks and Foreign Exchange Down Again.

Pressure of urgent sales, accompanied doubtless by active speculative selling for the decline, broke prices again yesterday on all the great markets. The Stock Exchange presented a more unvarying picture of weakness than at any time since the after-election decline began, and net losses running from 2 to 5 points were very numerous. Exchange rates on the principal European markets fell to a new low level for the present Autumn, French exchange in particular going yesterday below the previous point of greatest depreciation since the war began, the 5.79 cents per franc of April 13.

This decline of yesterday of nearly ¼ cent per franc came with a fall of 4⅛ cents in the pound sterling, which is now 11 cents below the quotation of a week ago, and, simultaneously, rates on Italy, Holland, Spain, Norway, Denmark and some of the Central European markets reached lower figures than any hitherto quoted. Exchange on Germany declined with the rest, touching the lowest rate since January and nearly reaching the low record of the war period. No other inference can safely be drawn from such a movement as that of yesterday and the past week, except that many holders of drafts on these foreign markets are turning them into cash without regard to prices, exactly as hard-pressed holders of other quickly negotiable property are doing.

Markets for commodities were similarly upset. Cotton, after falling in the early hours of business below the bottom figure of Saturday, recovered on active purchases and closed slightly above last week's final price; but wheat broke again with great violence. It ended the day at a net decline of nearly 6 cents per bushel, and its lowest price of $1.82½ yesterday was 8½ cents under the low figure of $1.86 per bushel, reached in the break which accompanied resumption of future trading last Summer and which was followed by the recovery to $2.46.

Corn prices held firmer. The Government's estimate on the corn crop and on the surplus left on the farms Nov. 1 from the crop of 1919 was not made known until after the closing of the Chicago market. The figures of this farm reserve are somewhat remarkable; they show not only an increase of 72,300,000 bushels as compared with a year ago, but are actually the largest November "carry-over" in more than twenty years. But the cotton trade also had a showing of unexpected abundance of marketable stuff to make yesterday. With all the Night Rider campaign and gubernatorial manifesto to stop the turning of cotton into the shape in which it could be sold, the Census Bureau reports the ginnings between Oct. 18 and Nov. 1 as the largest of any corresponding period since the huge crop of 1914.

Such developments as these show that the fall in commodity prices has had other reasons even than tight money and the "consumers' strike," and there was little doubt that the continuing decline in staple prices was a paramount influence yesterday on the Stock Exchange. What that decline amounted to, even before last week's falling markets, was indicated by Bradstreet's compilation, published yesterday, of average commodity prices in this market on Nov. 1. The average shows a decline of 7 1-3 per cent. during October and of 24¾ per cent. from the February average, which was the highest of the year and of the war period. Bradstreet's states that these are the largest declines on its records for any single month and for any single year. They compare in an interesting way with the London Economist's "index-number" for Nov. 1, as published on Sunday in THE TIMES. That showed the very unusual declines of 5 2-3 per cent. in the English average of commodity prices during October and of 14 per cent. from the high point of the year.

On the stock market the industrial shares were the conspicuous points of weakness; their decline was exceedingly violent, indicating some closing out of accounts for exhausted margins. The railway shares were relatively steadier, and in some of them the day's declines were trifling, while Southern Pacific scored a considerable net advance. There were irregular partial recoveries throughout the market towards the close. Transactions reached the million share mark again, and call money rates again went to 10 per cent.

MONEY.

Monday, Nov. 8, 1920.

Money on call on the Stock Exchange on Monday opened at 9 per cent., remained at that rate until well in the afternoon when it got up to 10 per cent., where it ruled for the remainder of the day's trading. Renewals were made at 9 per cent. There was a firm tendency in time funds, particularly for 60 to 90 day accommodation, 8 per cent. being bid for mixed collateral, and 8¼ and 8½ per cent. on all industrials. It is not expected that there will be any Government withdrawals of deposits on Tuesday. Commercial paper, prime names, still rules at 8 per cent.

EXCHANGE RATES GO TO NEW LOW LEVEL

Scarcity of Credits Here Acts to Depress Quotations—Sterling at 3.32⅞.

The foreign exchanges persistently reached downward into lower levels than last week. Sterling sight drafts receded from 3.37, Saturday's final rate, to 3.32⅞, this quotation being the lowest since 3.31 was recorded on Feb. 7. The modest recovery to 3.31¼ occurred before the close. French and Belgian quotations established new low records at 5.7¢ cents and 6.10⅛ cents, respectively. Business was reported light, but the necessity of remitting funds direct from foreign centres, because of a paucity of credits here, caused the rates of several European countries to decline steadily.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Industrials Break Sharply.

Heavy liquidation marked the course of trading in the industrial stocks yesterday, the losses running as high as 6 and 7 points in some of the more active speculative mediums. The display was a continuation of that which cropped out a bit unexpectedly in Saturday's short session. From the opening yesterday the industrials continued to dip downward, the trading in this group amounting to more than 950,000 shares, with some large blocks of stock apparently being tossed overboard. The following table shows the final price for a number of the leading issues as compared with the high of last week and the high for the year:

	Yesterday's Final.	Last Week's High.	Year's High.
American Woolen	80½	77	105½
Atl., G. & W. I.	124¾	144	176½
Baldwin	107⅜	109¾	143¾
Beth Steel B	94	100¾	122¾

U. S. Steel	94⅜	98⅞	109
Vanadium	47⅛	54¾	97

*Before stock dividends.

At the final price yesterday United States Steel was only a fraction removed from the low for the year.

A Broad Market.

The trading of yesterday established a new record as to the total number of issues dealt in on the Exchange. For some time the high mark has been 348 issues, made on Oct. 5. Yesterday this was greatly exceeded, transactions being recorded in 389 issues. Furthermore, the turnover went well beyond the million share mark. The total number of shares was 1,192,683 or the largest that has been recorded since May 29, when the turnover was 1,253,382 shares.

Steel Tonnage Figures.

The unfilled tonnage figures of the United States Steel Corporation as of the close of last month will make their appearance today. Many are of the opinion that the forward business will not show as great a shrinkage as during September, but at all events the figures will be scanned eagerly in an endeavor to determine to just what extent new business has fallen off.

The Copper Industry.

Reports as to the operations of copper companies during October are beginning to make their appearance and, while there is no sharp shrinkage in production, the figures for the most part are as low as if not lower than any recorded this year. This would indicate that the sentiment among copper producers was to hold down production but that there was a reluctance to abruptly curb operations. Unless conditions change materially, November and December will probably be the lowest production months recorded in several years.

Traffic Decreasing on Railroads.

Students of railroad conditions have found food for thought in the reports of car loadings of important carriers in the last few weeks. These in many instances show that there has been a smaller volume of business than in the corresponding weeks of last year and in addition to being reported formally by some lines has been estimated by others which are heavy carriers of grain. Yesterday dispatches from the West stated that the total number of cars handled last week by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe amounted to 20,963 as compared with 21,698 cars handled in the corresponding week a year ago. It had been expected there would be a falling off in traffic on many lines but such a development was not looked for until after the grain crops had been hauled to market. Receipts of grain are reported to be on the increase, but it is apparent in some localities that the increases have not been as great as at this time in 1919, this making it appear that some producers are holding back their grain as they have from time to time threatened. How soon the decrease in traffic will end is something that railroad men are reluctant to guess about. Some say there will be slight improvement until after the turn of the year.

B. R. T. Off on Earning Report.

The decline in Brooklyn Rapid Transit certificates to 9 yesterday was attributable directly to the report of the company's earnings in the year ended with June 30, 1920. These were a disappointment to those who have not followed the company's affairs closely and sales yesterday, while in no great volume, apparently came from such sources. The increase reported in the deficit shown by the company did not make favorable stock market reading.

Shorts Nipped in Southern Pacific.

It was apparent a short time after the opening that the short interest in Southern Pacific shares—the bears found them profitable at the close of last week—had far over when resistance was encountered. This served to run the stock up several points from the low for the day and on heavy trading a fair part of the ground recovered was held to the closing. Some profit-taking occurred at the end, however, and there was a recession from the high. Notwithstanding this the shares closed with a net gain of more than 1 point from the last price on Sunday. Rumors regarding the disposition of the Southern Pacific oil holdings continued and received the consideration of traders, but the company maintained silence regarding its plans.

10 Per Cent. As Usual.

Call money did precisely what it has been doing most consistently for the last fortnight; it opened and renewed at 9 per cent., stood there most of the day and then rose to 10 per cent. just before the closing. The deficit reported in the actual bank statement on Saturday resulted in some loan calling yesterday—at least the Street said it did, and there were reports that some fairly considerable calling was going on. One factor which should help the market somewhat today, however, is that there will be no Government calling of deposits. But this does not mean that rates will come down any. Few persons look for any easing in rates for some weeks.

Canadian Financing.

Bankers believe that within the next few years a great mass of Canadian financing and refinancing will be offered to this market and that if arrangements can be made to receive it, a substantial forward step will have been taken. Within the next five years some $300,000,000 in Canadian securities of all kinds will mature. Some of this will mature here, but most of it will fall due in London, and the popular belief now entertained is that the Canadians will strive to meet these securities, practically in their entirety, in the American market. In addition to the maturities, there is expected to be about as much more new money needed, and this, too, will be sought here.

The Sentimental Short.

Going up in the Stock Exchange elevator yesterday was a broker who, patently, was not at peace with the world. "This market is terrible," he remarked to a friend. "It's down and going lower. It's awful." The friend was not so troubled. "Why don't you go short of something?" he inquired. "I am short of about everything," the broker answered, "but that does not help any. It's terrible just the same. I never could enjoy money made on the short side."

Rehabilitation.

The final evidences of the Sept. 16 bomb explosion have at last been removed from the interior of the Morgan & Co. Building. Over Sunday the scaffolding to the ceiling was removed and yesterday aside from the scars on the exterior of the building, the only thing which showed that anything ever had happened was the absence of some of the glass in the big dome in the middle of the banking room. The windows of J. P. Morgan & Co. like those of all other buildings in the vicinity of the explosion, long since were replaced.

SCRANTON WILKES-BARRE

PENNSYLVANIA NETS $7,568,416 IN MONTH

System's Railway Operating Revenues Rose $12,446,785, to $75,245,700.

The September earnings report of the Pennsylvania System to the Interstate Commerce Commission which reached Wall Street yesterday showed an increase in railway operating revenues of $12,446,785, to $75,245,700, as compared with September, 1919, while railway operating expenses increased $11,704,073, to $67,677,283. This left net from railway operations amounting to $7,568,416, which was $742,712 more than in September a year ago.

Railway tax accruals in the month increased $496,714, to $3,954,951, while net debit equipment rents increased $204,871, to $576,686 and net debit of joint facility rents amounted to $228,742, leaving net railway operating income of $4,406,040, which was $75,636 higher than in September, 1919. The percentage of return on property investment on an annual basis remained almost stationary, at 2.90.

The report of the Pennsylvania Railroad, on the other hand, showed September net railway operating income of $4,066,610, which was an increase over September, 1919, of $882,319. As the result of the increase in interstate freight and passenger rates which went into effect Sept. 1 railway operating revenues for the month increased $10,732,093 over those in the same period of last year, and railway operating expenses increased $9,410,415, allowing for an increase in net revenue from railway operation of $1,321,678. Percentage return on property investment on an annual basis was shown to have decreased .62, to 3.07 per cent.

The Long Island Railroad report for the month reflected plainly the action of the Public Service Commission, which has refused to increase intrastate rates to the level of interstate rates as announced by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Long Island depends for the bulk of its revenue on passenger traffic, and the railroads which operate in New York State have had to continue operations at the rates established by the Railroad Administration, pending a decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission as to whether the rates established by the State authorities are prejudicial or confiscatory.

With this situation existing the Long Island's report of an increase in net revenue from railway operations during the month of only $260,257 was not considered as surprising, and the fact that net railway operating income increased only $322,853 over September a year ago was considered natural. At the same time the fact that even under existing conditions the percentage of return on property investment in September, figured on an annual basis, advanced 3.07 per cent., to 6.67 was looked upon as favorable.

BUY YOUR FUTURE INCOME NOW

At present commodity price levels, many people are limiting their purchases to daily necessities, awaiting that time when costs will be lower.

On the other hand, securities are still cheap, and exceptional opportunities exist for the investor to purchase now a high income which he may carry into a period when interest rates will be lower, the market value of his securities higher, and the purchasing power of his dollars greater.

REPUBLICANS FIND TAX CUT IMPOSSIBLE

Admit Revenue Must Be Maintained to Meet War Obligations Due in 1923.

TALK OF A TAX ON SALES

Favor Repealing Levy on Excess Profits and Declare for Economy in Government.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Republican members of Congress now in Washington are agreed that there can be no reduction of taxation for two or three years. The Government, they say, must continue to collect about the same amount as at present until 1923 at least to meet $8,500,000,000 of its war obligations. There will be a change in the forms of taxation but no general reduction in the taxes, in the opinion of Representative A. D. Fess, Chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, and Representative L. T. McFadden, Chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee.

These two men, who speak for different elements in the country, have reached the conclusion that the excess profit taxes and other "obnoxious" taxes must be eliminated as quickly as possible in accordance with party pledges, but that the elimination of them will mean that other measures of taxation must be found to meet current expenses and outstanding obligations of the Government.

The Republican Party is committed by its platform to the abolishment of the excess profits taxes and the Democratic platform virtually declared, the same thing. President Wilson recommended to the last session of Congress that the excess profits taxes be dropped, and three Democratic Secretaries of the Treasury, McAdoo, Glass and Houston, have also urged it. So both parties are on record in favor of its repeal. With such an agreement it is believed that these taxes will be tackled first, although it is not probable that any tax or tariff revision legislation will be finally considered in the coming session of the Sixty-sixth Congress, which convenes on Dec. 6 and expires by constitutional limitation on March 4.

Fess Sees Only Economy Possible.

Representative Fess is anxious that the Republican Party should carefully consider taxation matters in the special session of Congress which President Harding is expected to call. His first disposition was for the appointment of a Tax Commission, but since thinking this proposal over he found that it had many disadvantages and he is now of the opinion that the House Ways and Means Committee should consider first the advisability of making a radical reduction in the number of Federal employes and eliminate duplications in Government bureaus. This can be done at once, he said, and after a saving of perhaps nearly $1,000,000 has been effected, then the committee will be in a position to say just how far the tax reduction can be carried.

"I am of the opinion that the excess profits tax can be repealed without substituting any other tax for it, so far as the current expenses of the Government are concerned," said Mr. Fess. "We can reduce the expense of government greatly, so that the excess profits tax will not be needed. But some new form of taxation will be required to meet the war obligations, and to take care of maturing Victory bonds in 1923, amounting to $5,000,000,000, and Treasury certificates amounting to about $3,000,000,000

"In order to get money to redeem the Victory Bonds and Treasury Certificates I favor a sales tax which shall be levied solely for this purpose and continue as long as necessary. I think the people would not object to such a tax for such a purpose. On the other hand there must be some simplification of the tax forms and other readjustments. But the people must see that there can be no general reduction of taxation until after 1923 because of the necessity to prepare for the redemption of bonds and Treasury Certificates. All that can be done by the Republican Party is to reduce the expenditures of government, and to that extent there can be a slight and gradual reduction in taxes.

Would Cut Federal Employes.

"But the first thing that must be done is to cut away the surplus and duplication in the Federal Government. Before the war there were 35,000 Federal employes in Washington. At the time the armistice was signed there were more than 100,000 and the reduction in two years has been less than 10,000. This can be done only by the co-operation of members of Congress and the practice of inducing departments to make transfers of employes by members of Congress must be stopped. I do not know just how far the reduction can take place. It seems to me that an efficiency commission should study the subject and report to Congress where the reduction can be made without injury to the public service. Certainly this cannot be done safely by Congress ordering a wholesale reduction of the force."

Representative Fess does not believe that taxation will be acted upon until in the special session. He is certain that the coming session of Congress will bring about a further reduction in expenditures.

There is a difference of opinion among Republicans as to how the economy program is to be carried into effect. Chairman McFadden of the Banking and Currency Committee is opposed to the imposition of a new tax in place of the profits taxes which, he, too, says should be repealed. Instead of redeeming the Victory bonds and Treasury certificates Mr. McFadden proposes that they shall be refunded into long term bonds. If this is done the banks will have sufficient money for commercial purposes as they will be relieved of the bonds and Treasury certificates they are now carrying.

His plan further contemplates the settlement of the controversy with foreign Governments as to the payment of deferred interest on the $10,000,000,000 borrowed from the United States. Mr. McFadden believes that foreign Governments should resume payment of interest at once and if these Governments cannot pay the prevailing rate of interest, it should be fixed at a rate they can pay.

If the United States Government should refund the Victory bonds and Treasury certificates, Mr. McFadden concluded, there would be no necessity for a sales tax in place of the excess profits taxes.

Inasmuch as it is apparent that the Republican leaders do not intend to do anything in the coming session of Congress looking toward a repeal or adjustment of taxes, it is believed that the committees dealing with taxation matters will follow pretty largely the suggestions that will come to them from business men. It was said today that the Ways and Means Committee will consult with the Economic Division of the American Bankers Association and the United Chambers of Commerce.

BANKERS OPPOSE TAX PLAN.

Say Entire Schedule Must Be Rebuilt to Raise Sufficient Revenue.

Bankers and business men of the financial district assorted yesterday that an effort to replace excess profits taxes with an increase of income taxes, as suggested in Washington dispatches, would be doomed to failure as a producer of Government income.

It was said that not only would an expansion of "super" taxes above present levels, which take $35,000 from an income of $100,000, $173,030 from an income of $300,000 and $703,030 from one of $1,000,000, tend to discourage business undertakings, but also that the proceeds of a great increase of such taxation would not begin to offset next year the fall of excess profits taxes because of the depression of industries now under way.

Men who commented on the tentative taxation program, both Republicans and Democrats, declared that sufficient Government revenue in the fiscal years ended June 30, 1921 and 1922, could be acquired only through a complete revision of tax schedules.

Bankers who were asked about the tax outlook declined to lend their names to the discussion, chiefly because no information was obtainable as to the way the Republican Congress would approach the matter. A consensus was found, however, favoring the imposition of consumption tax which, applied at the source of manufacture or distribution of goods, would spread the tax burden more evenly over the population than does the present law and would do away with the piling up of tax allowances on the prices of products as they passed from one hand to another on their way to the final consumer.

The impression prevails that the new Administration will make a determined effort to reduce Government expenditures, and that the movement will be undertaken coincident with discussion in Congress of a new tax law. However, few persons are found who dispute Secretary of the Treasury Houston's estimate of $4,000,000,000 necessary to run the Government in the current fiscal year. Interest on the public debt alone will require about $1,000,000,000 and, while economies are expected to be installed, the most optimistic observer of present Government activities hardly expects to see materia savings made in the first few months.

In regard to the proposal to abandon excess profits taxes and increase personal income tax rates, one banker said that the lawmakers probably would oppose the change. A movement to exempt corporations from shouldering a lot of the load, it was pointed out, would suggest discrimination of a sort decidedly unpopular with politicians. Furthermore, a law which would, in effect, permit preferential treatment for a corporation in one line of business while a partnership, or the members of a partnership, in the same line were being taxed heavily would have an unsettling effect on the business structure.

One argument against the likelihood of a sharp increase of individual income taxes was found in the existing state of business. In order for wealthy persons to pay over to the Government large percentages of their incomes, it was said, it would be necessary for the money to be earned, either through the personal effort of the taxpayer or by means of interest and dividends from corporations. With the trend of business activity distinctly downward, it was argued, the outlook for the next twelve months or longer is for a lessened return by corporations to holders of securities, especially stocks, and a shrinkage would depress the incomes upon which the Government would depend for a material part of its revenue.

JUDGE RAPS PALMER OVER COAL CRISIS

A. B. Anderson Criticises Order Limiting Evidence to be Submitted at Indianapolis.

SAYS IT IS NEAR CONTEMPT

"Personal Government," "Close to Compounding a Felony," Are His Remarks—Adjourned to Jan. 10.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 8.—Attorney General Palmer's orders limiting the Government's evidence to be used in the soft coal conspiracy cases against 126 operators and miners in Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania, were criticised by Federal Judge Anderson in the United States District Court here today as being "strangely close to the compounding of a felony" and also "dangerously near contempt of court."

Trial of the cases was scheduled to begin today, but Government counsel said it was not ready to proceed. Before granting the continuance asked by the Government counsel, Judge Anderson undertook an investigation of the Attorney General's orders regarding the cases, ending with his criticism of Mr. Palmer's conduct.

The court set next Jan. 10 as the date for calling the trials again, announcing that the interim "will give us time to get our bearings and at least find out whether we are to govern by law or by person." Once before the Judge had declared that Mr. Palmer's attitude in the cases was that of "personal government, not government by law."

The Attorney-General was not present at the investigation, but C. B. Ames, former chief assistant to Mr. Palmer, explained that Mr. Palmer's orders had been misunderstood by Government counsel, who, testifying at the investigation, said the orders possibly nullified the prosecution.

Judge Anderson's statement regarding Mr. Palmer's conduct came after hearing most of the testimony, the Court leading up to his assertion with a series of questions as to whether the Attorney General had authority to agree not to use certain evidence.

"It is strangely near to the compounding of a felony," said Judge Anderson in this connection. "I am not saying it is. I am saying it is strangely near it."

Similarly, the Judge discussed the elements constituting contempt of court, his purpose being, he said, to "see how dangerously near this gentleman has got himself to a contempt of this Court. The arm of this Court is long," continued Judge Anderson in this connection, "and has been known to reach further than Washington. I am not suggesting what may or may not be done. Mr. Palmer is the Attorney General, and there is a certain amount of consideration I am bound to pay to his official position if I do not pay it to him, himself."

To Reopen Conspiracy Cases.

After making these remarks Judge Anderson called on District Attorney Van Nuys to produce messages exchanged with the Department of Justice about reopening the conspiracy cases, with the view of reporting further Grand Jury indictments, increasing the list of defendants. One message, bearing the name of Assistant Attorney General Mitchell, said the "Attorney General has instructed me to request that before seeking indictments you should consult with and lay the facts before this department." Interpreting this message, Judge Anderson said its effect was "that this Court cannot proceed unless the Attorney General sees fit to advise.

"I am going to have it done," the Judge added, his remark apparently meaning that the Grand Jury soon to convene will reopen investigation of the conspiracy cases.

In opening the investigation, Dan W. Simms of Lafayette, Ind., said he resigned as special prosecutor in the cases because, he said, the Attorney General's orders would prevent use of evidence that was the basis of the Government's injunction case last year against the coal strike and the later contempt proceedings for alleged violation of the Court's order directing cancellation of the strike order. Similar testimony was given by L. Ert Slack, another special prosecutor, and by District Attorney Van Nuys.

Mr. Ames, however, said that Mr. Palmer interpreted his orders to mean only the elimination of evidence that was the basis of the contempt proceedings and pointed out that these proceedings were begun at a date later than that covered by the alleged conspiracy. Mr. Ames also said that the Attorney General had the right to elect whether the Government would prosecute its cases as civil or criminal matters and that having chosen a civil proceeding in the strike, Mr. Palmer did not believe it fair to proceed criminally after having obtained the miners' compliance with the Court order. Mr. Ames also said that the Department had co-operated wholeheartedly in the prosecution and had not interfered in any way with the action of the Government's special counsel in the present conspiracy cases.

Testimony also was given during the hearing that no agreement to limit the Government's evidence had been made in Judge Anderson's presence. In this connection, the Judge presented statements attributed to Mr. Palmer, saying such understanding had been made last December.

Questions Palmer's Authority.

In starting an investigation of the Attorney General's orders, Judge Anderson declared that his purpose was to "find out whether the Attorney General can hamstring a case in this court." The Court also questioned whether Mr. Palmer had any legal authority to order the elimination of any evidence which the Government counsel might desire to use.

Dan W. Simms of Lafayette, Ind., who resigned as chief prosecutor of the cases, said in court that his resignation was due to Mr. Palmer's orders. He produced a letter from Mr. Palmer, which said that the coal cases were "to be based upon acts occurring before or subsequent to the injunction or contempt proceedings, and is not to be based upon the facts which led to those proceedings," which were a part of the Government's fight last year to break the soft coal strike.

Mr. Palmer's letter added that his instructions were "in accordance with our understanding at the time," but Mr. Simms declared that no agreement of any sort relating to suppression of the evidence had been made by him or other attorneys for the Government.

"Were you confronted with the suggestion that the Department of Justice was not in sympathy with this prosecution?" Mr. Simms was asked, testifying about removal proceedings in other States.

"We were," he answered.

"Was that repeated?"

"Very many times," said Mr. Simms, but the source of these suggestions was not brought out.

Asked why the Attorney General did not want evidence that was the basis for the contempt proceedings used in the present cases, Mr. Ames said that this was because the miners submitted to Judge Anderson's order directing cancellation of the strike order last year. This was challenged by Judge Anderson, who asserted that the miners "flouted" his order, but submitted to negotiations with Mr. Palmer.

"Here are two armies," continued the Judge, referring to the cases. "The general of one agrees to hold back his strongest divisions. Can he do it? He may, but he would be court-martialed if he did."

Just before the investigation adjourned to be renewed later in the day, Judge Anderson declared: "I am going to find out if this Government centres in a few individuals in Washington," and he added that he also would learn whether he was "a puppet to be controlled by strings pulled from Washington."

Palmer Declines to Comment.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Attorney General Palmer declined tonight to comment on statements of Federal Judge Anderson at Indianapolis today with respect to the Court's inquiry into the Attorney General's connection with the soft coal conspiracy cases.

Department of Justice officials said, however, it had been expected that C. B. Ames, who went to Indianapolis as the department's representative, would read "into the court record all of the instructions in question." Whether the Court had been advised of this plan was unknown at the department, but pending developments in the controversy officials were silent.

The statement was reiterated at the Attorney General's office that the only instructions sent by Mr. Palmer were those obtained in a letter to Dan W. Simms, which resulted in his resignation. This letter has since been made public.

Defendants Lose Case Against Removal.

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 8.—Defendants in the coal conspiracy cases in the United States Court at Indianapolis today lost their case in the Federal Court here in which they sought to enjoin officers of the Government from removing and prosecuting them at Indianapolis on the ground that Section 9 of the Lever act was unconstitutional.

Judge Louis Fitzhenry filed his opinion in the case of the Hillsboro Coal Company, where Rice Miller and Herman C. Perry, two of the Indianapolis defendants, are affected, holding that Section 9 of the act is constitutional and valid and that the Attorney General and District Attorneys are acting within their powers. He also holds that this statute is aimed at all conspiracies to enhance the price of coal within or without the coal industry. The cases were argued in Springfield a few weeks ago.

The decision affects twelve cases in Chicago, about the same number in St. Louis and several other cases pending in other parts of the Central Competitive Field. Attorneys on both sides had entered into a stipulation that the outcome of the case decided today should control in the other cases.

HOLDS DUTY TO SPEED WORK.

Ruling That Labor Must Do This Even if It Cuts Employment.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—Judge Jacob Moses, impartial Chairman for the settlement of disputes between the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the manufacturers, today gave a decision which is expected to have a far-reaching effect on the clothing industry. It recognizes the obligation upon the worker to co-operate with the manufacturer in efforts to increase production, even when such co-operation means fewer days of employment in the week for the workers.

The particular case before Judge Moses was the right of the Columbia Tailoring Company, which employs eleven cutters, to assign certain of these men to do nothing but cut. Formerly they marked the cloth and then cut it.

The workers objected to the change. They maintained that the house, which at present gives them employment for only three days and a half a week because its orders do not warrant more, will now be able to do the same work in two and a half days.

ARREST 157 AS GAMBLERS.

Many New York Men Taken in Raid on Bayonne Restaurant.

BAYONNE, N. J., Nov. 8.—Bayonne Park Restaurant, at Boulevard and Fifty-first Street, was raided this afternoon by detectives under Acting Chief of Police Daniel Dady, and 157 men, most of them New Yorkers, were arrested as common gamblers. Racing charts and other gambling paraphernalia were confiscated and Charles B. Roche of 1,890 Boulevard and Noval Blauvelt of 10 West Forty-first Street, were arrested, charged with keeping and maintaining a gambling house.

No opposition was offered to the police when they entered the place. The men, the police say, were sitting in the main dining hall listening to returns from racetracks as they were received over four telephones. In an adjoining room a game of "Klondike" was being played, the detectives say.

FASTER TIME TO THE PACIFIC

3 Hours and 40 Minutes Cut from Chicago-San Francisco Trip.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Fast train service between Chicago and California will be restored next Sunday, when three hours and forty minutes will be cut from the running time of the Overland Limited, making the new time between Chicago and San Francisco 61 hours and 10 minutes. The train will reach the coast city at 1:30 P. M., instead of 5:10, as at present.

Other changes were announced by the Chicago and Northwestern, the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific lines today. They include the restoration of the Oregon-Washington Limited to Portland, Oregon, and Puget Sound towns with 72-hour service to Portland, and the addition of a new Continental Limited to Portland.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Blair & Co., Inc., managers of a syndicate which yesterday offered $4,430,000, ten year, 7 per cent. convertible debentures of the Galena Signal Oil Company, which are due April 1, 1930, announced that the issue had been heavily oversubscribed. Galena Signal Oil was one of the Standard Oil subsidiaries prior to the dissolution of the company in 1911.

H. M. Bylesby & Co. and the Federal Securities Corporation of Chicago are offering $1,400,000 first and refunding mortgage 7½ per cent. sinking fund bonds, due 1951, of the Arkansas Valley Railway Light and Power Company of Colorado, which does an extensive electric light and power business in Pueblo and the South Central part of Colorado.

John Bauer, an authority on economics and finance, announces the opening of offices at 63 Wall Street, where he will act as a consultant on financial, accounting and tax matters.

Howard B. Phillips, formerly of J. U. Kirk & Co., is now associated with Otis & Co. in their bond trading department.

JOIN SUB-TREASURY TO RESERVE BANK

Latter Institution Will Take Over Former's Duties About Jan. 1.

SAY VOGEL WILL RESIGN

Inventory of Gold, Silver and Currency in His Charge to be Made at Once.

The United States Sub-Treasury, at Nassau and Wall Streets, will close as a Sub-Treasury but will reopen again as an adjunct of the New York Federal Reserve Bank about the first of the year. By that time all of the functions of the Sub-Treasury will have passed to the Reserve Bank and, pending the erection of the latter's own building, some of its force will occupy the structure which faces on Wall Street and runs through to Pine Street.

Most of the employes of the Sub-Treasury also will be transferred to the Federal Reserve Bank. The few who do not become associated with that institution will remain on the payroll of the Treasury Department. There will be none to lose employment. Martin Vogel, assistant Treasurer of the United States in charge of the local Sub-Treasury, said yesterday that these arrangements have been completed.

Mr. Vogel, in all probability, will resign his present position around the first of the year. Before he can relinquish his office, however, it will be necessary to take a complete inventory of all gold, silver, currency and securities in his charge. This, it is expected, will take five or six weeks. Most of the gold and silver will be removed to the vaults of the Assay Office, which adjoins the Sub-Treasury on the east. There is something more than $1,000,000,000 in precious metals in the two buildings at the present time.

In addition to the gold and silver, several hundreds of millions in currency also is stored in the Sub-Treasury and then there are other hundreds of millions in securities, the latter, in most cases representing collateral pledged with the Government by the railroads of the country to secure funds advanced to them by the Treasury Department. The exact amount of this collateral has not been stated but it is said to run into very large figures and all of it will have to be counted and examined before the Sub-Treasury ceases to exist. At the present time gold is being moved into the Assay Office at the rate of approximately $20,000,000 a day.

$1,500 FOR CALIFORNIA BOOK

"Manifesto a la Republica Mexicana" Bought by Dr. Rosenbad.

Books relating to California, Oregon and the west coast, mainly from the collection of Boutwell Dunlap, historian of San Francisco, were sold at the Anderson Galleries yesterday. Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach paid $1,500 for "Manifesto a la Republica Mexicana," by José Figueroa, Monterey, 1825. Only two other copies are known to be in existence, one in the Bancroft library and the other in the California State Library.

It was the second book printed on the first printing press in California. The press was brought from Mexico by José Figueroa in 1833. He was Governor of California from 1833 to 1835. The book was the personal copy belonging to Juan B. Alvarado, Revolutionary Governor of California from 1836 to 1837. It is a defense of Figueroa's administration.

Dr. Rosenthal also gave $250 for the only English translation of this "Manifesto," published at San Francisco in 1835. He paid $200 for the "History of the Vigilance Committee of San Francisco," published in 1858, and the only known copy extant, the one in the San Francisco Mercantile Library being destroyed in the fire of 1906.

The session brought $4,704. The sale will be concluded today.

BURGLARS ROB TAX OFFICE.

Burglary in the office of Anthony Moore, receiver of taxes, in the Municipal Building, Long Island City, was discovered yesterday. A safe had been opened, its cash door smashed and $411 taken from bags in which the various cashiers kept their petty cash. Only bills were taken and one of the bags remained untouched, as also did an envelope containing $75.

Observations of a rule of the tax office, requiring daily deposit of receipts, probably prevented the loss of nearly $200,000 taken in on Saturday. This money had been sent to the Corn Exchange Bank.

The burglary was discovered by Frank H. Woodruff, one of the cashiers, when he opened the safe. Nothing was wrong with the combination, but when Woodruff opened the door he found the cash box smashed and a towel, which had been used to deaden the sound of the blows, on the safe floor.

No clue to the burglars has been obtained.

DENY OPERA RESPONSIBILITY

Allen & Fabiani Say They Acted Only as Agents for Others.

Allen & Fabiani, 101 West Forty-first Street, yesterday denied that the firm was responsible for the non-refunding of money paid by patrons of the New York Opera Association to hear "Aida," which was called off at the Lexington Theatre last Friday night.

"Allen & Fabiani beg to state that they are in no way owners of or financially interested in the New York Opera Association," the statement said. "They furnished the principal artists for the organization and gave free use of their offices to help the project along. The announcement that they would refund ticket money was made entirely without consulting the firm of Allen & Fabiani, and no one had any authority whatever to issue such a statement. Allen & Fabiani are agents for six opera companies and represent them in that capacity but they are not financially responsible for any at this time."

BRAZILIAN FIRMS PROTEST.

Seek Indemnity for d'Annunzio's Seizure of Cogne's Cargo.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 7.—Eight important firms of this city have protested to the Foreign Minister against the recent seizure at Fiume by Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio of the steamer Cogne, which carried a cargo consigned to Brazil. The Government is asked to make representations at Rome and to obtain indemnity for the goods seized when the ship was taken over by the d'Annunzian forces.

Swift Concern Sells Bond Issue.

The National Leather Company, a subsidiary of Swift & Co., has sold an issue of $10,000,000 five-year 8 per cent. bonds to a syndicate headed by The Illinois Trust and Savings Bank and The Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, and Lee, Higginson & Co. The proceeds of the loan will be used to provide additional working capital. A public offering of the bonds is expected soon.

LARGE GINNING OF COTTON.

Total for Last Half of October Largest Since 1914.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Cotton ginned prior to Nov. 1 amounted to 7,471,353 running bales, counting round as half bales, which numbered 160,748 and including 33,428 bales of American-Egyptian and 562 bales of Sea Island. Ginnings last year prior to Nov. 1 were 6,305,054 running bales, including 70,423 round bales, 14,080 bales of American-Egyptian and 3,203 bales of Sea Island. Ginning by States:

Alabama, 411,404; Arizona, 30,014; Arkansas, 519,439; California, 19,162; Florida, 10,707; Georgia, 994,954; Louisiana, 370,198; Mississippi, 478,942; Missouri, 36,762; North Carolina, 455,167; Oklahoma, 470,058; South Carolina, 853,715; Tennessee, 114,347; Texas, 2,905,718; Virginia, 3,088; all other States, 2,684.

The above report shows that 1,759,295 bales of the present crop passed through the ginneries between Oct. 15, the date of the last report, and Nov. 1. This compares with 1,375,950 bales for the corresponding period of 1919, with 965,804 in 1918, and is the largest amount ginned in that period since the great crop of 1914, when 2,107,000 bales were ginned between Oct. 18 and Nov. 1. Ginning in recent years has compared as follows:

	1920. Bales.	1919. Bales.	1918. Bales.
To Sept. 1	367,000	142,000	1,038,000

To Oct. 18	5,713,000	4,929,000	6,811,000
To Nov. 1	7,741,000	6,305,000	7,777,000

COMMODITY PRICES DROP.

Bradstreet Shows Average on Nov. 1 to Have Been $15.6750.

Bradstreet's average of prices for a selected number of representative American staple commodities, was given out last night. It shows the average on Nov. 1 to have been $15.6750, as compared with $16.9094 on Oct. 1, with $19.9026 on Nov. 1, 1919, and with a high level for the present year of $20.8690 on Feb. 1, when the highest average of the entire war period was reached by the Bradstreet computations.

The decline amounts nearly to 7¼ per cent. for October, and to 24¾ per cent. from last February. Both declines are greater than any others on Bradstreet's record for any equivalent periods. The greatest declines of October were in textiles and hides and leather, but the fall was general, fifty-eight products closing at a loss.

Nov. 1, '20	$15.6750	Nov. 1, '19	$19.9026
Oct. 1, '20	16.9094	Nov. 1, '18	18.8885

DUTCH BUY OUR STOCKS.

Even Farmers Investing Here, While Local Municipal Loans Fail.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 8.—"Inflated dollar quotations" here are still worrying the business world considerably. There is much controversy in the press as to the reason for the sudden depreciation of the guilder, which has held its own so long in the money market.

It is naturally assumed that the chief reason is the large importations, especially of coal, from America, but the fact that big capitalists are sending enormous sums to America and steadily buying scores of millions of dollars is not discussed. The Dutch feel that America is the one place safe from Bolshevism and other social disturbances, and are investing largely in American securities. Even the small farmers, who grew wealthy during the war, favor those securities. Bankers in small provincial towns say that they invest millions of dollars monthly, whereas only 20 per cent. of the Amsterdam municipal loan has been subscribed.

RESTRAINS COCA COLA CO.

Delaware Court Grants Temporary Injunction to Bottling Company.

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 8.—Denial of a motion of the defendant to dismiss the bill of complaint and granting of a decree for a preliminary injunction asked for by the complainant are involved in an opinion handed down here today by Federal Judge Hugh M. Morris in the case of the Coca Cola Bottling Company vs. the Coca Cola Company which was heard last July in the Federal District Court.

The question of law raised is whether the contract made under the conditions involved is a continuing contract. The decision sustains this point of view.

The preliminary injunction asked for by the Coca Cola Bottling Company was "to enjoin and restrain the defendant from infringing the property rights in good will and trade mark granted by the contract," and the opinion holds that, as "it may tend to bring about a result fair and just to all parties, it is allowed, leaving consideration of whether the complainant is entitled to a decree, absolute or in terms, to final hearing."

SHORT COVERING AN AID IN COTTON RISE

Bulge of 20 to 30 Points Reflects No Sure Betterment in Market.

Although the cotton market yesterday turned reasonably firm after its early dip and maintained the higher levels reached on the advance to the close, which was 20 to 30 points net advance for the months up to March, and about unchanged on the later months, there was no change for the better in the fundamentals of the cotton situation. On the contrary, if there were any change at all it probably was for the worse, for trade news showed a more troubled condition in some quarters and certainly no improvement anywhere.

The rise here, such as it was, was simply a case of an oversold technical condition asserting itself. Traders who had stayed short over Sunday were satisfied to take profits on the low opening figures, which were down even below the Saturday low levels. This buying, and a temporary absence of offerings, allowed prices to rise, but there was nothing impressive in the rise and nothing to indicate that it presages any lasting advance or betterment.

Southern spot markets, as was to be expected, sent in a lower scale from that obtaining at the close of last week. Galveston, Norfolk, Augusta, Little Rock and Montgomery were added to the list of markets under 20 cents and Dallas fell under 19 cents. Sales were light and the markets were said to be quiet and steady, but the fall in prices hardly tended to reassure.

Liverpool also was down on the day, starting below Friday's closing and then losing additional ground. Spots there were of 41 points to 15.14d. Manchester reported dull and easier yarn and cloth markets.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Day
Dec.	18.65	19.50	18.55	19.47@19.50	19.18
Jan.	18.45	19.08	18.35	19.03@19.02	18.65
Mch.	18.35	18.80	18.20	18.68@18.78	18.48
May	18.10	18.65	18.04	18.48	18.42
July	18.00	18.32	17.75	18.19	18.20
Sept.	18.00	18.00	17.85	17.90	18.00

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, up 20 points to 20.45c for middling upland; sales nil.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 19.50c; New Orleans, 18.25c; Savannah, 20c; Augusta, 19.13c; Memphis, 20c; Houston, 19c; Little Rock, 19.40c.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

	Yesterday.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Exports	53,226	48,527	21,807

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton was in moderate demand at 15.14d. Sales, 5,000 bales of which American 4,000. Imports, 23,000 bales of which American 15,000. Futures opened easy 21 to 42 points down and closed quiet, 45 to 57 points down from Friday. Prices, Dec. 14.23d, Mch. 13.55d, May 13.70d, July 13.52d. Manchester: Yarns and cloths were dull and easier.

Stimulating Trade

BROOKLYN today handles over fifty per cent. of the foreign trade which passes through the Port of Greater New York.

This trade must have a Banking service, and Brooklyn Banks, because of their ample facilities and greater convenience, should serve this need.

The Nassau National Bank is Brooklyn's largest National Bank, a commercial Bank, and was established in Brooklyn over 60 years ago. One of its primary interests is and has always been the encouragement of Brooklyn Trade and Brooklyn Commerce.

"Ask the man who banks here."

NASSAU NATIONAL BANK OF BROOKLYN

What a Big Detroit Bank Thinks of Credit Insurance—

A well-known bank of Detroit, Mich., has just written the American Credit-Indemnity Co. as follows:

"In our judgment, the matter of insuring open credits by business men has been a subject of growing importance for some years, and particularly at this time when there are so many problems confronting the country, the solution of which is difficult.

"The more conservative houses are taking every precaution to keep their affairs in a liquid shape, and the conditions under which the better grade of credit insurance policies are written, we believe constitute a contingent asset to any business man, the advantages of which should not be overlooked."

Bankers appreciate that it takes more skill to do business successfully when prices are falling, as now, than when prices were increasing. And they therefore endorse precautions that prevent, else pay, bad debt losses beyond the normal, which the American's "Unlimited-Interim-Payment" Policy does.

Manufacturers and wholesalers, write or phone for particulars.

WHEN COMMODITY PRICES FALL FAILURES INCREASE

THAT has been the law of business ever since records have been kept. We'll gladly show you R. G. Dun & Co's. diagram to prove it.

Commodity prices are already on the down grade and Dun's reports show an average of about 50% more failures than last year.

When there is fire all around you it is high time to insure. And business conditions right now make your debtor accounts much more unsafe than a year ago.

Insure these accounts with a "LONDON" Credit Insurance Policy. Then your worries are over. You're always positive you'll get the amount due you within forty-five days. That's better than after regrets, and a hope the collection agency can perform miracles.

Ask us before any debtor fails. Asking won't obligate you.

Industry is International

Products from many countries frequently enter, directly or indirectly, into the manufacture of articles of common use.

To bring together these widely scattered materials of industry and to combine them into merchandise require many transactions that are possible only through a world-wide system of banking service.

The great resources of the National Bank of Commerce in New York are employed to facilitate national and international commerce and industry.

New York Company Plans to Spend $33,600,000 Next Year in Catching Up.

TELL OF INCREASED COSTS

Witnesses Present Figures to Public Service Commission in Plea for Higher Rates.

The New York Telephone Company desires to spend $33,600,000 in this city next year in catching up with the demand for service, according to G. W. Whittemore, valuation engineer of the company, who testified yesterday before the Public Service Commission of the Second District in the Hall of Records on the application of the company for an increase in rates.

The company expects to increase the number of telephones in this city from the 370,000 now in use to 985,000 by the end of next year, provided increased rates enable it to finance this expansion. An increase to 985,000 might not meet the public demand for telephones, according to Mr. Whittemore, who said it was calculated that 1,000,000 telephones or more would be needed to meet all requests for service by the end of 1921. The waiting list is now 104,000.

Telling of the great increase in costs involved in adding to the plant, because of the high price of materials and labor and the growing complexity and difficulty of the business attendant on each addition to service, the valuation engineer said that in the present year it had cost the company $520 for each new telephone installed. He added that this was an abnormal figure, which would be reduced under the company's comprehensive plan for development.

To Spend $48,600,000.

The expenditure of $33,600,000 on increases in plant in the city is to be a part of $48,600,000 to be spent next year on the entire system of the New York Telephone Company. The total capital investment for 1920 and 1921 would thus be more than $60,000,000, he said.

The 1921 program includes $300,000 for land; $6,900,000 for new buildings and extensions; $12,900,000 for central office equipment; $7,000,000 for outside plant, such as underground and aerial cables, and $6,500,000 for sub-station equipment. The engineer said the investment for increased plant in 1922 depended on the conditions of business, money and labor.

"If consideration were to be given solely to what additions could be made to the entire property of the company in 1922, with clearly recognized benefits from the standpoint of removing congestion of facilities and improving the service," he added, "the statement could without hesitation be made that an expenditure of more than $50,000,000 for 1922 would be warranted."

The company invested more than $40,000,000 in its physical property between Jan. 1, 1915, and Dec. 31, 1919, Mr. Whittemore said, increasing the number of telephone stations from 562,261 to 845,440. During the first seven months of the present year the company spent $13,300,000 on additions to its plant in this city, he said, more than $2,000,000 having been spent in August. The company plans to spend about $10,000,000 more in the same way during the rest of the year, making the capital outlay for expanding service in 1920 a net total of $25,400,000.

"Large as this expenditure is," he continued, "the company planned to make it even larger. We actually appropriated $33,500,000, but physical limitation, such as getting materials and labor, has prevented doing the larger work contemplated. Because of the diminished purchasing power of the dollar, this $26,000,000 will buy only about the same amount of material as $13,000,000 would buy in 1913."

The witness introduced a table showing that the company now owns fifty-eight central office buildings, rents four and is building eleven. Some of his statements are objected to by Assistant Corporation Counsel John M. Fertig, on the ground that digests and sample figures submitted by the company were not good evidence, and that the books themselves should be shown. Chairman Hill of the commission overruled the objection, pointing out that the company had offered to permit examination of its books.

H. A. Trax, chief accountant of the company, testified that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company owns 100 per cent. of the stock of the New York company. He introduced in evidence an agreement of 1919 under which the local company pays 4½ per cent. of its income to the parent concern for the use of patented equipment, and under which the payments on long distance calls and other transactions between the two concerns are regulated.

Mr. Trax said that the opponents of the rate increase, or of the full increase requested, that a study of the relations between the two companies would show that the parent company makes large profits through its dealings with the subsidiary and that the financial condition of the New York company is not so bad as it seems when it is considered in relation to the revenue of the company. Representatives of the city and public will cross-examine the company witnesses later on this phase of the question.

Cost of Advertising.

Mr. Trax said that the company had spent $120,537 between Aug. 1 and Oct. 17 for advertising purposes, largely for advertising in the newspapers to convince the public that the requested rate increases were just.

"I am glad to get those figures," said Mr. Fertig. "I will ask some questions on that line later."

On cross-examination Mr. Trax was asked if the payment of 4½ per cent. by the New York company to the parent company did not amount to taking money out of one pocket and putting it into another.

"That is obvious from the record," said Chairman Hill.

It was urged that if these payments were not being made from company to company the books of the local concern would not show the deficit which has appeared in the last month. It was argued that one set of books lost money, while another set profited, but that the same interests which owned both concerns were making money out of their operation of the telephone business. The company's contention on this point is that the royalty is a proper charge for the patented equipment and that the operation of the company should show a fair profit over and above the royalty charges.

The controversy on this line will probably be taken up in detail at the next hearing on the rate application, which will be held next Monday in the Hall of Records.

KINGS COUNTY GAS DIRECTORS RESIGN

Three Quit Following Threat of Service Commission to Subpoena Members.

The threat of the Public Service Commission last week to subpoena the very rich Directors of the Kings County Lighting Company to explain why the company did not extend its mains so as to serve all of its area, proved to be futile yesterday, when it was announced at the hearing before Deputy Public Service Commissioner Donnelly that three of the Directors had resigned. The three are: F. M. Tait, President of the company; George O. Knapp and C. K. G. Billings. In resigning they also disappeared from the jurisdiction of the commission.

Ralph Elsman, former Vice President and General Manager of the company, was elected President. The only Director who attended yesterday's hearing was Elton Parks. After the hearing it was announced that Commissioner Donnelly asked that an order be prepared directing the company to obtain gas necessary to meet all demands from the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company and to make the necessary connections. Chief Gas Engineer Merrifield of the commission testified that the Brooklyn Borough Company could supply the Kings County Company with 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day.

G. A. Morrison, who built seevral dwellings in the Bay Ridge district, testified they had remained vacant and could not be disposed of because of the lack of gas service. Mr. Morrison said that if he could obtain the necessary permits he would install a private gas plant big enough to serve one hundred homes.

Expert witnesses testified that the plant of the Kings County concern was too small to enable it to serve any new customers, but that it was feasible for the company to tie its mains in with those of the Brooklyn Borough Company so that the latter could sell its surplus to the Kings County Company. It came out through the testimony of Mr. Elsman, president of the latter company, that a connection already existed with the Brooklyn Union Gas Company.

"We made this connection last Winter," Mr. Elsman explained, "to enable us to keep up the pressure and not to obtain an additional supply of gas, because the Brooklyn Union Company has no gas to spare. Our engineers are working on a plan to tie in our company with the Brooklyn Borough Company. The connection may be made within two months."

A delegation from the territory of the Kings County Company called on Corporation Counsel John T. O'Brien and asked his aid. He assured them he would ask the Attorney General to institute a suit to annul the company's franchise for its failure to give service.

B. & O. TO LAY OFF MORE.

Fewer Men Said to be Needed Now to Repair Equipment.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—About ninety men are to be laid off at the Mount Clare shops of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad by Nov. 16, it was decided today. Nearly 150 men were discharged a week ago.

The layoff, it is said by officials, is due to a natural dullness, which may last but a short time. Much of the equipment that was in bad condition following wartime operations has been put back into first-class shape and the shops now have to deal only with routine repairs.

WHEAT PRICES DECLINE.

Active Selling on All Advances Responsible for Drop.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—All grain prices today, with the exception of December wheat and corn, set at a new low record. The December wheat, which was at $1.86⅜, equaled the old low made in the early part of October. At the start prices declined steadily with the general selling, which was going on with some lack of support. But later there was a good buying of shorts and also by commission houses which led to a fair rally.

There was active selling on all advances, which was responsible for wheat not reaching the close of Saturday. Most of the trade was of local character.

HEARING IS BEGUN ON SCHOOL CLOSING

Proposal to Permit Pupils to Get Religious Training Wednesday Afternoons Opposed.

BOARD ROOM IS CROWDED

Proponents of Resolution to Present Their Arguments at Meeting on Nov. 15.

The hearing on the question of closing public schools at 2 P. M. on Wednesdays to allow pupils to receive religious instruction in churches, halls or other places in co-operation with the Interdenominational Committee on weekday observance, was begun last evening by the special committee of the Board of Education at Fifty-ninth Street and Park Avenue. The board room was crowded, the women far outnumbering the men.

Among those present were: Bishop Charles S. Burch of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, Mgr. Lavelle and W. Burke Cockran. Chairman George J. Ryan, Arthur S. Somers and M. Samuel Stern formed the special committee.

Mr. Ryan said the board was anxious to get free and frank statements on the subject. The board would weigh all the opinions. Opposition to the resolution would be heard first, he said, and each speaker limited to fifteen minutes.

Thomas Wright of the Free Thinkers' Society said he had no prejudice against any man because of his religion, but he wanted religion kept out of the public schools. He disputed the contention that morals and religion meant the same thing, and cited figures from the Superintendent of Prisons' report to show that in this State the proportion of criminals was the largest among the Roman Catholics, next among the Protestants, then the Jews, while among the pagans and peoples of other beliefs the proportion is smallest.

W. S. W. Silver, President of Local School Board No. 14, also opposed the proposition: first, because it violated the Constitution and also because of the difficulty in putting it into effect. The Rev. William Milton Hess of the National Patriotic Society said it would never do to allow church and State to become one and that the schools should be kept entirely free from religious interference.

Miss Sarah H. Conant of Public School No. 31, Manhattan, said she believed such an innovation would bring about strife in the schools.

Mrs. H. G. Eberling of the Bronx Committee said this matter had been fought out four years ago when a similar motion was defeated. She relied upon the Board of Education to "throw the resolution in the waste basket and to keep the flag of our country flying and the schools free from danger." Frederick K. Divine of the Sons and Daughters of Washington favored having the Bible read in public schools, but was opposed to the introduction of religious questions in the schools.

Chairman Ryan announced that the next meeting of the committee would be at 8 P. M. on Nov. 15 and that those favoring the resolution would be heard.

KITCHIN SEEKS LEADERSHIP.

Will Quit Ways and Means Committee, if Chosen by Democrats.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Representative Claude Kitchin, former Chairman of the House Committee on Ways and Means, and majority leader of the House during Democratic control, has arrived in Washington and announced that he is a candidate for minority leader in the next Congress.

Mr. Kitchin said that if elected floor leader he would resign from the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. Kitchin suffered a stroke of paralysis last year and it was thought that he would be unable to take active part in the affairs of the House. He told his friends today that he was feeling much better and that his physician said there was no reason why he should not live for thirty years. He is fifty-one years old.

FIND A BROOKLYN SLACKER.

Cripple Gets Day in Jail for Failing to Report After Armistice.

The long expected Federal roundup of draft dodgers in Brooklyn netted one prisoner yesterday. He was Richard J. Adams, 34 years old, a porter, deaf and lame, who lives at 28 Dean Street. He pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Garvin to an indictment and was sentenced to one day in jail.

Adams received a call from his draft board on Nov. 5, 1918, and was ordered to appear later that month. Before that date the armistice was signed and Adams followed the advice of his elder brother, Lawrence, who told him that the war was over and there was no need for him to report.

The defendant remarked before he was arraigned that his brother was very ill at the time he was called and that if he had left him he would have died.

BUILDING COST UP 167%.

But Senators Find No Trace of Dealers' Combine in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 8.—The cost of dwellings in Cleveland has increased 167 per cent. in the last five years and during the last three years fewer houses were erected than in the year prior to the war, according to testimony before the United States Senate Committee on reconstruction and production, which held a hearing here today.

Senator Calder, Chairman of the committee, questioned witnesses especially to determine if there existed in Cleveland any combination of building material dealers or of labor such as was uncovered in New York, but not a witness knew of any such condition here.

While some declared that lack of funds was largely to blame for the decrease in construction, F. H. Goff, a banker and chairman of the Mayor's Special Housing Committee, testified that $30,000,000 was available to those desiring to build homes.

Manhattan Business Properties.

John R. Davidson sold for the Livingston Estate to Michael Retzker the northwest corner of Greenwich and Hubert Streets, an irregular plot about 53 by 50 for improvement. This property has not changed hands for over sixty years and has been held at $80,000.

The estate of Thomas Suffern, Inc., sold to Diedrich Bleke, the five-story building on a lot 25.3 by 90 irregular, at 209 Pearl Street, southwest corner of Ferry Street.

The four-story building on a plot 26.6 by 55.4, at 170 West Street, has been sold by Reimers Dairy Restaurant to Carmelo Cannizzaro.

New Ladies' Union Club House.

The five old three-story dwellings at 152 to 158 East Thirty-sixth Street are to be altered at a cost of $80,000 into a clubhouse for the Ladies' Christian Union, now on West Forty-ninth Street. The houses have a combined frontage of 81 feet and were acquired by the organization several months ago. Plans for the changes have just been completed by Ewing & Allen, architects.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

Miss Florence Hinkle's Recital.

Miss Florence Hinkle gave a song recital yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall, where there was a large audience ready with well deserved applause. Miss Hinkle is one of the best known of local singers, with a voice and a style of great beauty, a deeply musical feeling and an unfailing technical skill that brings her intentions to full realization. The voice, singularly pure and equable in quality throughout its range, is not one that lends itself naturally to variety of color or a wide range of emotional effects; yet the singer's skill is such it is made to produce all its possibilities in this direction.

Her program included songs of widely different styles, in which she achieved a full measure of success. She began with "Intorno all' idol mio," from Marc Antonio Cesti's opera of "Orontea" of the mid-seventeenth century, whose requirements of sustained legato style she met fully, as she did with great power and nobility those of the splendid air "Sommi dei" from Handel's opera of "Radamisto," a difficult task admirably performed, as was the more animated air "Deh respirar lasciatemi," from Leonardo Vinci's "Artaserse." There was a very considerable drop from these to the song "Child of Earth," by Charles E. Horn, the English composer, best remembered by his song "I've Been Roaming" and by the pioneer work he did in the New York Philharmonic Society.

Miss Hinkle showed another side of her art in a group of four songs by Brahms. "To an Aeolian Harp" might perhaps have been sung with more emotional depth and more variety of color. But there was a notable expression of passion, a real eloquence in her singing of "Oh, That I Might Retrace the Way," and also in "My Love Is Green," in which she reverted to the original German text, after singing the others in English.

Miss Hinkle's fine enunciation of the text made it perfectly comprehensible throughout, and in all these songs the intelligence and finish of her phrasing and the highly musical quality of her style and conception were continually in evidence. She followed them with a group of French songs and another of songs in English, including two by her accompanist, Richard Hageman.

The New York Trio.

The New York Trio, composed of Clarence Adler, piano, Scipione Guidi, violin, and Cornelius Van Vliet, 'cello, entered on its second season last evening with a concert in Aeolian Hall. The program was made up of Beethoven's trio in B flat Op. 97, Franck's sonata for piano and violin and Mendelssohn's trio in C minor, Op. 66. The trio literature has many interesting works to contribute to the programs of such an organization, which, therefore, has a recognizable place in the season's musical activities. The New York Trio should be able to make commendable contributions to those activities, since its members are all excellent artists and have striven to arrive at a proper ensemble. The violin and 'cello are the first players of their instruments in the National Symphony Orchestra. Their performance of the trio by Beethoven was one to emphasize its quality as chamber music in the extreme delicacy of its softer passages and the generally rather small scale in which it was carried out; a fault, if it be a fault, much more easily pardonable than the opposite extreme.

ACTIVE BRONX TRADING.

Two Large Plots Purchased for Immediate Improvement.

Kurz & Uren sold for the Benenson Realty Company (Benjamin Benenson, President) to the Hudwill Corporation (Hudson P. Rose, President) the three-story frame house 688 East 133d Street, on a lot 25 by 100.

Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd sold for Frank Perry, Reginald Perry, Cecil Fox Perry and Langdon Perry, the plot at the northwest corner of 167th Street and Longfellow Avenue, being in size about 100 by 107, to the Kiesler Realty Company, which will erect a garage on the site.

The Meister Builders, Inc., resold the five-story new law apartment house, accommodating ten families, at 990 Freeman Street to a client for investment.

Herman Knepper Company, Inc., bought from Meister Builders the southwest corner of Washington Avenue and 174th Street and resold same to Louis Schattner and Morris Schoenholtz, the premises will be occupied by a synagogue. The same company also bought 1,777 Bathgate Avenue from Jacob Moersfelder and resold same to Jacon Linn, who is making extensive alterations putting in a store and baker's ovens.

The Wyandotte Real Estate Company sold to the 179th Street Building Corporation the plot, 100 by 100, on the north side of Home Street, 290 feet west of Westchester Avenue.

Pauline Berman sold to Andrew McGinley the two-story dwelling at 1,560 Inwood Avenue, 25 by 130.

William W. Niles sold to John T. S. Kellos the two-story dwelling on the north side of 203d Street, 120.9 feet east of the Concourse.

The Herman Knepper Company and Samuel Silverman bought a plot 215 by 212 feet on the westerly side of Third Avenue 100 feet north of 174th Street which will immediately be improved with four loft buildings of 50 feet each.

PRIZES FOR BUILDINGS.

Fifth Avenue Association to Make Awards at Annual Dinner.

The annual dinner of the Fifth Avenue Association to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria promises to surpass in interest and attendance the dinners of other years. Augustus Thomas, the playwright, will act as toastmaster, and the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, and Martin W. Littleton will be among the speakers.

A survey of the many important activities inaugurated by the association the last year in safeguarding the interests of the Fifth Avenue district clearly points to the fact that its strength of membership has made it possible to accomplish the results it has in the interest and for the benefit both direct and indirect of each member and to protect as well the greatest retail commercial avenue in the world.

During the war the association discontinued the awarding of medals for new buildings and alterations, but will at the dinner award a gold and silver medal and diplomas for the first and second best new buildings and alterations made during this year in the Fifth Avenue district.

The prize winners have been selected by the Committee on Architectural Harmony of the Fifth Avenue Association, which is made up of Walter Stabler, Controller of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, chairman; Michael Dreicer, Robert D. Kohn, H. Van Buren Magonigle and C. Grant LaFarge. Mr. Stabler and Mr. Dreicer are directors of the association and the other members are architects designated by the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Remodel Old Thalia Theatre.

Plans are being prepared by Shampan & Shampan, architects, for extensive alterations to the old Thalia Theatre at 46-48 Bowery, for Acierno's Amusement Corporation as owners. Changes will consist of enlarging balcony and boxes, and increasing exit facilities. This theatre is one of the old landmarks of New York City.

Recent Buyers.

Max Polisk is the buyer of the shop and dwelling at 504 East Seventy-sixth Street.

NEW APARTMENT ON RIVERSIDE DRIVE

ESTIMATED TO COST $900,000

Other West Side Operations Projected—Phelps Estate Leases Park Avenue Apartment.

In the realty market yesterday there was a fair degree of activity in apartment houses. Of particular interest as showing the trend of building operations was the announcement that plans are being prepared for a fourteen-story apartment house to cover a plot 95 by 100 feet at the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 148th Street. It was said that work will begin within a short time. The new structure will be erected by Joseph Paterno and Anthony Campagna, who have put up a number of west side apartment buildings within the last few years. In the immediate vicinity of the new operation they have erected recently apartments on the north and south corners of the Drive and 146th Street and on the north corner of 147th Street. The cost of the 148th Street corner building will be about $900,000. The architect is George Fred Pelham.

Plans are being prepared for the erection by Mr. Campagna of two additional west side apartment structures, one being on the northwest corner of West End Avenue and Eighty-fourth Street, a fourteen-story building, to cost $1,000,000, from plans by G. Ajello, and the other a nine-story structure at 246 and 250 West Seventy-fifth Street, to cost $300,000.

Park Avenue House Leased.

The four-story apartment house at the northeast corner of Park Avenue and Ninety-first Street, being 1,141 Park Avenue, fronting about 21 feet, has been leased for twenty-one years for the Phelps Stokes Estate by Leon S. Altmayer. The building will be entirely reconstructed.

East Side Apartment Deal.

The six-story apartment house at 52 East 103d Street on a plot 40 by 100, near Madison Avenue, will be taken over by the 52 East 103d Street Corporation, with B. Braverman, R. M. S. Putnam and S. I. Goldberg. Title to the property is held by Bernard Turtle and others.

To Mayor Hylan
the Board of Estimate and the Board of Aldermen

At a meeting of the Board of Aldermen to-day, the most important matter to be considered will be the proposal to Exempt New Housing from Taxation!

This is a relief measure for the benefit of the entire population of New York, and it should be passed at once. The law, as passed by the State Legislature, should be accepted without reservations.

Think what this Law
Will do for the people!

Lots, served by two subways and suitable for improvement with apartments and dwellings, 8 to 14 minutes from Midtown Manhattan, will be sold for whatever they will bring, at

ARNSTEIN WINS POINT BUT STAYS IN JAIL

U. S. Supreme Court Reverses Judge Manton's Refusal of Habeas Corpus Writ.

PLEA TO BE TRIED ON MERIT

Washington Trial of Men Accused of Big Wall Street Bond Thefts to Begin Soon.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Julius W. ("Nicky") Arnstein won a victory in the Supreme Court of the United States today. The Supreme Court reversed the judgment of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York in the matter of his refusal to answer questions in bankruptcy proceedings instituted in that court by the National Surety Company.

The official record of court reads as follows: "Jules W. Anstein, appellant, vs. Thomas D. McCarthy, U. S. Marshal for the Southern District of New York. Appeal from the District Court of U. S. for Southern District of New York. Final order reversed with costs and cause remanded for further proceedings ff conformity with the opinion of this Court."

In its opinion, the Supreme Court said:

"The judgment of the court below must be revised and the cause remanded for further proceedings in conformity with this opinion. The writ was refused upon the theory that by filing schedules without objection the bankrupt waived his constitutional privilege and could not thereafter refuse to reply when questioned in respect to them. This view of the law we think is erroneous. The schedules standing alone did not amount to an admission of guilt or furnish clear proof of crime, and the mere filing of them did not constitute a waiver of the right to stop short whenever the bankrupt could fairly claim that to answer might tend to incriminate him. It is impossible in the light of the circumstances disclosed that they could have been answered with entire comity."

The court quoted as follows from the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution:

"No person shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself."

Arnstein was present when the opinion was handed down. He was greatly elated over the action of the court.

The National Surety Company alleged to be creditors of Arnstein because banking institutions, which were the company's bonded customers, had lost large sums by alleged thefts by Arnstein of securities which he is charged with having disposed of outside of New York. On Sept. 10 Arnstein was sent to jail for refusing to answer questions he held might tend to incriminate him. On that day Arnstein applied for a writ of habeas corpus, the application was denied by Judge Manton, sitting as District Judge. The case was taken to the United States Supreme Court on appeal from this action.

Commenting on the decision last night, Saul S. Myers, attorney for the National Surety Company, said:

"I have been in touch with the Solicitor General of the United States, who argued the Arnstein matter for the Government, and I am informed that the United States Supreme Court did not release Arnstein at all as has been reported from Washington, the situation is this:

"Judge Manton and Judge Hough refused to even consider granting a writ of habeas corpus, saying the case was too plain for argument. The United States Supreme Court says that, as a matter of practice, Judge Manton should have granted the writ and should have had the United States Marshal bring Arnstein into court and should have heard both sides and then considered whether, upon all the facts, Arnstein should have been compelled to answer questions relating to the missing securities.

"The decision simply means that Arnstein will be brought back from Washington and the writ of habeas corpus will be argued all over again. In the meantime Arnstein will be obliged to remain in jail.

"The trial of Arnstein, Sullivan, Bowles, Easterday and others will begin in Washington next Monday, and Mr. Dooling and I will leave tomorrow with the evidence and witnesses and will assist United States Attorneys Leakey and Archer in the preparation of the case.

"I am authorized by William B. Joyce, President of the National Surety Company, to say that no effort or expense will be spared to bring 'Nicky' Arnstein, Nic Cohen, Randolph Newman and the others to justice."

"Nicky" Arnstein was taken to Washington last week to answer an indictment with David W. Sullivan, head of Sullivan & Co., brokers, and others on a charge of talking stolen securities into the District of Columbia.

Arnstein's trial in General sessions here was to be called several weeks ago. Assistant District Attorney Dooling was unable to go ahead with the trial however, because he was preparing evidence for the trial of Edward H. "Big Bill" Furey, which began yesterday before Judge Rosalsky and a jury in General Sessions.

Co-ordinated Advertising

An Advertising Manager Who Knows How

This message is addressed to those manufacturers who are now, or plan to become important advertisers and who desire highly efficient executive direction in their advertising and promotion efforts.

Because of specialised experience, I am in position to create, direct and carry on a co-ordinated advertising campaign that will produce results commensurate with funds invested.

The present "buyers' market" necessitates intensive advertising. Advertising funds must be put to work on an economical basis; must make one dollar do the work of two; must develop new, and sustain present business. Thus, a full measure of success, can be secured onl by co-ordination with every artery and channel of your business. I desire to make a change about December 1st. Now located in New York City and prefer to remain in this vicinity; 31 years of age; married; served overseas as a fighting soldier; thoroughly familiar with every detail of advertising and sales promotion.

MY BROCHURE—"Co-ordinated Advertising"—is an interesting treatise on the subject and contains a chart of value to any executive. It also outlines my experience since 1911, supported by the opinions and estimates of my work and character by those whom it has been my pleasure to serve. I shall be pleased to send this brochure to interested principals. Confidence to be mutually observed. Address S 521 Times.

For Business Floors

Is Your Office Noisy?

PERHAPS the trouble is the floor. There's a remedy—Armstrong's Linoleum.

An Armstrong floor muffles hurrying footsteps, and does away with the reflected sounds that reverberate through an office when floors are of wood, concrete, or tile.

Linoleum is springy to the tread, non-slippery—easy to walk on and easy to stand on. It provides a thoroughly comfortable floor, cool in summer and warm in winter.

Then, too, you'll be glad to have a floor that is so easy to clean, so easy to keep in good condition. The durability of Armstrong's Linoleum has been proved in hundreds of office buildings, and on the decks of battleships.

Before you plan your building, consult your architect about Armstrong's Linoleum floors. We can supply him with data and specifications for installing linoleum as a permanent floor. Good stores in your vicinity are equipped to furnish estimates and do satisfactory laying.

A good way to install linoleum is to cement it down firmly over a layer of builders' felt paper. This method insures a smooth, solid, watertight floor.
